DEFEAT OF ILLINOIS MINE PAY CUT IS AGAIN INDICATED

Returns From 107 of 240 Locals Show 16,556 Against and 11,757 for Basic Scale of $5.

SECOND REFERENDUM ON THE QUESTION

Crushing Rejection of Proposal in Home Unions of the State and International Presidents.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 6.—With the ballots of more than one-half of the state's 45,000 miners tabulated, defeat of the second $5 basic wage scale referendum tonight appeared a certainty.

Returns from 108 of the 240 locals qualified to vote showed 16,556 against the scale and 11,757 for it. Three weeks ago 95 of these 108 units polled 17,017 no and 6374 yes on the question of acceptance.

While the figures indicated 6000 more miners went to the polls today than in the previous election and voted in favor of the scale, little hope was held by observers that returns yet to come would change the margin materially.

Most of the large locals already have reported. The 108 locals polled a total of 28,313, or about 8000 votes less than were cast by all 240 locals in the last referendum.

Walker and Lewis Rebuked.

Crushing defeat was administered International President John L. Lewis and President John H. Walker, chief champions of the scale, by their own locals. Walker's local, No. 492, Springfield sub-district, voted 19 for the scale and 304 no—a loss of 40 from the previous referendum. Local No. 1 at Panama to which Lewis belongs, voted 330 against and 32 for. Lewis gained 52 votes, however, from the previous ballot.

Lewis received the returns at an office he maintains in a downtown hotel and Walker at home. Neither would comment at this stage, though Lewis promised a statement later.

Williamson County, which previously cast about 1000 votes in favor of the new scale, today cast 2000 in favor, and Saline County, which previously voted 1000 majority against the scale today voted only 400 majority against. Ten of the Herrin locals cast 1440 yes and 7 no.

Members of the two large locals at Zeigler increased their vote in favor of accepting the proposed agreement. Local No. 790 voted 522 against and 113 in favor while Local No. 4069 voted 657 against and 178 in favor. There were only 93 votes cast in favor of the contract by both these locals on the previous referendum.

Five hundred voting miners of Penwell and Pana mine union locals voted more than 2 to 1 against acceptance.

Won't Try to Operate.

President-Manager Warren Penwell said if the agreement lost in the State referendum he would not attempt to operate his mine this fall and winter, because he could not meet the competition of Kentucky and West Virginia non-union mines. He said his mine had been operated at a heavy loss the past five years.

The proposed basic daily scale of $5 is compared with a $6.10 minimum under the contract which expired March 31, last. The new scale was agreed to after protracted negotiations between union officials and operators.

In a referendum three weeks ago participated in by 35,000 members of the union, the new scale was defeated, 25,000 votes to 10,000.

Since then union officials, led by Lewis and Walker, have strenuously campaigned for adoption of the revised $5 scale as the best possible under present economic conditions. The joint action of the two officials apparently healed a controversy of long standing between district and international union leaders. The revised scale differs only slightly, and not in wage figures, from the proposal the miners defeated three weeks ago.

TRADING IS HEAVY IN RISING MARKET

Biggest Half-Day on New York Stock Exchange in Two Years.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—In a frenzy of trading such as Wall street has not witnessed in a half-day session in more than two years, the stock market completed a week of steeply rising prices with a big display of bullishness today.

Extreme gains in many issues ranged from $1 to $12 a share, and final prices were near the best.

The skeptical bear element, which has been inclined to attribute the upswing to "strong arm" methods on the part of certain financial interests, to politics or to incipient inflation, found itself in a painful predicament as it tried to cover its short commitments. Floor traders said trading in at least two prominent issues came to a standstill for a brief interval, as no offerings appeared to fill the urgent demand.

Brokerage quarters buzzed with excited gossip of pools and rumors of other measures which were being, or might be taken to restore prosperity. The rumors involved, among other things, President Hoover's acceptance speech due next week, pools to boost commodity prices and plans to revive trade with Soviet Russia.

Some conservative banking quarters warned that there was danger that the speculative enthusiasm might reach unwarranted extremes, and in the long run actually damage the cause of business recovery.

Bankers said the sharp upturn in securities prices had undoubtedly greatly strengthened the banking situation throughout the country, through appreciation of banks' investment portfolios, and the restoration of the value of securities put up as collateral for loans. A number of New York banks were said to be advising their out-of-town correspondents to use the higher prices to eliminate doubtful items from their investment portfolios, and generally to get their investments in ship shape.

Sharpest gains in the market appeared in issues in which there was believed to have been a large short interest. It was notable that many issues have more than doubled in price in the past several weeks. Bears pointed out that a number of issues which have about doubled in price were shares of companies which were still operating in red ink.

1,000,000 Miles in Airplane.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 6.—More than 1,000,000 miles and 10,600 hours of air travel were completed tonight by Charles E. Peeples, pilot of a passenger line plane between Dallas, Tex., and Kansas City. His flying career has included work as an instructor at Marshall, Mo., and as an air mail pilot between Pueblo, Colo., and Cheyenne, Wyo.

BRITISH PREPARE REPLY TO OFFERS FROM DOMINIONS

Answer to Proposed Conditions for Trade Agreements Expected to Be Made This Week.

BALANCE SOUGHT ON COMMODITIES

London Experts Said to Have Placed Canadian Proffer Below $100,000,000 Estimated.

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 6.—A British answer to offers within the Empire made as a condition for trade agreements between the Dominions and Great Britain is expected early next week.

All the plans were in the hands of the British delegates to the Imperial Economic Conference today, the British experts concluding their examination of Canada's offer, dealing particularly with its potential value to British export trade.

Previous unofficial estimates placed the Canadian figures at $100,000,000, but it was understood the report of the British experts was considerably below this sum.

Delegates to the conference tonight were on the way back from the ceremonial opening of the Welland ship canal at Thorold to see what progress hard-working committees left behind had made toward economic disarmament of the British family. Most of them were from countries which had made offers to Great Britain conditional on the return of specific favors.

Commodity Trade Balance.

In unofficial conversations here they expressed a belief that the economic future of Great Britain would be insecure unless her commodity trade were more closely balanced, unless she developed new shipping by increasing the exchange of Empire products and unless she could be convinced that investments from this time forward in other British nations could be far more important to her than those that have been placed in the past in Argentina, Russia, Germany and other foreign countries.

A new British conception which would extend preferences to certain natural resources of the dominions already seemed assured in the belief that the United Kingdom could not hope to gain large new markets within the Empire for manufactures if she limited preferences on dominion products.

Some were inclined to believe they might have asked more from the Motherland than she is likely to ask in return and more than they expect to receive. But, it was pointed out, if the conference is to close on an equitable basis, they must get more than they give.

Britain Has Two Hopes.

For one thing, they offer raw resources, the prices of which are largely controlled by prevailing world commodity levels, with the result that their profits from new trade would be fixed to some extent by forces outside their control.

This is less true in manufactured products which the United Kingdom hopes to sell. Britain, to a larger extent than the Dominions, was understood to be able to assure herself of a profitable basis of trade on new commerce created by the conference.

Also, to the extent that Britain continues to be the banker to the Empire, the Dominions believe they require a favorable balance of trade with her if they are to meet their financial obligations.

On the British side two separate hopes are before the conference, in the belief of delegates here. There is a desire to see a broad formula adopted whereby Canada and the other dominions would abandon their plan of levying duties on what they call the "real value" of goods in terms of foreign production costs rather than on invoiced prices.

Some new policy also is sought to replace the one under which the British currency is given a fixed value—a value said actually to be in excess of the price fixed on the pound sterling in the money markets of the world—in fixing values for duty purposes. This policy was declared to deprive exporters of benefits they ordinarily would expect to receive through the depreciated state of the pound.

Foreign Outlet Necessary.

The one factor regarded as working against the commonwealth of nations letting down the bars to products of each other except under bilateral agreements on certain commodities was the fact that the

SENATOR ASSAILS REFUSAL OF LOAN TO PENNSYLVANIA

Pittman Says Congress Decided Not to Give Discretion in Matter to R. F. C.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Senator Pittman (Dem.), Nevada, said today the Reconstruction Corporation's refusal to grant the State of Pennsylvania a $10,000,000 unemployment relief loan "must be changed immediately or the small amount provided by Congress will be wrapped up in red tape while people die."

Pittman asserted the Corporation exceeded its authority in declining the loan on the ground that the Pennsylvania Legislature had not adopted adequate measures to help the State. He said Gov. Pinchot filed the required certificate showing relief money available in the State and the amount needed, and held the Corporation had no authority "to determine whether the facts set out in the certificate were true or not true."

He added that Congress debated fully whether discretion should be given the Corporation in passing on destitution loans and decided against it.

"This is not a gift to the states; it is a loan that is amply secured," he said. "The act places the entire responsibility on the Governor of the State. There is no responsibility on the Reconstruction Corporation. It has not the machinery to find out the facts even if it had the authority. If they had the machinery, it would take months to ascertain the facts, while human beings were starving."

NEW WELLAND SHIP CANAL IN CANADA FORMALLY OPENED

British Empire Statesmen from Ottawa Conference Attend Ceremony.

By the Associated Press.

THOROLD, Ont., Aug. 6.—Canada's new Welland ship canal, an internal link in the St. Lawrence Waterway, was officially opened to world commerce here today.

The Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General, pulled a control lever while a band of British Empire statesmen from the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa and thousands of spectators looked on.

His act followed upon speeches by R. J. Manion, Canadian Minister of Railways and Canals; Prime Minister Richard B. Bennett, Stanley Baldwin, former Prime Minister of England, and other Empire representatives. Lord Bessborough and Prime Minister Bennett described the importance of this purely Canadian contribution to the St. Lawrence seaway as a progressive step in facilitating international exchange of produce. After the Governor-General pulled the control lever and declared the $130,000,000 canal open the freighter Lemoyne, one of the largest fresh water ships in the world, with a cargo of 515,000 bushels of wheat, moved down from lock seven to six. The fourth development in the Welland Canal in more than 100 years, it is regarded by engineers as the most difficult achievement builders of the St. Lawrence Waterway will be called on to accomplish. Connecting Port Colborne on Lake Erie with Port Weller on Lake Ontario, the canal is 25 miles long and has eight locks, with a minimum depth of 25 feet.

FURTHER THREATS BY FLYER TOLD OF AT MURDER TRIAL

Testimony by Associate That Capt. Lancaster Hurried Back to Miami to "Get Rid" of Clarke.

NO POWDER MARKS, UNDERTAKER SAYS

He Also Testifies That Body of Young Florida Writer Bore a Bruise on the Shoulder.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 6.—Testimony that the body of Haden Clarke, young writer, was bruised and bore no powder marks and that Capt. W. N. Lancaster had threatened to "get rid" of him was introduced today in the prosecution's effort to prove the British flyer killed Clarke because of jealousy over Jessie M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix.

The condition of Clarke's body was described by K. B. Bess, funeral director, who prepared it for burial. Over objections by J. M. Carson, chief defense counsel, he was allowed to testify that in his experience bullet wounds unprotected by clothing always bore powder marks in cases of suicide. He also said he found a bruise on Clarke's shoulder.

The defense contends Clarke killed himself because of despondency over financial troubles, a disease he had contracted and remorse for having stolen from Lancaster the affections of his flying partner.

He was shot to death in a room he and Lancaster occupied at the home of Mrs. Keith-Miller within 12 hours after the flyer had returned here hurriedly upon being notified Clarke and Mrs. Keith-Miller planned to marry.

Tells of Threat.

The testimony regarding threats was the second such charge made against the former British army pilot since the trial began Tuesday. Previously, J. F. Russell, who was associated with Lancaster in a flying venture for Latin-American Airways in the West, told of threats made by Lancaster when he heard of intimacy between Clarke and Mrs. Keith-Miller while he was away.

Today M. G. Tancrel, who identified himself as a naval captain and who also was connected with the Latin-American Airways venture, testified Lancaster told him in Nogales, Ariz., that he was going back to Miami to "get rid of that ——," referring to Clarke.

Questioned further by State's Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne, Tancrel said that on another occasion he heard Lancaster tell an old flying companion in El Paso: "I have seen a lot of dead men and one more won't make any difference."

Hurriedly Resigned.

At the time he made the remarks, Tancrel said, Lancaster was greatly concerned over reports from Miami that Clarke had supplanted him in Mrs. Keith-Miller's affections.

Tancrel declared Lancaster resigned hurriedly from Latin-American Airways and started back to Miami when he heard of the attachment growing between Mrs. Keith-Miller and Clarke, who when he left here, had been working with Mrs. Keith-Miller on her life story for publication.

Tancrel, who is awaiting trial on a charge of personating a naval officer, was asked by Carson if he had told a United States Marshal he would gladly testify against Lancaster. "I did not," he answered.

"Did you not tell the Marshal that Lancaster spoiled your business venture and you would be glad to testify against him if you thought he would fry for killing Clarke?" Carson insisted. "I did not," the witness replied.

He denied he had "anything against Lancaster," recalling that they are both Britons.

Assists Attorney.

Carson, with Lancaster frequently rising to whisper suggestions in his ear, questioned the witness' veracity on a number of stories he said Tancrel had told Lancaster. Tancrel said he had never told Lancaster he was a naval Captain.

The attorney pounded on a question whether Tancrel was a member of the Paperhangers' Union in Washington. "I never told Lancaster that," the witness said.

"Are you a paperhanger:" "No."

"Didn't you tell him you had hung thousands of square miles of wall paper?" "No, I didn't. I

TWO MEN CHARGED WITH MURDER OF MISSING BANKER

Warrants Issued Although Body of Taylorville, Ill., Man Under Prison Sentence Is Not Found.

SEIZED AT HOME AND CARRIED AWAY

One of Suspects Fired at J. B. Colgrove After Losing $5000 in Failure of Depository.

By the Associated Press.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Aug. 6.—Though his death had not been definitely established, two men were charged in warrants today with kidnaping and slaying John B. Colgrove, former president of the defunct J. B. Colgrove & Co. State Bank.

They were James Gammatoni, 35 years old, unemployed miner and disgruntled former depositor in the bank, and Amelio Pouzzouti, 32, who gave his address as Detroit.

As State's Attorney Harry Grunday prepared to question the men, officials announced informal questioning already had revealed discrepancies in their stories.

Meanwhile, authorities continued a hunt over two counties for the body of the former banker, whose institution failed three years ago with loss of more than a million dollars.

Officers and neighbors rushed to his small home last night after hearing his screams and found a room in great disorder and some of the furniture blood be-spattered. Neighbors said they saw the banker dragged by two men to a parked automobile.

Arrested at His Home.

Gammatoni was arrested at his home while washing what police believed was blood from his automobile. In his house was found Colgrove's wallet. Gammatoni told police blood on his clothing came from rabbits he had killed. Two years ago, officers said, Gammatoni fired twice at Colgrove but missed. The bank president refused to prosecute the man who had lost $5000, his life's savings, through the banks failure.

Pouzzouti, also a miner, admitted, officers said, he had stayed at Gammatoni's home for two months, although Gammatoni denied knowing him. The Detroit man professed ignorance as to what caused the stains on Gammatoni's car.

Colgrove, himself, was under sentence of three years' imprisonment in connection with charges resulting from his bank's closing and was at liberty pending an appeal to higher courts. He lived alone.

Much hostility toward Colgrove had developed from the closing of the institution, particularly among the residents of the foreign colony. Officers said that Gammatoni had made threats against three former officials of the institution.

Threats Against Others.

It was reported that Gammatoni extended his threats to the vice-president, Ralph Hicks, at his home in Bloomington, and then visited the Southern Illinois penitentiary under the guise of a friend and threatened Harry Gallagher, the former cashier, who is already serving sentence.

Each time he was said to have demanded his $5000 back.

Gammatoni was confronted with the cigar box found in the top dresser drawer in his room at the home of Mike Galssi, four miles north of Springfield at Deveraux Heights, and showed the contents—Colgrove's diamond ring, his purse which contained $26, personal railroad passes, and the list of contributors to his defense fund and a newspaper clipping telling of his attempt to appeal his three-year penitentiary sentence to the Supreme Court.

Gammatoni denied he had ever seen the box or the property of Colgrove found in it.

DEPUTY SHERIFF KILLED AT POLLS IN KENTUCKY

Miner Stabbed in Neck—Another Man Sought—Details Obscure.

By the Associated Press.

PINEVILLE, Ky., Aug. 6.—Deputy Sheriff Frank Bowman was killed and Henry Kirby, a miner, was stabbed in a fight at the primary polls at Arjay, Ky., five miles from here, today. County Attorney Walter B. Smith immediately issued orders to capture Clark Clouse, also a miner, "dead or alive."

Details of the clash were not immediately available, but it was said at Arjay, Bowman pulled his pistol as he lay on the floor of the election booth and fired at the fleeing Clouse. Clouse was thought to be hiding in the hills. It was not known who stabbed Kirby.

Kirby was brought to the hospital here, and is expected to recover. The fight arose as the result of dissention between two Republican factions. Recent disorders attending "investigating groups" being ejected from this section also was thought to be an underlying cause.

CAIRO, ILL., GIRL LEAPS TO DEATH FROM DALLAS HOTEL

Rosemary Johnson Leaves Notes Saying She Feared Failing Eyesight.

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 6.—Miss Rosemary Johnson, 19-year-old girl from Cairo, Ill., leaped to her death from the eleventh floor of a hotel here, today. She fell eight stories to the mezzanine roof.

A note found in her room said she thought she was about to lose her sight and had had financial difficulties. There were two letters, one addressed to Frederic R. Johnson, her brother, and Mrs. Ethel Dowling, both of Cairo. Police notified Johnson.

Detectives said they learned Miss Johnson registered at the hotel late yesterday and paid one day's rent.

She was a former student at the University of Illinois. She was married to another student but the marriage was annulled. This resulted in a suit against the youth's parents. Her brother achieved a reputation as a college orator.

WALKER SAYS HE IS TRIED ON FALSE ACCUSATIONS

Charges Based on Misrepresentations He Declares, on Receiving Notice to Face Accusers at Albany Thursday.

DECISION LOOKED FOR BEFORE AUG. 20

Seabury Called With Finegan and Schieffelin, Who Have Demanded Removal of New York City Executive.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—"The Governor has decided to put me on trial Thursday on charges based upon distortion, misrepresentation and falsification of facts," Mayor Walker said tonight in reference to the notice received from Gov. Roosevelt of a public hearing Thursday at which he and his accusers are asked to be present. "I will be there on the minute at the place fixed," Walker added. "This will be the first opportunity ever given me—a right that cannot be denied to one accused of even so minor an offense as a breach of a city ordinance—to confront those witnesses upon whose one-sided and hearsay testimony my political life is sought.

"That testimony was purposely manipulated and limited to enable my political and personal enemies to cast suspicion and to afford a basis for sinister inferences, suggestions and innuendoes.

"I shall cross-examine these witnesses and bring out not half-truths—which are worse than whole lies—but the entire truth, so that the public may know the real truth once and for all concerning these foul and outrageous accusations with which I have been hounded for the past 15 months."

(No mention was made in the Governor's notices of any intention to call those witnesses who testified against Walker at the Legislative Committee's inquiry.'

Gov. Roosevelt's Telegram.

Gov. Roosevelt notified Walker of the hearing in the following telegram:

"I request that you appear before me at the executive chamber in Albany on Thursday, Aug. 11, 1932, at 1:30 p. m., daylight saving time, in order that you may be heard in respect to the charges filed with me by Samuel Seabury, William J. Schieffelin and James E. Finegan and others, and your answer thereto. I shall expect that in accordance with my telegram to you yesterday your rejoinder to Judge Seabury's reply will be in my hands next Monday. Letter follows."

To Seabury, Schieffelin and Finegan the Governor sent copies of the telegram to Walker and added:

"You will be given opportunity to be heard in respect to your charges and the answer thereto at the time and place set forth."

Seabury's Charges.

Seabury, who for more than a year was counsel for the Hofstadter Legislative Committee, investigating the New York City administration, filed with Roosevelt last June a set of conclusions drawn from the testimony taken. In them he held the Mayor had illegally used his office for private gain and had failed to explain nearly $1,000,000 in bank and brokerage accounts which, Seabury contended, were handled for him by Russell Sherwood, missing accountant.

Schieffelin and Finegan filed definite charges with the Governor demanding Walker's removal.

Walker Prepares Second Answer.

Walker was secluded in his hotel tower apartment laboring over a sur-rebuttal—a reply to Seabury's reply to Walker's reply to Seabury's "conclusions." It was this sur-rebuttal Roosevelt asked for by Monday. The Mayor said he would work on it tomorrow and have it in Albany by the time specified.

The day set for the hearing is also the one on which Roosevelt's political rival, President Hoover, will formally open his campaign with his acceptance speech.

Roosevelt's own campaign has been held up by the Walker case.

Decision Expected by Aug. 20.

His associates expect him to announce his final disposition of the case before he leaves to make his first campaign speech away from

GREENWADE TO GO AS DEMOCRATIC STATE CHAIRMAN

He Backed Howell and Dearmont — Both Clark and Wilson Will Oppose His Retention.

WEAR OR AYLWARD SUGGESTED FOR POST

A. M. Curtis to Be Renamed by G. O. P. If He Will Accept — Both Parties Elect Sept. 13.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

State Chairman C. W. Greenwade of the Democratic State Committee guessed wrong in giving his allegiance to candidates in the primary election and is to be retired from the chairmanship and possibly from membership on the committee. His re-election will be opposed by Bennett C. Clark and Francis M. Wilson, nominees for United States Senator and Governor.

It has not been decided who will succeed Greenwade, but it has been decided that he is to go. An invariable custom is for the nominees for the two principal offices to agree, if possible, on a choice for chairman and for the Committee to elect their choice.

Arthur M. Curtis of Springfield will be re-elected to the chairmanship of the Republican State Committee if he can be induced to accept. He is satisfactory to Henry W. Kiel, nominee for Senator, and Lieutenant-Governor Edward H. Winter, nominee for Governor. He is said to be disinclined to accept the responsibility of another campaign, but party leaders of influence are of the opinion he will take the job again if pressed.

Greenwade Picked Two Losers.

Greenwade picked two losers in the primary campaign. He gave his support to Charles M. Howell, the Pendergast candidate for Senator, and to State Senator Russell L. Dearmont, candidate for Governor.

The Clark forces are now organizing to defeat him for re-election to the committee. If they are successful in that he will be ineligible for the chairmanship. If he is re-elected to the committee they will oppose him for the chairmanship.

Greenwade's support of Howell might make him acceptable to Boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City, but in view of the fact that Greenwade opposed Wilson, he will not be satisfactory to the gubernatorial nominee. Some other member of the committee who meets Clark's favor and also the favor of Pendergast and Wilson will be selected. There has been considerable discussion of James P. Aylward, chairman of the Jackson County Democratic Committee, for the post, but he is not attractive to the Clark group for political reasons. Notwithstanding Aylward faithfully followed Pendergast in support of Howell, the Clark following has no objection to him personally. He is recognized as capable, but the Clark Democrats believe it would be bad politics to put a Pendergast man at the head of the state organization this year.

Bossism to Be Issue.

They know that the success of the boss in nominating his candidate for Governor, his candidates for Judges of the Supreme Court and for other state offices and Congressmen, means that bossism will be an issue in the general election campaign, as it was in the primary campaign, and they are not so certain that Pendergast will prove as strong in November as he was in August. At least, as practical politicians, they would eliminate the boss as an issue so far as possible.

An indication of the intention of the Clark following on the chairmanship was given yesterday when Rufus Jackson, Clark's campaign manager, said the Clark strength in Greene County would be exerted to bring about the election of Sam M. Wear, Springfield lawyer, to the State Committee in place of Greenwade.

Though Jackson disavowed any intention on the part of Clark to announce a choice for chairman he said: "We would rather see Wear elected to the State Committee in Greenwade's place."

There may be some question whether Clark and Wilson can agree on a chairman, but politicians expect them to get together. Four years ago Wilson and Charles M. Hay, then the nominee for Senator, could not reach an agreement, and Howell, whom Clark defeated in the primary Tuesday, was accepted as a compromise though satisfactory to neither.

Clark said yesterday that he had given the chairman ship no serious thought, and would not until he returned from a brief trip to Waterloo, Ia., to see his children, who have been visiting relatives of Mrs. Clark for several weeks.

"There is one thing I shall insist upon," Clark said. "And that is that the party does not select a chairman from the standpoint of his supposed ability as a money-raiser. Raising a campaign fund is not the job of the chairman. His job is one of organization. We want a good, capable organizer, and can find somebody else to solicit subscriptions to the campaign fund."

Wilson said in Kansas City that he had not given consideration to the chairmanship. Pendergast is on a trip East.

The new State Chairmen will be elected at meetings of the State Committees in Jefferson City Sept. 13, when the State conventions of candidates will be held there to draft party platforms. All candidates for State offices, for Congressmen, for the Supreme Court, Courts of Appeal, for Circuit Judgeships, for seats in the State Senate, and for State Representatives, and the members of the State Committees will constitute the membership of the conventions.

The members of the county committees will meet Aug. 16 in the county seats and elect members of the Congressional Committees, who in turn will meet Aug. 30 and elect two members, one man and one woman, to the State Committee. Although Congressional districts will cease to exist in Missouri next March because of the failure of districting bill, the party organizations will adhere to the old district lines in electing State Committee members.

Nearly complete returns on the Republican nomination for the governorship last night showed a lead of 6068 for Lieutenant-Governor Winter over Secretary of State Charles U. Becker.

The vote in 4195 of the State's 4205 voting precincts gave Winter 143,298, Becker 137,230, and Leo E. Koehler 79,772. The 10 precincts still out are all in Barry County, which has 39 precincts. In the 29 precincts reported in that county, Winter has a lead of 94. The returns are official for 45 counties and the City of St. Louis, and unofficial for 69 counties.

Latest Pluralities for Senator and Governor.

Returns from 3472 precincts, on the contest for the Republican senatorial nomination in Tuesday's primary, showed Henry W. Kiel of St. Louis leading by 111,216. The vote was: Kiel, 163,178; Dewey Short, 51,962; R. J. Kratky, 36,345; B. F. Beazell, 29,394, and Pearl Abernathy, 10,034.

Bennett C. Clark's lead over Charles M. Howell for the Democratic senatorial nomination, by the vote of 3751 precincts, was 75,036. The vote was: Clark, 237,939; Howell, 162,903; Charles M. Hay, 128,148; James W. Byrnes, 11,286; R. H. Merryman, 5325.

For the Democratic nomination for Governor, Francis M. Wilson was 137,040 ahead of Russell L. Dearmont in the vote of 3871 precincts. Wilson had 336,480; Dearmont, 199,440; Grover Childers, 10,901, and James L. Delk, 6074.

The vote of all candidates of both parties for Governor, with Democratic figures missing for 334 precincts, and Republican figures out for 10 precincts, has reached a total of 918,195. The total vote in the 1928 primary was 694,292. The nearly complete Republican vote is 360,300, and the much more incomplete Democratic vote is 552,895.

SOCIAL LEADER OF CAPITAL FOUND DYING

MRS. CHARLES MASON REMEY, 46, well-known in Washington social circles and wife of the capital's leading architect, who died from two bullet wounds reported to have been self-inflicted. She was found critically wounded in the bedroom of their home by her husband. Before her marriage Mrs. Remey was Mrs. Karl Danzer Klemm. She was a resident of Kansas City.

GOV. ROOSEVELT IS PUTTING ME ON TRIAL WALKER SAYS

home, in Columbus, O., Aug. 20, nine days after the hearing.

Walker is a sachem in Tammany, which opposed Roosevelt in the national convention. Since then, the organization has indorsed the Roosevelt-Garner ticket.

In calling the hearing Roosevelt followed the same procedure he did in the case of Thomas M. Farley, Tammany Sheriff, whom Seabury charged with failure to explain huge bank deposits. That hearing lasted two days. A week later the Governor ordered Farley's removal.

The Walker hearing, because there are three accusers and because there are 16 "conclusions" in Seabury's set of accusations alone, will probably last much longer than two days.

At such a hearing the Governor sits in somewhat the capacity of a magistrate and the proceedings in some respect correspond to the closing arguments of opposing lawyers after all evidence has been introduced at a trial.

In this case, however, the presiding officer may interrogate the accused and the accusers on any points on which he seeks to be enlightened.

ROMJUE EXPECTS TO BE NOMINATED BY LATE RETURNS

Congressman Running Fourteenth, but Many of Missing Precincts Are in Old District.

Backers of Congressman M. A. Romjue of Macon, Democrat representing the old First District, predicted yesterday that he would be one of the party's 13 nominees for Congressman-at-large when the returns are complete. On the unofficial returns, now in for nearly three-fourths of the State's voting precincts, Romjue is still running fourteenth. But many of the missing precincts are in his old district, and there was a prospect that their vote might enable him to displace one of the low men in the present list of the first 13.

Romjue's campaign managers considered that J. D. Taylor of Keytesville, who is number 10 in the present count, was not certain of remaining in the first 13. His showing in and around Kansas City, may not continue in the territory still to report. The Romjue managers believe Taylor may drop to fourteenth in the final tabulation, and that Romjue may take thirteenth or a higher place. They expect Congressmen Williams and Dickinson, now twelfth and thirteenth in the list, to show continued gains.

As the list now stands, it includes seven of the 12 present Democratic Congressmen, Shannon, Cochran, Lozier, Cannon, Milligan, Williams and Dickinson. The thirteenth man, Dickinson, is 12,577 ahead of the fourteenth, Romjue.

Clark's Close Margin.

In the Republican list, the thirteenth man, S. A. Clark of Carrollton, is being rather closely pressed by the fourteenth, John W. Palmer of Sedalia, the margin between them being 4566. Congressman David Hopkins of St. Joseph advanced yesterday from sixth to fifth place, and Congressman Joe Manlove of Joplin from eleventh to tenth place.

John M. Hadley of Kansas City, who held second place in the Republican list, is the elder son of the late Herbert S. Hadley, first Republican Governor of Missouri since reconstruction, and at the time of his death chancellor of Washington University, St. Louis. Hadley has not run for office before, but was president of the Young Republicans' State organization for a year. He and Manvel H. Davis of Kansas City campaigned the State together, and Davis also appears to be assured of a nomination, being seventh in the list at present.

The latest available returns are:

R. D. Johnson, Marshall, 96,833.
W. E. Barton, Houston, 91,602.

Nelson, Fulbright, Johnson and Barton, who appear to have no chance of nomination, are present members of Congress.

Southeast Missouri is not likely to be represented on either congressional ticket, as to candidates' residences. Congressman Williams, whose renomination is likely, represents the Thirteenth, a Southeast Missouri district, but lives in Hillsboro, Jefferson County, not far south of the Meramec River.

Springfield, on the other hand, has two men on the Democratic ticket, one on the Republican ticket, and has an outside chance for still another, Karchmer, who is one of the Republican runners-up.

All the present Missouri Congressmen who voted against the recent bill for immedate payment of the veterans' bonus are certain of nomination. They are Lozier, Milligan, Hopkins, Cannon, Niedringhaus, Cochran, Dyer and Manlove. The Veterans of Foreign Wars circulated an appeal for their defeat.

Congressmen Romjue, Johnson, Fulbright and Barton, all trailing, voted fo rthe bill. Nelson, also trailing, was absent when the vote was taken but said he was for it. Dickinson, who voted for it, is not yet certain of renomination. Shannon and Williams, who voted for it, appear safe.

No Plan to Build on Site From Which Troops Evicted Bonus Marchers in Capital

Intend Merely to Clear Ground for Grass-plot, Treasury Discloses—Protest Over Use of Soldiers Circulated

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The expulsion of several thousand unemployed war veterans and families from Washington by regular army troops ten days ago appeared in a new and surprising light today, when the Treasury Department disclosed, in response to inquiry, that the Pennsylvania Avenue block where rioting resulted from attempts to evict 1600 campers, is not intended as the site for any new construction.

President Hoover, in his public statement explaining his action in calling out the troops, declared that the veterans were occupying buildings which "are on sites where Government construction is in progress, and their demolition was necessary in order to extend employment in the district, and to carry forward the Government's construction program." A similar statement also was made by Secretary of War Hurley.

At the Supervising Architect's office, in the Treasury, it was stated today that plans for the block merely called for clearing away the debris and seeding the plot for grass. Moreover, it was learned that the completion of this work is likely to be delayed for weeks by litigation. A garage, an undertaking establishment and a filling station continue to occupy buildings in the block and the undertaker has appealed from a judgment in a condemnation suit.

Only 40 Men at Work.

The employment made possible by the evacuation of the veterans is limited to 40 Negro laborers, occupied in removing rubbish, and the contractor, George Rhine, told the writer that these men were members of his regular working force, and were employed on other jobs before they were transferred to the Pennsylvania Avenue location. A large crane, manned by two men, also was used for a few days in whecking the remnant of an old building.

Apparently as a result of Secretary Hurley's assertion that the troops did not set fire to any of the veterans' shelters, United States District Attorney Rover has received requests from a number of Washington residents, some of them prominent, for permission to testify before the Federal grand jury investigating the disorders. They offered to tell of seeing the soldiers fire the tents and huts of the veterans, and some also desire to testify to instances of alleged brutality on the part of the troops.

In reply, they have been told to outline, in writing, the nature of the testimony they wish to give, in order that the prosecutors may determine "whether it would be relevant to the inquiry." Attorney-General Mitchell has placed one of his assistants, Nugent Dodds, in charge of the investigation.

Praise Glassford.

Representative Mary T. Norton (Dem.), New Jersey, who is often called "Mayor of Washington" because she is chairman of the House committee which handles District affairs, today sent a letter to Police Chief Glassford praising his handling of the situation prior to the arrival of the troops, and expressing indignation over the treatment of the veterans by troops. She also denounced "the cowardly attempt to make you 'the goat' for administration policies."

"I followed your treatment of the difficult situation with profound interest," she wrote. "I think you handled it humanely, sensibly and with a great amount of tact. The citizens of the District of Columbia owe you a debt of gratitude. I might add that the administration also is your debtor, although, from reports which have reached me, your splendid services seem to have been viewed otherwise.

"I voted against the bonus because I felt that in view of the depleted condition of the Treasury it would have been unjust to ask citizens to pay a debt which is not due until 1945. However, this does not mean that my sympathies were not with the unfortunates who came to Washington, as was their right, to petition Congress for enactment of the measures they espoused.

"Not a Pretty Spectacle."

"The spectacle of American soldiers driving veterans and their families at the point of the bayonet from the national capital is not a pretty one for American citizens to contemplate. Whatever may be the outcome of the cowardly attempt to make you 'the goat' for administration policies, you have demonstrated, Gen. Glassford, that you are a real American, and I feel sure you have the admiration of the nation."

A group of Washington residents, including prominent educators and clergymen, have started the circulation of a protest against the use of the troops and the methods employed by them in driving the veterans and their families from Washington. Other residents are being asked to sign the document, which states that the local police were handling the situation "with rare skill and common sense," and that the use of the troops "unnecessary" and "brutal."

Children in Hospitals.

Local hospitals are still caring for three small children who became separated from their parents when the latter were driven from the city during the wild night of July 28.

Another has been temporarily "adopted" by the tenants of a fashionable apartment house. These waifs are Theresa Smith, 18 months old, and Janet Reamer, the same age, whose only known address is "Tennessee"; Harold Hauser, 3, and his brother, Raymond, 2, of Buffalo.

Bernard Myers, two months old, who was taken to a hospital in a critical condition suffering from the combined effects of tear gas and dysentery when his parents were driven from their camp in Anacostia, apparently is recovering. His father, a veteran, has been found and will be permitted to return to Washington for the child when it is able to be removed.

Denial that Col. U. S. Grant, grandson of the Civil War General and director of Public Buildings and Parks, was responsible for the forcible eviction of the veterans from the Anacostia camp, was made at his office today. It was pointed out that Grant gave the campers until Aug. 5 to evacuate the property. The troops drove them out exactly a week before that date.

The denial was made after the District council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, of which Col. Grant is a member, called on him to show cause why he should not be expelled from the organization because of his action against his former comrades in the World War.

Carter Appeals for Sanctuary in Mexico for Veterans.

By the Associated Press.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 6.—Shouting and cheering, the last units of the stranded bonus expeditionary force left late today in a special train for the East. The train will run to Jersey City, making numerous stops on the way.

Nine members of the party were left behind, all in hospitals. Several of these are children. Highway patrolmen reported some stragglers still roaming about the mountains.

Interest centered in the news that Doak Carter, who resigned as chief of staff, had wired President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico, seeking permission to establish a colony of the B. E. F. there. Carter's telegram, dispatched from Huntington, W. Va., to which city he went after severing his relations with the B. E. F., read:

"Twenty-nine thousand honorably discharged American veterans of the World War and their families who are homeless political refugees driven away from their national Capitol and refused admission to the various states, request sanctuary and an opportunity for temporary colonization in Mexico. Your earnest consideration will be appreciated."

Carter said he planned to stay in Huntington until he received a reply to his message.

MISSOURI SWING TO HOOVER REPORTED TO G. O. P. BY DYER

Tells Sanders at Chicago Voters Do Not Favor Change.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Commenting on the Missouri political situation, Congressman L. C. Dyer, Republican of St. Louis, today said at National Republican Headquarters that "Missouri sentiment again is showing a swing toward the President."

Reporting to Everett Sanders, chairman of the National Republican Committee, he said:

"In Missouri the people feel that the President has ameliorated a condition which otherwise would have been much more serious. They feel that having weathered the storm thus far, it would be dangerous to replace him with an untried man whose record has been one of political opportunism."

EXPLAINS COUNTY RACE STAND

Schmid Faction Denies Taking Part in Surveyor Contest.

Recorder of Deeds Schmid of St. Louis County, head of the leading faction in county Republican politics, said yesterday his organization took no part in the primary contest between Roy Jablonsky and August W. Elbring for the Republican nomination for Surveyor. Jablonsky was renominated over Elbring, 11,361 to 9023.

The Schmid organization is known to have been friendly to the Elbring candidacy, but, according to Schmid, it did not actively oppose Jablonsky in the campaign.

HOOVER NAMES HOME LOAN BANK BOARD

Ex-Congressman Franklin Fort of New Jersey Is Chosen Chairman.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—President Hoover today appointed former Congressman Franklin W. Fort, Newark, N. J., to be chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Fort is a Republican. The President also appointed other members of the new board as follows: Nathan Adams, Democrat, Dallas, Tex.; William E. Best, Republican, Pittsburgh, Pa.; H. Morton Bodfish, Democrat, Chicago, and Dr. John M. Gries, Republican, Rosewood, O.

The board of five will supervise a system of from eight to a dozen home loan discount banks which will take home mortgages and loans from building and loan associations, insurance companies and others dealing in real estate paper, to relieve the pressure upon these companies and relax their demands upon home owners.

Through the system it is expected eventually that new capital will become available for loans to finance new home construction.

The system was created at the recent session of Congress, being one of President Hoover's last major relief recommendations.

Chairman Is Ex-Congressman.

Fort was a member of the sixty-ninth, seventieth and seventy-first Congresses. He is president of the Lincoln National Bank, president of the Sussex Fire Insurance Co., vice president of the New Jersey Insurance Co., and the Eagle Fire Insurance Co., and this year organized the New Jersey Building & Loan Finance Co. to work out financial problems of the New Jersey building and loan associations.

Adams is president of the First National Bank of Dallas, vice president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and a director of the Southwestern Life Insurance Co. and the Texacana Flour Mills.

Best, a Pittsburgh attorney, is president of the United States Building & Loan League. He is a director and counsel for several building and loan associations and examiner for the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania.

Two Formerly with Colleges.

Bodfish is executive manager of the United States Building & Loan League and was formerly a member of the faculty of Northwestern University. At one time he was connected with the headquarters of the National Real Estate Board at Chicago.

Dr. Gries is an economist and secretary of President Hoover's conference on home building and home ownership. He was a director of the Harvard Bureau of Business Research in 1918 and from 1921 to 1928 was chief of the division of building and housing of the Department of Commerce. Since 1928 he has been chief of the division of public instruction in the same department.

The new banks will be established in various parts of the country, which will be divided into districts in the same manner as Federal Reserve System banks.

Recently President Hoover indicated the selection of the cities in which the banks would be established was a matter which the new board of directors would determine after they had organized.

The board will hold its first meeting early next week.

told him I had papered my house thousands of times."

"Thousands of times?" "Yes, thousands of times."

Carson said today that Clyde Pangborn, round-the-world flyer, Clarence Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic pilot, and several other aviators will arrive here by airplane Monday night to testify as character witnesses for Lancaster.

While Capt. Lancaster sat in court today, the plane he flew on the western venture seeking finances was attached by the Federal Government.

A libel was filed, alleging the airplane was flown by William Gentry Sheldon Jr. of St. Louis in Beaumont, Tex., without proper license. It is being held in storage here.

Lancaster's diary, read to the jury yesterday, recorded the defendant's opinion when he first met Tancrel that the latter was a "terrible story teller (all lies)."

Mrs. Keith-Miller, who has already been on the stand supporting Lancaster's contention that Clarke killed himself, will be recalled as the first witness Monday, State Attorney Hawthorne announced as court adjourned for the week-end.

The Prosecutor said he was only about half through with his case.

UGH THOMASSON AS SANE AS I AM,' WITNESS ASSERTS

ister-in-Law of Counsel for Realty Owner's Wife Says She Saw Him Recently.

HE TESTIFIES THAT HE VAS NEATLY DRESSED

earing Is Adjourned Until Aug. 29 by Judge Hoffmeister Because of Throat Ailment.

A witness who said she had lked to Hugh W. Thomasson as e as last Thursday and that he s "as sane as I am" testified sterday in Circuit Judge Hoff- eister's Court at the sanity hear- g started by Thomasson's second usin, Miss Elmira Townsend.

The hearing, which has been in ogress for two weeks, was ad- urned until Aug. 29 by Judge offmeister, who said a throat ecialist had advised him to take o weeks' rest.

The witness who told of seeing homasson was Mrs. Garrett Jones, fe of a physician who is a broth- of Wilfred Jones, attorney of homasson's young wife. Mrs. nes said Thomasson was taken to r home last July 2 for a visit of veral days, that he came back o weeks later for a short visit d that she saw him in East St. uis last Thursday.

Insisted on the Proprieties.

Mrs. Jones said that Thomasson, derly wealthy real estate owner, d been taken to her home by andolph Laughlin, attorney, who presents him in the sanity action. e described Thomasson as essed very neatly, with clean shirt d pressed trousers.

"We couldn't persuade him to me to the table without his coat en the weather was warm," Mrs. nes said. "He told us he had en taught as a boy not to go to e table in shirt-sleeves and that training had stayed with him."

She testified he appeared to be nd of music and even played the olin when her daughter-in-law ayed the piano.

"He played largely by ear," she d. "He did 'Home, Sweet Home' y well." Another diversion of real estate owner was to talk bbit-hunting with her husband d to recall boyhood experiences, e said, adding that he told the mily he wished he had known em 20 years ago.

"As Happy as Could Be."

On cross-examination, she said s. Thomasson came to visit him various times and that she un- rstood their home was in Chi- go. She saw him in East St. uis at a private residence on nty-second street near State eet, she said.

"And he was just as bright and ppy as he could be?" asked Pat- k H. Cullen of counsel for Miss wnsend.

"Yes, he was," Mrs. Jones an- ered.

"What did he talk about?" Cul- n asked.

"Things generally," the witness wered. "The subject of the de- ssion was brought up and I d I thought President Hoover d caused it. He said Hoover was t altogether the blame."

"Is that the most intelligent ing you heard him utter?" Cullen ked.

"Carried on Conversations."

"Well, he carried on conversa- ons. He once said that when he as a young man without any oney, his relatives didn't want m about the place but now that has money they want to put m in a padded cell."

Returning to the subject of the pression and the President, Cul- n elicited from the witness a atement that Thomasson said he as going to vote for Hoover. Cul- n asked where Thomasson was gistered and the witness said she d not know.

When the witness said Thomas- n was "just as intelligent as any n his age," Cullen forced her to mit that if he was "that smart, e's smart enough to come and tell e jury he's smart."

Must Determine Residence.

Later, with the jury barred from e courtroom, Cullen asked that e Court require Thomasson's at- rneys to produce him so that his eposition might be taken. Judge offmeister, in line with previous lings, pointed out the jury would e to determine whether Thom- son was a resident of St. Louis efore he could make such a de- and.

Mrs. Jones, a defense witness, as put on the stand out of turn order to enable her to make a ip. Her testimony as to Thom- son's immaculate habits and his eing "a perfect gentleman" are striking contrast to testimony the bulk of witnesses, many of hom have known Thomasson for ore than 25 years.

They have told of Thomasson earing the same shirt for weeks, going without socks, and being ften with trousers that did not atch his coat. Conrad E. Fred- rick, associate of Mrs. Thomas- n before her marriage and her dviser afterward, told Friday of e young woman taking her hus- and forcibly to a clothing store Chicago in August, 1930, and efusing to let him come back to . Louis until he was "fixed up." he Thomassons were married secretary of President Hoover's conference on home building and home ownership. He was a director of the Harvard Bureau of Business Research in 1918 and from 1921 to 1928 was chief of the division of building and housing of the Department of Commerce. Since 1928 he has been chief of the division of public instruction in the same department.

The new banks will be established in various parts of the country, which will be divided into districts in the same manner as Federal Reserve System banks.

Recently President Hoover indicated the selection of the cities in which the banks would be established was a matter which the new board of directors would determine after they had organized. The board will hold its first meeting early next week.

told him I had papered my house thousands of times."

"Thousands of times?" "Yes, thousands of times."

Carson said today that Clyde Pangborn, round-the-world flyer, Clarence Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic pilot, and several other aviators will arrive here by airplane Monday night to testify as character witnesses for Lancaster.

While Capt. Lancaster sat in court today, the plane he flew on the western venture seeking finances was attached by the Federal Government.

A libel was filed, alleging the airplane was flown by William Gentry Sheldon Jr. of St. Louis in Beaumont, Tex., without proper license. It is being held in storage here.

Lancaster's diary, read to the jury yesterday, recorded the defendant's opinion when he first met Tancrel that the latter was a "terrible story teller (all lies)."

Mrs. Keith-Miller, who has already been on the stand supporting Lancaster's contention that Clarke killed himself, will be recalled as the first witness Monday, State Attorney Hawthorne announced as court adjourned for the weekend.

The Prosecutor said he was only about half through with his case.

HUGH THOMASSON AS SANE AS I AM,' WITNESS ASSERTS

Sister-in-Law of Counsel for Realty Owner's Wife Says She Saw Him Recently.

HE TESTIFIES THAT HE WAS NEATLY DRESSED

Hearing Is Adjourned Until Aug. 29 by Judge Hoffmeister Because of Throat Ailment.

A witness who said she had alked to Hugh W. Thomasson as ate as last Thursday and that he as "as sane as I am" testified esterday in Circuit Judge Hoffmeister's Court at the sanity hearng started by Thomasson's second ousin, Miss Elmira Townsend.

The hearing, which has been in rogress for two weeks, was adourned until Aug. 29 by Judge offmeister, who said a throat pecialist had advised him to take wo weeks' rest.

The witness who told of seeing homasson was Mrs. Garrett Jones, ife of a physician who is a brothr of Wilfred Jones, attorney of homasson's young wife. Mrs. ones said Thomasson was taken to er home last July 2 for a visit of everal days, that he came back wo weeks later for a short visit nd that she saw him in East St. uis last Thursday.

Insisted on the Proprieties.

Mrs. Jones said that Thomasson, lderly wealthy real estate owner, ad been taken to her home by andolph Laughlin, attorney, who epresents him in the sanity action. he described Thomasson as ressed very neatly, with clean shirt d pressed trousers.

"We couldn't persuade him to me to the table without his coat en the weather was warm," Mrs. ones said. "He told us he had een taught as a boy not to go to e table in shirt-sleeves and that is training had stayed with him."

She testified he appeared to be ond of music and even played the iolin when her daughter-in-law layed the piano.

"He played largely by ear," she aid. "He did 'Home, Sweet Home' ery well." Another diversion of he real estate owner was to talk abbit-hunting with her husband nd to recall boyhood experiences, he said, adding that he told the amily he wished he had known hem 20 years ago.

"As Happy as Could Be."

On cross-examination, she said rs. Thomasson came to visit him various times and that she unrstood their home was in Chigo. She saw him in East St. uis at a private residence on nty-second street near State eet, she said.

"And he was just as bright and ppy as he could be?" asked Patk H. Cullen of counsel for Miss wnsend.

"Yes, he was," Mrs. Jones anered.

"What did he talk about?" Culn asked.

"Things generally," the witness wered. "The subject of the dession was brought up and I id I thought President Hoover ad caused it. He said Hoover was ot altogether the blame."

"Is that the most intelligent ing you heard him utter?" Cullen ked.

"Carried on Conversations."

"Well, he carried on conversaons. He once said that when he as a young man without any oney, his relatives didn't want m about the place but now that has money they want to put m in a padded cell."

Returning to the subject of the pression and the President, Culn elicited from the witness a atement that Thomasson said he as going to vote for Hoover. Culn asked where Thomasson was gistered and the witness said she d not know.

When the witness said Thomasn was "just as intelligent as any his age," Cullen forced her to mit that if he was "that smart, 's smart enough to come and tell e jury he's smart."

Must Determine Residence.

Later, with the jury barred from e courtroom, Cullen asked that e Court require Thomasson's atrneys to produce him so that his position might be taken. Judge offmeister, in line with previous lings, pointed out the jury would to determine whether Thomson was a resident of St. Louis efore he could make such a deand.

Mrs. Jones, a defense witness, as put on the stand out of turn order to enable her to make a ip. Her testimony as to Thomson's immaculate habits and his ing "a perfect gentleman" are striking contrast to testimony the bulk of witnesses, many of hom have known Thomasson for re than 25 years.

They have told of Thomasson aring the same shirt for weeks, going without socks, and being ften with trousers that did not atch his coat. Conrad E. Fredick, associate of Mrs. Thomasn before her marriage and her dviser afterward, told Friday of e young woman taking her husnd forcibly to a clothing store Chicago in August, 1930, and using to let him come back to Louis until he was "fixed up." he Thomassons were married first in July, 1930, and again in February, 1931. The subsequent litigation has been variously termed in court as "the plundering of an old man's estate," "a public scandal," and "one of the most disgraceful rackets that ever polluted the courts."

Lawyers alone have received notes aggregating $125,000 from Thomasson and his wife induced him to buy her an expensive home in Clayton and a costly automobile among other gifts. Several witnesses have said they believe Thomasson is not mentally capable of caring for himself. He owns property at Broadway and Washington avenue and Euclid and McPherson avenues, valued at $750,000.

The British experts expect to have their report on the Canadian offer ready tomorrow or Monday. It will be examined by Stanley Baldwin and his "cabinet" of seven before a conference on Monday with Premier R. B. Bennett and his Canadian advisers.

The British experts are expected to say the Canadian proposals are lopsided. Bargaining then is expected to begin, with both sides attempting to secure greater trade concessions from the other.

Hoover Would Welcome Visit from Baldwin.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. — Administration officials are hopeful that Stanley Baldwin and other delegates to the Imperial Conference at Ottawa will visit Washington on the way to their respective homes.

While no invitation has been transmitted to them, the word has been passed to the delegates through the United States legation at Ottawa that they would be welcomed here.

What bearing the Imperial Conference may have on the coming World Economic Conference and the part the two will play in shaping the future American diplomatic policy already has become the subject of speculation in Washington.

There is no expectation here that the time and place for the World Economic Conference will be fixed until Great Britain has had an opportunity to assess the results of any trade arrangements with her dominions that may flow from the present Canadian discussions.

Officials of this Government, too, would like to be able to go into the latter conference with a full knowledge of the economic position of the United States. How far this may be affected by the Imperial Conference remains to be disclosed.

There also remains to be seen what will result from the negotiations now going forward with France for a commercial treaty which will remedy some of the alleged discriminations by that country against American products. Protests have arisen particularly against the copper and some other agreements embodied in the recent commercial pact between France and Belgium.

Citizen Soldiers Parade On Annual Visitors' Day

More Than 300 Awards for Military and Athletic Proficiency Distributed at Jefferson Barracks Training Camp.

Bearing scant resemblance to the untidy recruits of a few weeks ago, youths of Camp Atwell T. Lincoln, the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Jefferson Barracks, paraded yesterday before proud parents and pleased officers.

More than 300 medals, for military and athletic proficiency and general aptitude, were awarded at the annual visitors' day, one of the principal events of the month's encampment which will end Wednesday.

Before the presentation of the trophies the 1600 student soldiers, most of them from Southern Illinois, passed in regimental review, marching with a snap which elicited the commendation of the reviewing officers.

Their evolutions completed, the companies swung from the parade ground to the music of their 75-piece band and marched to their tents, to stack arms and hasten to the stadium to receive their awards.

Most of the medals and cups were contributed by veterans' organizations and patriotic and civic bodies. Cups were presented to the best companies. Company rivalry is intense in camp.

Krueger Distributes Medals.

Col. Walter Krueger, camp commandant, pinned the medals on the youths as they stood stiffly at attention after being called to the platform. Guests of honor included visiting officers and representatives of the organizations sponsoring the different awards.

The medal for the best rifle shot in camp was awarded Harry B. Cowdrey of Virden, Ill. The best shot among the Missourians was John W. Willhite of Yukon.

One of the outstanding awards, given by the United States Spanish War Veterans to the student showing "the greatest dependability, co-operation, leadership, patriotism, cleanliness of speech and personal habits," was won by Fred J. Biggs of Neelyville, Mo. Biggs, who is attending his fourth encampment, will have the unprecedented privilege Tuesday of commanding the regiment in review before Major-General Frank Parker, commandant of the Sixth Corps Area.

Scholarship Awarded.

Russell J. Crider of Dixon, Mo., won a scholarship to Kemper Military Academy for "all-round ability." The Army-Navy Union award to the best second-year camper went to Everett Gordon of Sparta, Ill., and the award of the Atwell T. Lincoln Post, American Legion, for the third-year student showing "the highest quality of citizenship" went to Mahlon W. Caffee of Columbia, Mo.

Phillip G. Prosser of St. Louis made the best machine gun score in camp. He also received a medal given by the Missouri Society of Sons of the American Revolution for exhibiting the best qualities of leadership, patriotism, and personal character, in his company.

Arthur L. Worsick of St. Louis received one of the medals given by the Civitan Club for students showing outstanding qualities of citizenship. John A. Steinson of St. Louis and Malcolm E. Britton of East St. Louis received medals given by the Military Training Camp Association for making outstanding records at their first camp.

Athletic trophies were awarded victors in various sports and loving cups to the best companies. Some of the company awards were based on their camp records in drill and neatness while others were for championship athletic teams.

Col. Krueger addressing the citizen soldiers massed in the stadium said:

"I want to thank you individually and collectively for making it a pleasure to command this camp."

CITY TO OPEN WIDENED BLOCK OF ENRIGHT AVENUE TODAY

New 60-Foot Traffic Relief Project Between Euclid and Bayard.

One block of Enright avenue recently opened as a new 60-foot traffic relief street, between Euclid and Bayard avenues, will be opened to traffic today. Fire Engine Company No. 43, which has occupied a house on the East side of Kingshighway where Enright is to be cut through, will move on Monday to its new house, on the south side of Enright, a short distance west of Bayard.

The remainder of the Enright avenue opening is the two-block section between Euclid and Kingshighway and the block between Walton avenue and Bayard. The city is preparing to pave these portions this summer and to repave the existing block between Taylor avenue and Walton. The whole street will be of asphalt.

There also will be a cutoff at Taylor to eliminate a jog in Enright. The old engine house on Kingshighway will be torn down as soon as it is vacated. On Aug. 16 the city will receive bids for paving a cutoff to make a better connection between Enright and Franklin avenues at Grand boulevard.

HOMELESS MEN'S BUREAU HEAD IS ASKED TO RESIGN

Walter R. Hoy Says He Will Comply With Request but Files Complaint Against Steger.

Walter R. Hoy, executive secretary of the Bureau for Homeless Men, announced last night its directors had asked him to resign and that he intended to do so in the near future.

Hoy protested that his ouster had been brought about by E. G. Steger, director of the Community Fund and director of Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment. The Bureau for Homeless Men is affiliated with both organizations.

Steger, Hoy declared, had taken the initiative in proposing to his directors that he be removed on the ground that the work of the bureau had expanded beyond Hoy's capacities, and had undertaken preliminary negotiations looking to selection of his successor before officially taking the matter up with directors of the Bureau for Homeless Men.

He attributed his removal to Steger's desire to surround himself with men of his own choosing, and referred to other changes which had been made in the personnel of the Community Fund since Steger became director some months ago.

Statement by Steger.

Steger said last night his only interest in the matter had been as director of Citizens' Committee, and that in that capacity he had suggested to directors of the Bureau for Homeless Men that its operations had not been conducted in a workman-like manner. "I gave them my opinion," he said, "and recommended that they get a disinterested outsider to make a survey of the bureau's needs."

With regard to changes that had been made in the staff of the Community Fund, Steger took the position that they should be of no concern to Hoy. As director of the Community Fund, he said, he felt privileged to select his own subordinates.

Complaint against what Hoy described as the "unethical methods" used by Steger to obtain his removal has been filed with the St. Louis chapter of the American Association of Social Workers. If adjudged worthy it will be referred to an investigating committee which may submit a finding of facts. That would end the matter.

One of Hoy's complaints is that Steger sat in with directors of the Bureau for Homeless Men at an executive session Friday and that he was excluded. It was after that meeting that his resignation was requested.

"My connection with the matter," Steger said, "began and ended with a letter I wrote to Sidney Maestres, president of the Bureau for Homeless Men, offering him my opinion and suggesting the survey. I sat with them Friday at their solicitation and did no more than repeat what I had said in my letter. I left before they reached a decision and the decision was based, not on what I had said, but on the survey report."

Steger's Letter to Maestre.

In his letter to Maestre, who was out of the city last night, Steger paid compliment to the devotion, loyalty and industry of Hoy, but added his opinion that he did not possess "the strength and ability to meet the tremendous task the bureau has to perform."

The suggested survey was made by Dr. Ellery Reed, director of the Trounstine Foundation of Cincinnati. Dr. Reed's report recommended a number of changes, but on the whole, Hoy considered, it vindicated his policies.

Dr. Reed commended the anti-begging activity of the bureau and the case work of its staff. The staff itself he found "makes a relatively good showing in view of the limited number of professionally trained workers." The administrative set-up was criticised as lacking in co-operation and integration in the use of the Municipal Lodging House and Ozanam Shelter.

Improvements in the physical equipment of the Municipal Lodging House and Ozanam Shelter were recommended by Dr. Reed and he suggested that the plan of caring for men in lodging houses and restaurants be discontinued on account of its relative expense.

"The administration of work for homeless men and boys," Dr. Reed wrote," has great difficulties, especially in times of depression, and needs strong leadership, executive ability and initiative. The board can scarcely expect to get an executive with the qualities needed for the salary now being paid."

Salary $3000 a Year.

Hoy was paid $3000 a year. He has been secretary of the bureau since it was established in 1926 and for a year before that had been engaged in similar work for the Community Council. He came to St. Louis in 1923 after his graduation from the University of Missouri and served for two years as secretary of the speakers' bureau of the Community Fund and Council.

In his reply to Dr. Reed's report, Hoy set out that case work, or individual service, is the fundamental job of the Bureau for Homeless Men, and quoted from the report Dr. Reed's opinion that the case work of the bureau "is certainly far better than could be found in most cities in this type of work, especially at the present time."

He agreed that improvements in the Municipal Lodging House and Ozanam Shelter were desirable, but pointed out that the bureau does not control these, the former being administered by the city and the latter by he Rev. John J. Butler, president of the Catholic Charities. Ozanam Shelter, he recalled, was opened only last February as an emergency measure.

"If the board of directors of the Bureau for Homeless Men and its executive secretary are to have responsibility for the complete program," Hoy concluded, "then the board and its executives should be allowed to direct the work."

3 KILLED, 5 HURT IN AUTO CRASH AT BOULEVARD STOP

Flashing Signal at Lindbergh and Olive Street Road in County Where Collision Occurred.

Three men were killed and five persons were injured seriously when a passenger sedan and a meat truck collided yesterday morning at Olive Street road and Lindbergh boulevard.

Charles McCormick, 35 years old, high school superintendent at Summitt, Miss.; William Wuigh, Pine Lawn meat dealer, and Leo Klausner, 42, of Sullivan, Mo., were killed.

Injured were McCormick's wife, their three small children and Ray A. Furr, 28 years old, of Oxford, Miss., who was returning after attending summer sessions at the University of Missouri with McCormick.

Wuigh, accompanied by Klausner, was driving his meat truck west in Olive Street road and McCormick was driving south on Lindbergh boulevard, the county belt highway which is designated as State Highway No. 77.

Traffic on Lindbergh boulevard is directed to stop before crossing Olive Street road by a flashing signal placed there by the State Highway Department.

The truck was upset by the collision and Wuigh and Klausner were killed outright. McCormick died of a crushed chest soon after being taken to St. Louis County Hospital.

Mrs. McCormick and the children were also taken to County Hospital and Furr was taken to Overland Hospital. Mrs. McCormick suffered a spinal injury and the children, Charles Jr., 11 years old; Eugene, 9, and Mildred, 7, sustained skull injuries. Furr's jaw was broken and he was severely cut and bruised.

The bodies of the three men were taken to Baumann's undertaking establishment at Overland where an inquest will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Klausner's body was taken last night to Sullivan, where the funeral will be held tomorrow. Funeral arrangements for the others had not been completed.

Wuigh, who lived at 2143 Sixty-ninth street, Pine Lawn, was a meat dealer and supplied small merchants and householders along his route.

Tickets for last night's performance are exchangeable for tonight's final performance of "Sari," or for any night this week, "Land of Smiles" being the bill. The downtown box office will open at 10 a. m. today, and the office in Forest Park at noon, for exchange of tickets.

LAUNDRY CHAUFFEUR REPORTS HE WAS ROBBED OF $105

Says Negro in Alley Fled on Foot; $87 Taken in Kroger Store Holdup.

Dewick had parked his truck in the company garage on Jefferson and was walking to the laundry office. The Negro fled on foot.

Two men, one of them with a pistol, held up a Kroger grocery at 3145 Lafayette avenue and escaped in the automobile of the manager, Eugene Neuhaus. The robbers took $87 from two cash registers and $7 from a customer, Fred Schultz, 1918 Louisiana avenue. Neuhaus' car was recovered a short time later in the 2900 block of Chouteau avenue.

WIDOW FIGHTS SUIT TO ANNUL MARRIAGE

Relations Seek to Bar Her From Getting Veteran's Government Insurance.

A petition was filed in Circuit Judge Hall's court yesterday by Mrs. Nell Reagan Hamel, 3941 South Grand boulevard, to dismiss the suit of relatives of her deceased husband, Fred George Hamel, to annul her marriage to him. The petitioners allege that at the time of the marriage, June 2, 1930, Hamel, a World War veteran, was bedridden in the Veterans' Hospital, Jefferson Barracks, and was not in mental condition by reason of long illness to enter into a legal marriage. He died two weeks later.

Mrs. Hamel's petition, filed as an answer to the suit, denies the plaintiffs' allegations. Her attorney, Claude W. McElwee, said if the marriage is valid she is entitled to one-half of $8500 Government war risk insurance carried by her husband; otherwise the whole amount would go to his relatives bringing the suit, who are his mother, Mrs. Lucy H. Craven; Mrs. Juanita H. Fowle, a sister, and Charles B. and William W. Hamel, brothers.

"Engaged for Many Years.

The answer sets forth that the defendant and Hamel were engaged for many years prior to the date of the marriage, and at the request of Hamel and his mother, Mrs. Craven, one of the plaintiffs, she obtained the marriage license at the office of the Recorder of Deeds in St. Louis, Mrs. Craven signing Hamel's name as his agent; thereafter Mrs. Craven accompanied her to Jefferson Barracks, where the marriage was performed by the Rev. Vitalis Bartkowisk. "It was in all manner and form and in every respect," the answer continues, "a true and lawful marriage and each of them were of sound mind." It is further stated that Hamel possessed sufficient mental capacity to contemplate the nature and solemnity of what he was doing.

Mrs. Hamel states she had been regularly employed as a designer of dresses, from which she enjoyed a substantial income, and she married Hamel only because of her love for him, and with no thought or expectation of receiving anything out of his estate. In fact, at the time, she sets forth, she was of the opinion he had no property, and the only asset possessed by him was a claim against the Government founded upon certain insurance policies.

After his death, she further recites, all of the plaintiffs attended his funeral and each of them acknowledged her as his widow. She says she arranged for the burial with the consent of the petitioners and paid the funeral bill out of her earnings, which claim she did not file against his estate, and it is now barred by law.

Relatives File Suit.

None of the relatives, she avers, made any claim she was not the legal widow until after they learned Hamel's estate would be substantial, when, on April 6, last, they filed a motion in Probate Court asking that her authority as administratrix be revoked.

Several weeks ago Judge Hall overruled a demurrer filed by Mrs. Hamel alleging that the suit stated no cause of action. She then contended that because of her husband's death the Court had lost jurisdiction to dissolve the marriage. Judge Hall ruled that in cases where property rights were affected, the law provides for the severance of such marriages if the evidence justifies it. Under this decision Mrs. Hamel filed her answer putting the case for trial on its merits.

HOOVER TALKS WITH MACNIDER ON ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY

President at Camp for Week-End; Acceptance Speech to Be Revised Again, Aids Say.

By the Associated Press.

SKYLAND, Va., Aug. 6.—With a small group of friends and advisers around him, President Hoover tonight divided his time between rest and work in the quiet of his Rapidan Mountain camp.

He arrived at the camp before sundown, and after an early dinner he talked for a while with his guests before retiring to his own cabin.

Earlier in the day at the White House, Hoover had an opportunity to discuss the section concerning the St. Lawrence waterway, probably to be included in his acceptance speech, with Hanford MacNider, American Minister to Canada.

Although printed proofs of the acceptance address—to be delivered next Thursday night—have been made, the chief executive desires to do considerable revising, and aids of the presidential camp did not expect him to complete this before Wednesday.

Other guests included E. A. Van Valkenberg, Philadelphia publisher, and Mrs. Van Valkenberg, and Charles Hibbard, Spokane, Wash., industrialist. Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries, and Dr. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, also were present at the camp.

The cause of the explosion was unknown.

BECKER DROPS 20 FROM PAYROLL HERE

Makes Cut in Auto License Bureau Following His Defeat in Primary.

Following the defeat of Charles U. Becker, Secretary of State for the Republican nomination for Governor in last Tuesday's primary, about 20 of the employes of Becker's State automobile license office in St. Louis have been discharged.

There were 57 employes in this office, at 1902 Pine street, before the primary, when Becker was using his large personal organization in his campaign. This is said to have been the largest number which ever was on the payroll there. Last August only 14 were employed in the office.

The dismissals are effective immediately. Those discharged were receiving $100 to $200 a month. The only explanation given them was that their services no longer were required. Some of them, it is understood, had been employed on the recommendation of party committee members or others of political influence.

Among those discharged was Charles H. Hug, who had been a candidate for the Republican nomination for Sheriff but withdrew. He was notified on Friday of his dismissal, effective tomorrow. He had worked in the office three and a half years.

O. P. Caulfield, Deputy Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, in charge of the office, went to Jefferson City last Wednesday. On Thursday orders for the discharges were received by Arthur Michler, Caulfield's assistant. Caulfield could not be reached yesterday. He is a brother of Gov. Caulfield, who advocated the defeat of Becker in the gubernatorial contest and the nomination of Lieutenant-Governor Winter.

Last May Becker announced that 78 "temporary" employes of the motor vehicle registration department were being dropped from the payroll, including 23 in the St. Louis office. Employes of the local office said yesterday that none was dismissed here at that time. The automobile registration department is busy only in the early part of the year. The Commissioner of Motor Vehicles is a subordinate of the Secretary of State.

DEPORTED SLAYER OF TWO DENIED RE-ENTRY INTO U. S.

Vincenzo Cipriano Takes Appeal! Killed Wife and Brother-in-Law in Detroit.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—A board of special inquiry at Ellis Island decided today that Vincenzo Cipriano, who was deported in 1926 after killing his wife and brother-in-law, cannot enter the United States again. Cipriano arrived here from Italy on July 26 with his second wife. They had transportation for Detroit, but were detained at Ellis Island pending investigation.

Appeal was taken as soon as today's decision was reached by the board of inquiry. Final disposition of the case will be made at Washington.

Cipriano was convicted of manslaughter for killing his first wife and Charles Gentile, her brother, on Oct. 30, 1925, in Detroit. He served a year and then was paroled on condition he leave the country.

He married his present wife in Palermo, Italy, several years ago and she did not know of the killings until today.

DENIES ATWATER KENT DEAL

Head of Company Says He Will Continue to Run Firm.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—A. Atwater Kent, head of the Atwater Kent Manufacturing Co., today denied that his company was to be acquired by other interests, or that he himself would withdraw from the business. He said his denial was called forth by recent rumors of his retirement.

"My answer," he said, "is that I intend to stay in the radio business and that the Atwater Kent Manufacturing Co. will continue under my sole ownership and management." He said the company was in an excellent position to make the most of a business revival, which he believes is not far distant.

MOVE TO CUT HIGH INSURANCE PREMIUMS

State Department Acts to Set Aside Circuit Court Order.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 6.—The State Insurance Department today started action in an effort to set aside a Circuit Court order under which 70 insurance companies have collected premiums 16 2-3 per cent greater than approved by the department since June, 1930.

The Insurance Department, through Glenn Weatherby, an assistant Attorney-General, filed in the Cole County Circuit Court a motion to set aside the order to impound the difference between the old and new rates. If successful in this, Weatherby said, he then will seek an order to return the impouned funds to policyholders.

Weatherby sought to set aside the impounding order on the grounds that the Missouri Supreme Court, in a recent decision, held the impounding illegal. The court held in effect that the law under which the impounding order was issued made no provision for the impounding or increased rates, but only for the impounding of funds when the Insurance Department ordered decreases.

Approximately $750,000 now is impounded under the Circuit Court order. Approximately 150 other companies are collecting the in creased rates under Federal Co injunction.

JEWELRY ROBBERS TERRORIZE FOUR IN HOME FOR AN HOUR

Two Armed Men Tie Dr. and Mrs. Bert Bebee in Apartment, Lock Maid and Janitor in Closet.

Jewelry valued at $6780 and $150 in cash were stolen yesterday by two armed men who invaded the apartment of Dr. and Mrs. Bert Bebee on the second floor at 501 Purdue avenue, University City.

The robbers remained for more than an hour and drove away in Mrs. Bebee's automobile after tying her and her husband to their bed with hosiery and locking the apartment janitor and a Negro maid in a closet.

When Dr. Bebee, a physician, went to the garage in the basement of the apartment about 11 a. m. to get his automobile, he found the robbers there, and lying on the floor, bound with ropes, the janitor.

In the basement the robbers took $50 and a $750 diamond ring from Dr. Bebee, and then ordered him and the janitor back upstairs to the apartment. Fearing to alarm his wife, who has a weak heart, Dr. Bebee called to her, as they entered, "Get ready, honey, this is a holdup."

Revolver Against Side.

One of the robbers walked over to Mrs. Bebee, who had been sitting in a chair in the living room, and placing his revolver against her side demanded to know where she kept her jewelry.

Mrs. Bebee was too startled to reply and when she remained silent the robber began to count. At "three," he assured her, he would shoot.

At "two" Mrs. Bebee called to the Negro maid and told her to get the jewelry from her dressing table. The maid brought a jewel box to the robbers and they ransacked the dressing table, taking $100 from a purse.

The jewel box, Mrs. Bebee said, contained a $2300 diamond bracelet, a $2000 solitaire diamond ring, and $850 dinner ring, a $500 diamond necklace, a $300 wedding ring and an $80 wrist watch. All were insured.

The telephone rang insistently while the robbers were in the apartment, but they refused to let anyone answer it. "You are too nervous," they said, "you'd give us away."

Yields to His Plea.

Preparing the leave, the robbers ordered the Bebees, the maid and the janitor into a closet. Dr. Bebee pleaded with them, out of consideration for his wife's health, not to lock her in the closet. They yielded, but tied her and the doctor to their bed with hosiery. The maid and the janitor were locked in the closet.

Soon after the robbers left Mrs. Bebee freed herself, just as Dr. Norman Rathert, a dentist with offices in the Arcade Building, arrived at the apartment. Dr. Bebee had had an appointment with him and Dr. Rathert, unable to reach him by telephone, had called to learn the cause of the delay. He notified police.

William O. Selby was sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary last February for robbing Dr. Bebee of $40 and $920 in jewelry in his office at 3214 South Grand boulevard. Selby pleaded guilty of that and another robbery.

SAYS TOURIST BUSINESS HERE OFFERS 'TREMENDOUS FIELD'

Morton J. May Urges Development of Such Trade and Cites Financial Gains.

Development of the tourist business in St. Louis was urged in a statement issued yesterday by Morton J. May, president of the Famous & Barr Co., and head of the Associated Retailers of St. Louis, in behalf of the St. Louis Convention, Publicity and Tourist Bureau.

May, calling attention to a "tremendous field" for tourist business, pointed out the financial gain to hotels, stores, theaters, auto supply houses and other businesses patronized by tourists. A State Highway Department survey in July, 1931, he said, showed that 261,968 persons entered the city during the month from the West alone.

SENTENCED IN WOMAN'S ESCAPE

Ex-Convict Aided Husband-Killer, Recaptured Since.

By the Associated Press.

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 6.—David Minton, 45-year-old ex-convict, was sent to the State penitentiary today to serve a term of from one to five years for assisting Mrs. Lyda Southard, husband poisoner, to escape May, 4, 1931.

Mrs. Southard, 39 years old, was returned to the prison Thursday to complete her term of from 10 years to life imprisonment for the murder of her fourth husband, Ed F. Meyer. She was arrested last week in Topeka, Kan., the capture disclosing she had married again, for the sixth time. Minton, who completed a two-year term for forgery two weeks before Mrs. Southard escaped, pleaded guilty to charges of arranging for her flight over a prison wall. He was captured in Denver in July. Mrs. Southard's last husband, Harry Whitlock of Denver, has laid claim to the $500 reward offered for her arrest, contending he supplied the information which put officers on the trail.

MAN KILLED BY WIFE HANDLED $500,000 IN THREE YEARS

Hearing of Widow for Murder of Joseph Pollak of Chicago Continued Until Friday.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Records of a bank account through which he had handled $500,000 in three years, and the fingerprints of his self-made widow went today to swell police files in the killing of Joseph Pollak.

Mrs. Dorothy Pollak, the 26-year-old defendant arraigned today with her father, Simon Mysza, in Felony Court, was bewildered by the latter procedure. The prosecutors were impressed by the former.

Discovery of his second large account, made at the Depositors' State Bank by detectives, corroborates reports that Pollak, shot to death by his wife on July 27 at their home, was one of the "big shots" of the stockyards area. He was known as a dealer in alcohol, but investigation indicates that he may have regarded this as only a side line, with his major business the lending of money.

Prosecutor Harry Gabel conceded that since Mysza was the father of Dorothy Pollak and the statute explicitly provides that blood relatives of a defendant cannot be held as accessory after the crime of murder, he would nolle prosse the charge against him, which was done. Since Mysza still is held under a Coroner's mittimus, however, the move accomplished nothing on his behalf, and he was returned to the county jail. Defense Attorney W. W. O'Brien said he would seek a habeas corpus for him on Monday. Mrs. Pollak's case was continued until Friday by Judge Edelman.

Bullet Hits Official's Auto.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6.—Erwin P. Werner, City Attorney of Los Angeles, and his wife, Helen M. Werner, narrowly escaped a bullet which shattered the windshield of their motor car as they were driving today. Werner said he thought the bullet was from the gun of a hunter, but police are investigating a report that a large black sedan had been following the Werner car.

SECOND SUIT TO BREAK CAMPBELL WILL FILED

Public Administrator Acts on Behalf of Recluse's Invalid Brother.

A second suit to set aside the will of Hugh Campbell, wealthy bachelor recluse who lived with his invalid brother, Hazlett Kyle Campbell at 1502 Locust street, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday on behalf of the brother.

The suit, brought by Public Administrator Schuler on behalf of Hazlett Campbell, was occasioned by the recent filing of a suit to claim the $1,100,000 estate for Harry and Adolph Furman who alleged that they lived next door to the Campbell home at one period of their pre-adolescence and that Hugh Campbell, in 1912, promised their mother he would adopt them and make them his heirs.

The Public Administrator alleges that Hugh Campbell's memory had become so impaired by his physical condition and his worry over Hazlett, that "he became of unsound mind within the meaning of the law."

Free Swimming for Scouts.

THIRD OF STATE SENATE TO BE NEW

Six Republicans and Four Democrats Lost in Primary or Did Not Run.

Numerous changes will take place in the membership of the State Senate at the end of this year, regardless of the fortunes of the senatorial nominees in the November election, as 10 of the present Senators, whose terms expire, will not return, either by reason of voluntary retirement or because they were defeated in the primary election.

Six Republicans and four Democrats, nearly one-third of the 34 members of the Senate, will retire at the end of the year. Seventeen Senators, or one-half the membership, are to be elected in November, in the odd-numbered senatorial districts.

The Republicans to retire are Frank B. Warner, veteran member from the Twenty-ninth (St. Louis) District, who was defeated for renomination; Manvel H. Davis of Kansas City, Seventh District, who was nominated as a Republican candidate for Congressman-at-large; Dr. A. G. Hildreth of Macon, Ninth District, who was not a candidate; Irvin Bringes of Sedalia, Fifteenth District, not a candidate; Rev. A. J. Rehkop of Warrensburg, defeated in the primary for a congressional nomination, and Richard F. Ralph of Valley Park, veteran member from the Twenty-fifth District, not a candidate.

Whitecotton Defeated.

The four Democrats retiring are James H. Whitecotton of Paris, serving his fourth term from the Thirteenth District, who was defeated for renomination; Derwood E. Williams of Troy, Eleventh District, not a candidate; Russell L. Dearmont of Cape Girardeau, Twenty-first District, who was defeated in the primary for the Democratic nomination for Governor, and Ralph Wammack, Bloomfield, Twenty-third District, who was not a candidate.

The Democratic nominees in the 17 districts, as a result of the primary election Tuesday are: First District, Charles O. Roberson of Rockport; Third, Senator B. T. Gordon of Liberty; Fifth, Senator M. E. Casey of Kansas City; Seventh, Jerome M. Joffee of Kansas City; Ninth, Frank P. Briggs of Macon; Eleventh, Carroll Wisdom of Bowling Green; Thirteenth, George D. Clayton Jr. of Hannibal; Fifteenth, Joseph L. Kennedy of Marshall; Seventeenth, James H. Russell Jr. of Chilhowee; Nineteenth, W. L. Hixon of Ozark; Twenty-first, Langdon R. Jones of Kennett; Twenty-third, James C. McDowell of Charleston; Twenty-fifth, Clarence L. Shotwell of Baldwin; Twenty-seventh, Senator Phil M. Donnelly of Lebanon; Twenty-ninth (St. Louis) District, William J. Doran of St. Louis; Thirty-first (St. Louis) District, Senator Michael Kinney of St. Louis; Thirty-third (St. Louis) District, Senator Joseph H. Brogan of St. Louis.

Republican Nominees.

Republican candidates did not file for nominations in seven districts, the Third, Ninth, Eleventh, Thirteenth, Twenty-first, Twenty-third, and Twenty-seventh.

The Republican candidates in the remaining districts are: First, Senator E. C. Curfman of Maryville; Fifth, Robert M. Chambers of Kansas City; Seventh, Forest W. Hanna of Kansas City; Fifteenth, Clarence H. Tucker of Slater; Seventeenth, T. L. McCormick of Warrensburg; Nineteenth, Senator John C. Harlin of Gainesville; Twenty-fifth, George F. Heege of Kirkwood; Twenty-ninth, John T. Manning, who defeated Senator Warner for the nomination by 67 votes; Thirty-first, Louis E. Chatham of St. Louis, and Thirty-third, Jacob Schucart of St. Louis.

The complete list of nominees for State Representatives will not be available until after the State canvass of the vote by the Secretary of State, which will be made after all counties transmit their official primary election reports. The entire membership of the House, 150 Representatives, is elected every two years.

HUSBAND-SLAYER IS FREED TO CARE FOR HER CHILDREN

Granite City Woman Says Recent Financial Troubles Led James Taylor to Drink and to Beat Her.

An inquest will be held tomorrow into the killing of James Taylor, 38-year-old filling station proprietor and World War veteran, by his wife, Victorio, at their home in Granite City Friday night.

Mrs. Taylor, who is 32 years old, was released yesterday without bond on her promise to attend the inquest. Her release was to permit her to care for her children, Alvin, 10, and Frances, 6 years old.

Taylor was found dead with four bullet wounds in the side after his wife ran screaming from the home, which adjoins the Taylor filling station at 1418 Edwardsville road. She handed a .38-caliber revolver to Alvin, who was visiting across the street, and, unaware that her husband was dead, was taken to police headquarters.

"Jim had been drinking for several months, and we had been quarreling for a week," she said. "Last Wednesday he beat me and threatened to kill me and the children. He continued his drinking, and I was in constant fear of him. Friday I sent the children away, as I feared Jim would carry out his threats.

"Friday night he beat me, then went out after telling me he would never return. I lay on a bed and made plans for going to my mother, who lives in Texas. About 11 o'clock Jim came back. He was drunk and surly. H beat me again, and demanded the revolver, which I had hidden in a dresser. He started to search for it in the dresser, but I beat him to it. Seeing no other way out I pulled the trigger. Jim fell to the floor. I don't remember how many times I fired, and do not recall what I did immediately afterwards."

The quarrels, threats, and beatings, which Mrs. Taylor says led to the shooting, suddenly disrupted 12 years of apparent harmony in the Taylor household. Until three years ago Taylor made good wages as a machinist in a Granite City plant. Then he lost his job, and opened the filling station. Recently, according to neighbors, he appeared despondent. Friends attributed his change of disposition to financial worries. Mrs. Taylor says the receipts from the oil station were sufficient to maintain the family in necessities.

When told at the police station that her husband was dead, Mrs. Taylor became hysterical, calling "Oh Jim, oh Jim, what will I do without you?" Previously she had exhibited bruises, which she said had been caused by her husband's blows.

KENTUCKY SELECTS SENATE, HOUSE NOMINEES, FEW VOTE

Despite Ideal Weather Over State, Balloting Is Light; to Be Counted Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 6.—Light voting marked Kentucky's primaries today for United States Senate and the lower House of Congress, although ideal weather prevailed over the State.

Counting of the ballots, which begins Monday, will determine the Democratic nominee for the Senate and the nine nominees of each party for the House. The Republicans will nominate their candidate for the Senate in a State convention here Sept. 7.

The three Democrats seeking the senatorial nomination and all but one of the 27 seeking congressional nomination are listed as against the eighteenth amendment. A majority of the 22 Republicans seeking nomination to Congress are listed as favoring the amendment.

Redistricting made necessary by the reduction of Kentucky's congressional delegation to nine from 11, recently was declared void by a Federal Court, consequently all congressional nominations and elections this year are at large.

GUNMEN FIRE INTO JAIL AT SLAYER OF DEPUTY

Minnesota Prisoner Who Killed Peace Officer Is Not Injured.

By the Associated Press.

HASTINGS, Minn., Aug. 6.—Four shots were fired into the Dakota County jail last night in an effort, officers said, to kill Harold Wilder, confessed slayer of a deputy Sheriff.

Sheriff J. J. Dunn said several men drove up to the jail and one fired four times into Wilder's cell. Wilder was not hurt. The men escaped.

Wilder killed Deputy Sheriff Rudolph Fischer early yesterday, grabbing another deputy's pistol from its holster while being questioned. With Dewey Sharpe, another prisoner, Wilder escaped but was recaptured by a posse. Sharpe was in another part of the jail last night during the attack on his companion.

SLAIN SALESMAN

SLAYERS OF AUTO SALESMAN ARE SOUGHT IN ILLINOIS

Two Young Men to Whom Eldridge N. King Was Demonstrating Car Are Hunted.

A verdict of homicide at the hands of "parties unknown" was returned by a Coroner's jury at Overland yesterday in the murder of Eldridge N. King, salesman for the Weber Implement & Auto Co., 1829 Locust street, who was found shot in the back late Friday afternoon on a wagon track across a deserted farm in Carondelet Township.

Search is being continued in Illinois for two sun-burned young men who identified themselves to an employe of the Weber company as "Reynolds and Lackey," and who, police believe, murdered King and stole the flashy green Hupmobile cabriolet which they had asked him to demonstrate to them.

Descriptions of the men and of the automobile were telephoned Friday to headquarters of the Illinois State police and to the Chicago Police Department, after two persons reported seeing the car headed toward Chicago.

Tattoo Marks on Arms.

Both of the men had tattoo marks on their arms, and the larger of the pair had some sort of a figure tattooed on his chest so that with his shirt collar unbuttoned it was partly visible. Employes of the Weber company, who paid only slight attention when the men came in to ask for a demonstration, recalled that the tattooing on the larger man's chest was green. They were unable to remember what the figure was.

The car is bright green, with a cloth top which disappears into the body when lowered. Fenders are lighter green than the body and the six wire wheels are encased in removable chromium sheaths.

The car, which bore a dealer's license, D-66KK, was seen going east across the Municipal Bridge by two employes of the Weber company who were returning from an East St. Louis service call. This, however, was before King had been reported missing and several hours before his body was found.

Car Seen Near Hartford, Ill.

It was seen near Hartford, Ill., by Walter K. Young, Hupmobile dealer at Alton, who reported, when he learned that King had gone out in the car Friday morning, accompanied by two rough-looking strangers and had failed to return, that he had noticed the green cabriolet on State Highway 3, the route to Chicago.

King's watch and wallet were missing when he was found, and there was only 14 cents in his pockets. Police are inclined to believe the killing may have resulted from his resistance to robbery.

Funeral services were held last night for King at the Fendler Undertaking Co., 744 Lemay Ferry road. Burial will be Church Hill, Tenn.

Brother and Pastor Here.

King was 35 years old and had been employed by the Weber company about seven years. He roomed at 5567 Hebert street. Surviving him are three brothers and two sisters.

Ted Marshall, a salesman for the Lambert-Graves Automobile Co., was shot and fatally wounded Sept. 10, 1929, by two men who had posed as prospective automobile purchasers. After he had driven them to a point near Caseyville, Ill., they robbed him of the Oldsmobile coupe which he was demonstrating and $10. He was shot when he protested and died in the hospital three days later. The assailants never were apprehended but they did not escape with the coupe as the motor was killed in the struggle with Marshall and they apparently did not know how to re-start it.

DRYS TO OUTLINE STAND FOLLOWING HOOVER'S SPEECH

McBride of Anti-Saloon League Slated to Talk Two Days After President Accepts Nomination.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. ...—Two days after President Hoover's acceptance speech, the attitude of the Anti-Saloon League in the 1932 campaign will be discussed publicly for the first time by F. Scott McBride, general superintendent.

League officers said today that McBride, now on vacation, would speak at Winona Lake, Ind., on Saturday, Aug. 13. They expect him then to give an interpretation of the prohibition issue as outlined in the party platforms and statements of the respective candidates.

While board action would be required to put the league formally on record, McBride's utterances largely will sound the keynote for whatever position may be taken officially.

The league supported Hoover in 1928. But since this year's conventions its public views have been confined to concurrence in two statements issued by the National Prohibition Board of Strategy analyzing the platforms and records of President Hoover and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Praise for Administration.

"During the presidency of Mr. Hoover," one of these statements said, "Federal enforcement of the prohibition laws has steadily advanced and has attained a higher degree of efficiency than in any other period since the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment. * * * In his acceptance speech he will doubtless deal further with this subject."

Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive secretary of the Board of Strategy, has said his group also may take a more pronounced stand between the parties after the Hoover speech.

Meanwhile, he made public an analysis of New York's wet and dry votes during the last 12 years, covering presidential, gubernatorial and United States senatorial elections.

This tabulation, Dr. Dinwiddie said, "was known to certain leaders at the Republican National Convention" and also is familiar to officials close to the President.

"The most significant fact about the analysis of the New York elections is the sorry showing made by the Republicans for the past 12 years in almost exact harmony with the wetness of the Republican nominees and the Republican Legislature," Dinwiddie's summary said.

"The record is one that he who runs may read. Even a child will not take as many risks with fire as the New York Republicans have been willing to take in toying with the liquor cause."

Anti-Saloon League Quiet.

Anti-Saloon League activities this year have been devoted chiefly to the collection and dissemination to local dry groups of information on the prohibition views of congressional primary candidates.

But league officers are looking further ahead than the election. Both party planks would have any new amendment submitted to state conventions instead of legislatures for ratification.

Edward B. Dunford, league counsel, is making an exhaustive legal study and analysis of this method of ratification—one which never before has been tried. He is delving into the relation of Federal and state powers over such conventions, seeking the answer to such questions as the qualification of candidates, whether they shall be elected at large or by districts, whether Congress should appropriate for expenses of such conventions and whether such conventions can be compelled by Congress.

"This question may end up in the Supreme Court some day," Dunford said today. "Most every other constitutional amendment, if ratified, has gone there."

JUDGE S. G. NIPPER SUED FOR $2223 ON TWO NOTES

Action by Franklin-American Trust Co. Against Member of Appellate Bench.

The Franklin-American Trust Co., which was recently absorbed by the First National Bank, filed suit in Circuit Court yesterday against Simon G. Nipper, a Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, on two promissory notes. One is for $2000, signed in April, 1931, which matured July 18, of that year, and has not been taken up, the petition alleges.

The other claim is on a balance due on a note for $700, signed May 2, 1931, secured by corporation stock. The bank sold the collateral last May 25 for $541, and it sues Judge Nipper for the difference due on the note, amounting to $223.85. He could not be reached last night.

Judge Nipper recently resigned as a member of the Appellate bench but his resignation does not take effect until Sept. 1. He explained he resigned because he had an opportunity to engage in a profitable law business.

Most Brilliant Meteor Shower For Years Predicted Thursday

Astronomers Look for Unusual Perseid Display After Midnight When There Will Be No Moon.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—Astronomers predict the most brilliant shower of shooting stars in several years, after midnight next Thursday.

These flaming stars are the Perseid meteors, which have been visiting the earth annually in midsummer for 1100 years. Usually they have to compete with moonlight, but this time the moon sets around midnight.

The Perseids are a vast, elliptical ring of particles of cosmic dust and stones, two or three billion miles long and about 50,000,000 miles wide. This great stream of dust circles the sun in a comet-shaped orbit.

Each year from mid-July to mid-August the earth cuts through the stream. There seems to be a concentration at one place, which the earth passes about Aug. 11, accounting for the shower. The meteors are scattered, averaging ordinarily from 15 to 50 an hour.

There is some doubt about the precise position of the dense portion of the stream, so that observers are warned ot be on the lookout also after midnight before and after Thursday.

The meteors travel about 1200 miles an hour and flame into the brightness of rockets at about 60 miles altitude. They come from the northeast; from the position of the constellation Perseus.

There is no record that a Perseid ever fell to the earth's surface. The chances of meteors striking in cities and towns recently was computed by C. C. Wylie, astronomer of the University of Iowa. He found that the total number reaching the ground in the United States is possibly 170 annually, most of which are never observed. On this basis he figured that in the seven years since 1925, 18 meteors should have struck in urban territory in this country. Actually, in the period, he says, only one has been reported, a meteor which fell into the back yard of an Illinois home in 1927.

The public is invited to count the Perseids this year. The counts are wanted by astronomers. They are a real aid in the study of meteors, says Dr. Charles P. Olivier, director of the Flower astronomical observatory of the University of Pennsylvania. The counts should be mailed to him.

"We are anxious to have accurate counts," he says, "made by one person covering each hour or each half hour, at as many stations as possible. The American Meteor Society will undertake to reduce and publish all counts submitted. Directions for observing may be had by writing Flower Observatory, Upper Darby, Pa., inclosing a stamped addressed envelope. We want counts on the nights of Aug. 9-10, 10-11 and 11-12."

CAULFIELD RECEIVES PLEAS FOR CLEMENCY FOR MEADOWS

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 6.—Many pleas for Andrew B. Meadows, under sentence to be hanged in St. Louis Aug. 12 for his part in the burning of the Buckingham Hotel Dec. 5, 1927 with a loss of seven lives, have reached Gov. Caulfield's office within the last few days.

Most of those asking clemency for Meadows, the Governor said, believe that Meadows was a "tool."

The Governor once refused to take any action in behalf of Meadows. Later, however, the Missouri Supreme Court granted a stay of execution from July 15 to Aug. 12.

REYNOLDS' CHUM FREED ON BOND ON MURDER CHARGE

Facts Against Albert Walker "Show no More Than Bailable Offense," Prosecutor Says.

By the Associated Press.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Aug. 6.—Albert Walker, co-defendant with Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds in the murder charge arising from the death of her husband, Smith Reynolds, obtained his release on bond today, while attorneys for the still absent singer made plans to keep her out of jail.

Walker, 19-year-old chum of the young heir to the Reynolds tobacco millions, who was fatally shot a month ago today, was released on $25,000 bond at a habeas corpus hearing. His father, B. B. Walker, retired real estate dealer, signed the bond.

The State offered no opposition to the petition for bail. Solicitor Carlisle Higgins, chief prosecuting officer, announced in open court that the evidence available did not appear sufficient to support a non-bailable charge.

First Degree Murder Charged.

Libby Holman and Walker were indicted on a first degree murder charge, a capital offense, ordinarily not bailable in North Carolina. Higgins consented to the fixing of bond, however, with a reservation that there should be no prejudice to his right to press a first degree charge at the trial.

The Solicitor declared his course in the Walker case could not be construed to indicate he would consent to bond for Libby Holman, who is expected to come to Winston-Salem soon and give herself up.

"That is a different case," he said. "I cross no bridges until I come to them."

Among those in the courtroom was Libby Holman's father, Alfred Holman of Cincinnati, who arrived here yesterday with the announced purpose of arranging bail for his daughter, pending her trial.

Says Libby Holman Will Surrender.

After learning North Carolina law made it impossible to get bail for her while she was technically a fugitive from justice, Holman engaged local attorneys.

Holman said he expected his daughter to surrender not later than Tuesday, declaring he could not give the exact date, but intimating she might reach here even earlier. "We are making every effort to get her in shape to give herself up," he said.

The desire of Holman to save his daughter the inconvenience of a stay in jail was explained by Benet Polikoff and his associate, William Graves, attorneys engaged in a formal statement as being due to the fact that she had not recovered from the shock of the tragedy, and in addition was an expectant mother.

New York Attorney Arrives.

Samuel Liebowitz, New York criminal lawyer, arrived here late this afternoon, accompanied by John Terry, described as a special investigator. Liebowitz flew to Raleigh, then came here by automobile, driven by Richard L. Dunstan Jr., an employe of Benet Polikoff.

Holman denied Liebowitz had come to Winston-Salem by his request.

Polikoff said Liebowitz told him he had been asked by Broadway friends of Libby Holman to stop at Winston-Salem, while on his way to Atlanta to see Al Capone, and look into the murder charges against the singer.

Walker's Bail Hearing.

Judge A. M. Stack called the habeas corpus proceedings of Walker after attorneys for both sides had conferred and reached an agreement.

No testimony was offered. The transcript of the evidence taken at the Coroner's inquest, which found that Reynods met death from a gunshot wound inflicted by unknown persons, was made a part of the defense petition.

After Bailey Liipfert, one of Walker's attorneys, had formally announced the agreement, he made a brief plea for a low bond.

Higgins would make no recommendation as to the size or the bond but stated his attitude to the petition as follows: "The facts now before us show nothing more than an offense that is bailable."

Prosecutor Explains Stand.

Oscar Efird, law partner of Liipfert, in pressing the defense appeal for a moderate bond, told the Judge he construed the Solicitor's statement as indicating that the available evidence would not warrant a more serious charge against Walker than that of being an "accessory after the fact."

Higgins demurred to this construction, and the Judge informed Efird that he had nothing to act upon but a murder indictment.

In the discussion the Solicitor stated evidence was lacking to support a contention of "premeditation and deliberation," essential elements in a first degree murder case.

Sheriff Doubts Suicide.

Sheriff Transou Scott is on record as saying he does not believe the 20-year-old Smith Reynolds took his own life. He appeared twice before the grand jury which returned a murder indictment late Thursday.

Scott has stated several times he has gathered additional evidence since the Coroner's inquest adjourned July 11, but he has declined to give any inkling of it.

While the next regular term of court will not start until Oct. 3, but a special term is tentatively scheduled for Sept. 5.

Production costs were at heir peak while audiences had eached a depression minimum.

The Newark performances justiied the belief that "The Land of miles" would duplicate its Europ ean successes in this country and ecome personal triumphs for Miss Baxter and Mr. Newdahl. They ixed the purpose of the Shuberts or a most lavish production on roadway and also determined em to postpone that production ntil a revival of business justified t.

The Shubert plans for the Broadway showing are so far advanced hat Municipal Opera will be able o present the Lehar opus with the riginal costumes and properties hich Broadway is to see later.

"THE LAND OF SMILES" might have for its theme that dictum of Kipling's, "For East is East and West is West nd never the twain shall meet." It presents a story of romantic rama based upon an actual incident of the Boxer rebellion in hina. That incident was taken by Victor Leon as the basis of his play, "The Yellow Jacket," from which he American libretto to Lehar's peretta has been adapted.

As the story unfolds in dramatic action upon Municipal Opera's tage, Chu Chang, Prince Regent f China, has been sent by the Manchu Empire to Vienna as Ambassador from the flowery kingdom to the Imperial Court of Austria. He is entertained by Count Lichtenfels, whose romantic daughter, the Countess Ilsa, falls in love with him as does he with her. Her youthful lover, Gustav von Popenstein, a sub-Lieutenant of Hussars, iolently opposes the Prince's attentions to the Countess, for he argues that love between individuals of different races can never result happily. But his argument only makes the more determined the headstrong Countess, who, intrigued by the charming suavity of the Manchu Prince, refuses to heed the warnings of both Popenstein and her father. She accepts the proffered hand of Prince Chu hang and it is arranged that their arriage shall take place in China. But, once in Peking, the lovers discover that dynastic obligations are barriers to their union. In this crisis the sincerity of the Oriental contrasts notably with the flighty determination of the romantic girl, and Ilsa in the end goes off to happiness with her hussar.

MUNICIPAL OPERA'S cast presents Miss Baxter in the role of the romantic Countess Ilsa, and Clifford Newdahl as Prince Chu Chang, while Allan Jones is the gay young hussar, who carries off the lady in the end. George Houston and Joseph Wilkins, also Frederick Person are other fine singing artists in the cast, while George Hassell, Harry K. Morton and Barbara Newberry are the principal fun makers. Other players will include Carl Randall, John Goldsworthy, Marie ilkins, Marie Stormer, Virginia atson and Victor Casmore among many favorites.

Franz Lehar's "The Land of Smiles" to Be Presented Tomorrow Night With Gladys Baxter Returning to the Municipal Cast to Play the Leading Role—Only Three Weeks Remain of the Summer Season Which Will End With World's Premiere of "Cyrano de Bergerac."

WITH only three more weeks remaining of the Municipal Opera season the organization will, in that time, present one old favorite; an opera, except for an amateur presentation, entirely new to the world and a Franz Lehar music play which has been seen in this country but three times when it was tried out in Newark, N. J., a couple of seasons ago. This latter show is "The Land of Smiles," which is to be put on in New York next month and which gets its first showing on the Forest Park stage tomorrow night wtih many members of the cast who are to be seen later in the Broadway production. The older favorite is "The Love Call," and the entirely new production, done once by the University Club in Toledo, is "Cyrano de Bergerac."

The brief tryout of the Lehar opus winter before last had Gladys Baxter and Clifford Newdahl in the leading roles and they will sing the same parts tomorrow night, Miss Baxter, last season's most popular prima donna in the park. returning here especially for the production. Tonight will see the final performance of "Sari."

The presentation tomorrow night of "The Land of Smiles" will actually be the first in this country with Lehar's original score, which has been especially imported from Vienna by the Municipal Theater Association. The Newark performances were with the usual theater orchestra, whereas Lehar created his work for an orchestra of 50 pieces, and much of the brilliance of his melody settings is said to be due to the cleverness of his original score.

WHEN presented in Vienna, Berlin and other musical centers of Middle Europe, "The Land of Smiles" is said to have been an international triumph—greater even than the same composer's world-famous work, "The Merry Widow." It shattered run records in the continental theaters, while in London the English version duplicated that success, and the operetta, which just recently left that capital, is now creating a furore in the British provinces. Immediately after its Vienna world premiere, the Shuberts purchased the American production rights for "The Land of Smiles," but before the production could be made chaos had entered into the Broadway theaters. Production costs were at their peak while audiences had reached a depression minimum.

The Newark performances justified the belief that "The Land of Smiles" would duplicate its European successes in this country and become personal triumphs for Miss Baxter and Mr. Newdahl. They fixed the purpose of the Shuberts for a most lavish production on Broadway and also determined them to postpone that production until a revival of business justified it.

The Shubert plans for the Broadway showing are so far advanced that Municipal Opera will be able to present the Lehar opus with the original costumes and properties which Broadway is to see later.

"THE LAND OF SMILES" might have for its theme that dictum of Kipling's, "For East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet." It presents a story of romantic drama based upon an actual incident of the Boxer rebellion in China. That incident was taken by Victor Leon as the basis of his play, "The Yellow Jacket," from which the American libretto to Lehar's operetta has been adapted.

As the story unfolds in dramatic action upon Municipal Opera's stage, Chu Chang, Prince Regent of China, has been sent by the Manchu Empire to Vienna as Ambassador from the flowery kingdom to the Imperial Court of Austria. He is entertained by Count Lichtenfels, whose romantic daughter, the Countess Ilsa, falls in love with him as does he with her. Her youthful lover, Gustav von Popenstein, a sub-Lieutenant of Hussars, violently opposes the Prince's attentions to the Countess, for he argues that love between individuals of different races can never result happily. But his argument only makes the more determined the headstrong Countess, who, intrigued by the charming suavity of the Manchu Prince, refuses to heed the warnings of both Popenstein and her father. She accepts the proffered hand of Prince Chu Chang and it is arranged that their marriage shall take place in China, But, once in Peking, the lovers discover that dynastic obligations are barriers to their union. In this crisis the sincerity of the Oriental contrasts notably with the flighty determination of the romantic girl, and Ilsa in the end goes off to happiness with her hussar.

MUNICIPAL OPERA'S cast presents Miss Baxter in the role of the romantic Countess Ilsa, and Clifford Newdahl as Prince Chu Chang, while Allan Jones is the gay young hussar, who carries off the lady in the end. George Houston and Joseph Wilkins, also Frederick Person are other fine singing artists in the cast, while George Hassell, Harry K. Morton and Barbara Newberry are the principal fun makers. Other players will include Carl Randall, John Goldsworthy, Marie Wilkins, Marie Stormer, Virginia Watson and Victor Casmore among many favorites.

Nell O'Day With Rogers.

Will Rogers has a new leading lady in his next picture, "Jubilo." She is Nell O'Day. The Rogers picture will mark the screen debut of this Broadway stage actress, recently signed by Fox Films. Rogers' latest picture, "Down to Earth," is now completed and will be shown at an early date.

Dick Powell, Former M. C. Here, in Demand

Dick Powell, recently signed to a long-term contract by Warner Bros., is in considerable demand by other companies during the present month of production inactivity at the home studios, according to word from the West Coast. Following the receipt of several offers from as many producers, the young man's services have finally been lent to Fox, which company will use him in an important role in "Jubilo" with Will Rogers.

Powell, formerly a master of ceremonies at the Ambassador Theater here, started work recently for Warners in "Blessed Event" with Lee Tracy.

Russian Melodies At the Highlands

Russian melodies, dances and travesties will be featured by Harry Lange and his "Musical Merrymakers" on the new program of free entertainment, opening at Forest Park Highlands today. The production, which will be presented twice every afternoon and three times nightly, is entitled "Russian Revelries" and the musicians will appear in Cossack costumes.

The dance interpolations will be provided with children performing in the afternoon and adults in the evening.

THE WEEK'S NEW FILMS

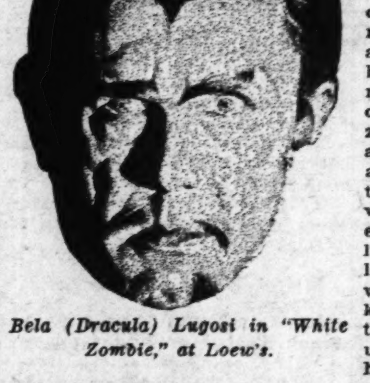
By Nie

HAVE you got a little Zowie in your home? Pretty handy things to have around, these zowies, although they can be a trifle dangerous at times, and, always, rather ghost-like as you can see by visiting Loew's this week where "White Zowie"—or maybe it's "White Zombie"—is on display. This is a horror fillum which raises the Dracula-Frankenstein-Mr. Hyde trio into a quartette and shows how, if you know the secret formula, you can settle the servant question and provide employment for a vast army which has already passed beyond the need of work. It all takes place down in Haiti where, we are reliably informed, anything can happen and where, in this picture, most everything goes. You see our old friend Bela Lugosi was not really put away for good that time he was stabbed through the heart with a railroad spike in "Dracula". Every one imagined he was done for but now he is back again, hanging around the West Indies and dabbling in the supernatural once more. The simple minded people of Haiti believe in ghosts and zowies and all that sort of thing and Mr. Lugosi proves that they are right by lifting the dead out of their graves and putting them to work on his sugar plantation—for even zowie bosses have to make a living. So long as he stuck to the laboring classes the master mind was riding pretty but when he killed a white girl, who happened to be a bride of but a few minutes, and then pulled her out of her grave to become his girl friend or something, he began to get into hot water. Eventually all of his dead-living workers regain their souls which Mr. Lugosi kept in his safe and after that it was just too bad for the ghost maker. The play is replete with busted coffins but the story is as full of holes as the yawning graveyards which dot every few feet of the film.



Bela (Dracula) Lugosi in "White Zombie," at Loew's.

More Warm Weather.

WE have, as we recall it, remarked several times, that some day the picture makers would hand the very pretty and very clever Elissa Landi a good movie drama, and that then she would step into the front rank of the cinema folks. Regretfully, the best we can do for this charming young woman is to say the same thing over again for "A Passport to Hell," at the Fox, in which she is the star, misses almost as completely as did all of her previous vehicles. Like the "Zombie" picture this Passport affair is laid in the tropics with Miss Landi going to live in the jungles of West Africa and taking along a lot of lovely evening gowns and snappy little house dresses to wear at equatorial social functions. Elissa, whose past was not entirely on the up and up, was the only white woman on the spot. There were two white men, her German Lieutenant husband and another German officer, at hand, and you can guess what that meant, especially as Paul Lukas was the other man. There are some complications about a stolen map which the British wanted—it is war time while the story is going on—but most of the plot is given over to what Elissa wanted. Whether she gets it or not is a bit uncertain at the end, but it can be presumed that things work around O. K., as friend husband steps aside, shooting himself on the way out.

In the Jail House.

THE Missouri has the best picture of the week in a seriocomic drammer called "Madame Racketeer" with Alison Skipworth, a sort of refined Marie Dressler person, playing a lady who just can't keep out of the booby hatch. Miss Skipworth is tremendously amusing as an underworld racketeer who is known from Sing Sing to San Quentin as "The Countess" and the way she lives, during her brief dashes into a free world, off of susceptible old bankers makes a dandy little play. The Missouri's other feature, "The Vanishing Frontier," is another horse opera of the standard pattern with Johnny Mack Brown doing the regular western thrill stuff.

Who Killed Cock Robin?

MURDER will out, even though it takes eight reels of film to bring about the solution and in "Miss Pinkerton," at the Ambassador, this new mystery meller runs right to form with George Brent pinning the crime on the one person in the drammer you never suspected. There is another killing, too, and a lot of other dirty work in an old house at midnight but most of the time is given over to opening and closing doors and the picture never gets very exciting or very thrilling although, if it had been among the first of the long list of plays of this sort, it would have ranked higher.

Theater Business In New York Shows Signs of New Life

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.

BROADWAY is exhibiting signs of awakening from its summer slumbers. Managers are re-opening their offices, manuscripts are being bought and actors engaged. A new season in the theater is beginning, and it promises a number of first nights of unusual interest.

Maude Adams is returning to Broadway after 13 years' absence; George Cohan says he is going to desert Hollywood to put on two comedies; there will be a new Howard Dietz Revue, "Flying Colors"; William A. Brady, as dean of producers, continues as the most active of them all with a half-dozen new plays announced.

Sidney Howard returns as one of the theater's first string playwrights with his new "Alien Corn," in which Katharine Cornell and Raymond Massey have the leading roles. Pearl S. Buck, just arrived from China, will be able to see the dramatization of her "The Good Earth," with Alla Nazimova as O-Lan.

Grace George, wife of William A. Brady, not only will have the central role in the French comedy, "Mademoiselle," but she is also going to direct it. As soon as they have made a short tour in "Reunion at Vienna," Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne will hurry back to town to play with Noel Coward in his new comedy, "Design for Living."

Here's a Thriller.

A motion picture in three reels, made in and around Opelousas and Sunset, La., in the center of the largest sweet potato growing area in the United States and illustrating approved methods of combating the sweet potato weevil, a pest of long standing, has been released by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Amusement Calendar

MUNICIPAL OPERA — Franz Lehar's light opera, "The Land of Smiles," with Gladys Baxter in the leading role, starting tomorrow night. Last time tonight of "Sari."

Motion Pictures

MISSOURI — "Madame Racketeer," with Richard Bennett, George Raft and Alison Skipworth, and "The Vanishing Frontier," with Johnny Mack Brown and Zasu Pitts.

FOX—"A Passport to Hell," with Elissa Landi and Paul Lukas. A Fanchon and Marco stage show and Guy Robertson of the Municipal Opera, in person, in songs from his best known successes.

LOEW'S — "White Zombie," with Bela (Dracula) Lugosi and Madge Bellamy.

AMBASSADOR—"Miss Pinkerton," with George Brent and Joan Blondell. Brent also appears on the stage in person in a sketch with Loretta Young. A girl and music show completes the bill.

John and Lionel in "Reunion in Vienna"

John and Lionel Barrymore and possibly Diana Wynyard will have leading roles in "Reunion in Vienna," scheduled to go into film production on completion of the untitled story co-starring the three Barrymores, Ethel, John and Lionel.

"Reunion in Vienna" is the Theater Guild play by Robert E. Sherwood in which Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne shared the leading roles on the stage. Miss Wynyard is the English stage actress whose first picture role is in the untitled Barrymore picture of Russia of the 1907-17 decade.

Cinema Stars and Guy Robertson on The Movie Stages

GEORGE BRENT, one of the up and coming movie actors, and Loretta Young, one of the most beautiful of the cinema stars, are appearing together in a sketch on the stage at the Ambassador Theater this week. Brent is also the leading man there in the picture, "Miss Pinkerton," made from Mary Roberts Rinehart's well-known story of the same name.

Out at the Fox Theater Guy Robertson, most popular of the Municipal Opera singers, who finished his season in Forest Park a week ago, is appearing in person singing a number of his well-known ballads. Robertson, who goes to New York shortly for a new Shubert production, is to remain at the Fox for two weeks.

Prior to the matinee performances this week Robertson will conduct auditions on the Fox stage to select a prima donna in St. Louis who will appear with him at this theater the following week. Auditions will be held at noon each day and all women are invited to participate in the contest.

Mary Plans Two More.

With Gary Cooper her leading man, Mary Pickford will start production upon her next picture, as yet untitled, next week. The story was written for Miss Pickford by Frances Marion. If present negotiations materialize, Miss Pickford will start a second picture immediately after completing the first one.

Loretta Young, in person on the stage at the Ambassador.

Meighan Returns to Paramount.

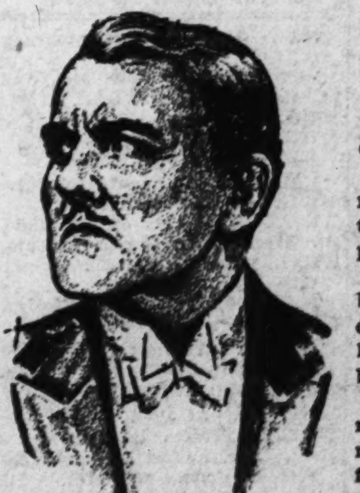
Thomas Meighan has returned to the Paramount fold, where he was starred for so many years. The genial Irishman, who is to play the role of William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden, in the production of that name, has left New York for Hollywood.



Richard Bennett in "Madame Racketeer," at the Missouri.

Old St. Louis Week In Brooklyn Movie

At the Paramount Theater in Brooklyn, on the wrong end of the big New York bridges, they are advertising that Broadway is being taken over the river this week when, as a matter of fact it is almost as though St. Louis was being transported there. Heading the stage show program in the cinema palace is none other than Eddie Lowry and on the same bill is Jack Haley, another retired Ambassador master of ceremonies; Mitzi Mayfair, the little St. Louis dancer who graduated from the local picture houses into Ziegfeld's Follies and Leonid Leonardi who is in command of the orchestra. Leonardi also is a product of the Ambassador and Missouri theaters.

Lowry seems to be a fixture at the Brooklyn as the past week was his eighth there and he is to remain in charge of the stage shows indefinitely.

Vicki Baum Sells Story.

"The Shining Shark," a story by Vicki Baum, author of "Grand Hotel," has been purchased by Paramount for screen adaptation. No cast nor director has been chosen as yet.

Activity in Movie Palaces

Skouras Boys Again Mixed Up in Local Affairs Through Their Interest in Ambassador Building and Are Lending Moral Support at Least to the Fox in Order to Keep a Finger or Two in the Grand Avenue Situation—Plans for the Missouri.

By NIE.

NOW that the end of the Municipal Opera season is in sight, an event which, the movie magnates believe will release 8000 or so possible cash customers nightly for use by other forms of amusement, the picture house men are going ahead with plans for the coming season. With the Skouras boys back in the local saddle again, by long distance telephone at least, as a result of the building owners taking over the operation of the Ambassador Theater—the Skourases own 33 per cent of that building—things have begun to move there. The first step is an announcement that the theater will absorb the Federal amusement tax taking the five cent charge in the afternoon and the seven cent evening amount off the shoulders of the patrons.

Out at the Missouri, now being run by Paramount-Publix the two feature program is to be pulled out and the house will go on a one picture basis for Paramount is to play all of its own pictures there and has some big ones, such as the new Chevalier offering, the Four Marx Brothers in "Horse Feathers" and a new Marlene Dietrich affair in the immediate offing and films of that sort do not require any assistance from minor offerings. It is quite likely that the Missouri will close down for a couple of weeks in the near future to allow Paramount, which has just taken over the place, to catch its breath and arrange a new policy for the coming season. There is little chance, despite the great success in that house a week or so ago of "Rhapsody in Black," that the Missouri will go into stage shows. Rather there seems to be a plan on foot to dot the programs now and then with a big act and Ted Lewis and his band is booked to show there the first week in September. The Ambassador will go along with its own stage shows and Fanchon and Marco are, for the moment at least, scheduled to continue at the Fox.

THINGS at the Fox, incidentally, are looking up. This big house, in the hands of receivers and long tottering on the brink, is now receiving at least the moral support of the Skouras outfit which is closely allied with the Fox interests throughout the country. Skouras is not at all pleased with the idea of turning Grand avenue entirely over to Paramount at the Missouri and will aid in several ways in placing the Fox on its feet even if the former St. Louis operators do not actually take the theater over.

The RKO interests are also going deeply into the Grand avenue situation and are preparing to do something about their St. Louis Theater. The age old battle between the theater operators and the allied theatrical unions comes up again in a few weeks with contracts for the coming year to be settled with the union men then. Just what the St. Louis will do depends largely now upon what can be done in the way of a reduced pay roll back stage. There is talk that, if reductions in working agreements can be made, the reopening of the St. Louis will be set for early in September with pictures and a stage show presentation of the Municipal Opera success, "Nina Rosa" to be followed by another try at more or less continuous vaudeville which RKO believes is not entirely dead. Films would, of course, go on with the variety bill.

BE that as it may the Gold Coast studios are making preparations to turn out more—and they claim, better—films for the houses which will be open this winter. Indications are that motion pictures are veering from the old standard of illusion-building to illusion-breaking is evident in the reaction of Hollywood to the preview showing of the First National film, "Life Begins."

The exhortations of psychologists, doctors and educators have borne fruit, and the stork, the cabbage leaf, the rose bush and the doctor's satchel, as sources of "where babies come from," are slowly but surely being relegated to that same limbo where went the belief in witches, dragons, mermaids and the eighteenth amendment.

Back in the "good old days" of the nickelodeon, such delicate matters as parenthood were kept embarrassing secrets even from the movie heroes who played the roles of the papas-to-be. He generally found out by catching his wife, in blushing confusion, knitting on a diminutive shirt or pair of socks. It wasn't only that his best friend wouldn't tell him, but his own wife would keep him in ignorance until the last possible moment.

AN old popular method of apprising the hero that the stork was in the offing was for the wife to write the news on a piece of paper and bake it into a cake, where it was discovered by friend husband just as he was about to dunk that morsel in his coffee.

After the news had been broken to the husband, there was nothing more done about it until the mother was shown holding a full-fledged baby in her arms. All details of birth in any remote connection were sloughed over in a "time lapse."

Later, movie producers became bolder. They actually introduced the figure of the doctor. There was no attempt to put the stork out of the running, nor the cabbage leaf either, for that matter. His appearance was generally vague, and whether he was there as chief executive in the proceedings or merely as an ally to the stork or cabbage leaf was left entirely to the imagination of the audience. To still further bolster up the legends of childbirth, he never appeared without his little black satchel, which was never opened on these occasions in the presence of the audience, but which looked just big enough to carry a new born baby.

It was not until King Vidor produced "The Crowd" toward the end of the silent era, that any actual details of what went on behind the closed door were indicated. That picture, which marked the real birth of realism in motion pictures, will always be remembered if only for the one scene in which the doctor, holding the infant upside down by the ankle, spanks the breath of life into it.

From then on, realism took the place of subterfuge. That one birth scene in "The Crowd" has been copied time and time again in other films by other producers. Then Warner Brothers came along with "Night Nurse," in which one sequence depicted the bathing, labeling and other formalities attendant on a birth in a hospital.

But it was left to First National to cap the climax by producing a drama, the entire action of which takes place in a maternity ward and which centers its interest not only around the mothers and the babies, but also around the doctors and nurses and the romance of their work.

Radio Cookery Expert Coming

GEORGE RECTOR.

NOTED CHEF and restaurateur who will be in St. Louis Friday and Saturday of this week after a series of network broadcasts that have made him probably the best known authority on fine cookery. Since the first of the year he has been broadcasting six mornings a week with "Col. Goodbody" on Our Daily Food programs on KWK and the WJZ chain under the same sponsorship as the Gypsies concerts on KSD Monday nights.

From 1899 to 1912, 20 years on Broadway, New York, "Rector's" was a name which conjured visions of the finest in dining and wining. Celebrities of the stage, of society and politics made "Rector's" a rendevous which became world famous.

George Rector was the son of that Charles Rector who left Lockport, Pa., with his friend, Marshal Field, to make his fortune, studied law at Cornell University, then found himself irresistibly drawn to the cafe business. George Rector spent two year's in the kitchen of his father's restaurant, then was apprenticed to the chefs of two noted Paris restaurants—the Cafe de Paris and Marguery's. While at the Cafe de Paris he was decorated for the culinary perfection of a meal he prepared for King Oscar of Sweden, at a state luncheon given by President Loubet of France.

Returning to this country, he opened "Rector's" on Broadway, where he was host to the noables of the day, among them Enrico Caruso, Sarah Bernhardt, the Vanderbilts, Charles Schwab, "Diamond Jim" Brady and others.

Since he retired, Rector has written a number of magazine articles, among them "The Girl From Rector's" and, in collaboration with Bugs Baer, "A Cook's Tour."

He is now devoting himself to broadcasting and to traveling around the country for lectures and personal appearances.

The Phillips Woolaroc Troph Race will be a new closed cour speed event, a 60-mile free-for- open to planes with engines of cubic inches of piston displacement or less. Phillips hopes stimulate the design of faster a more efficient aircraft of lo horsepower.

No restrictions, other than th limitation on piston displaceme are in the deed to the cup. So is expected that many planes e tering the event will be of new a radical design. Controllable pitc propellers, superchargers, speci fuels and fuel injection systems a sure to make their appearance.

The race will be six laps arou the 10-mile course at the Clevela Municipal Airport for high spe events. The Phillips race will b run Wednesday, Aug. 31. ## Gives Terraplane As Air Race Prize

Amelia Earhart, only woman flier who has conquered the Atlantic alone, standing beside the Essex Terraplane automobile which she will give as first prize to the winner of the Amelia Earhart Tropyh Race for women fliers in the National Air Races at Cleveland during the week of Aug. 27-Sept. 5. The Terraplane, which because of its high power to weight ration has many of the characteristics of the airplane, was christened recently at Detroit by Miss Earhart.

Essex Terraplane Power-Weight Ratio 30 Pounds Per H. P.

Car's Engine Would Drive Average Airplane 100 M. P. H., Hudson Engineers Declare.

Because of its high power to weight ratio, claimed to be the highest in the automobile field, the engine of a new Essex terraplane automobile would drive an average airplane of 2500 pounds weight at a top speed of 100 miles per hour, according to engineers of the Hudson Motor Car Co.

Because of the airplane type of the new car, which was officially christened a week or so ago by Miss Amelia Earhart, the only woman who has flown the Atlantic alone, the new car was named the terraplane, which means land plane.

Airplanes, Hudson engineers pointed out, must have a power to weight ratio of at least one horse power per 35 pounds weight to fly. The terrapalne, they said, has a power to weight ratio of 30 pounds per horse power, or one horsepower per 30 pounds weight, which means that the heaviest terraplane sedan containing a passenger weighs approximately 2500 pounds.

If placed in an airplane of the same weight having a 40-foot wing spread and 250 square feet of wing surface, a terraplane engine would drive it at speed ranging from 55 to as high as 100 miles per hour.

Aviation and automobile engineers, who were invited to Detroit two weeks before the new car was announced, expressed surprise that such a power to weight ratio could be built into an automobile. Among the engineers in Detroit at that time were Orville Wright, inventor of the airplane, and Paul W. Litchfield, builder of Zeppelin airships for the United States Navy.

The new Essex terraplane car, Hudson engineers said, is accurately proportioned so that its power to weight ratio can be taken advantage of at all times. Its length, height and tread are practically and mathematically correct.

Never before in automobile history did a new automobile ever have such a severe initial test as was given the new terraplane cars in connection with the christening, when dealers drove 2000 new terraplanes from Detroit 50 to 1500 miles over all kinds and sorts of roads without serious trouble.

La France-Republic Operations Shifted To Sterling Factory

According to a bulletin received by J. L. Harris, manager of the local branch of the Sterling Motor Truck Co., all operations of the La France-Republic Sales Corporation, Alma, Mich., are being transferred to the plant of the Sterling Motor Truck Co. at Milwaukee, which acquired all the former's assets on June 1.

Harris says the La France-Republic Sales Corporation will continue to operate as a separate corporation.

It is reported that the La France-Republic line of motor trucks will be continued to be manufactured by Sterling and the first ones are scheduled to roll off the assembly floor at Milwaukee early in August.

Nash Police Cars Help Reduce Crime, Chicago Police Say

Day and night operation of the fast Nash police squad cars, which have replaced the old patrol equipment, plus the perfection of radio crime reporting are credited with cutting crime in Chicago exactly in half in the past six months.

Special emphasis was placed on the efficiency of the new Nash sedan police squad cars, in a general report on crime conditions just issued by Deputy Chief of Detectives Walter Storms. He says that the efficient Nash cars now make it possible for police squads to reach the scene of a crime within one minute after it is reported at any point within the patrol area.

Crimes in Chicago, despite unemployment and the privations it entails, have been reduced 50 per cent in six months' time, the report says. At the same time, apprehension of criminals has increased proportionately.

Seventeen bank robberies, cleared up promptly since April 17 of this year, because of swift transportation and informational facilities, are cited as proof of police squad efficiency.

New Rust-Proofing Method Used Now On Graham Car Bodies

A new process for rust-proofing automobile bodies, by which each complete body assembly, instead of its separate panels, is treated just before the lacquer is applied, has been installed in the Graham body plant and all bodies are now receiving the new protective treatment.

The Graham process not only provides a rust resisting protection for the body, but also, by chemically changing the surface of the metal, insures a better bond between the metal and the lacquer finish, an important factor in attaining permanence of body finish.

In the Parcoliting process used by Graham, the rust-proofing mixture is sprayed over the entire body, under a heavy pressure that insures its thoroughly covering the metal. Next, the body spends 20 minutes passing through a drying oven heated to 225 degrees. On emerging, the body is cleaned of the chalky residue, by means of power-operated brushes and compressed air blasts. Finally, an alcohol wipe completes the process. The primer coat for the color is applied immediately.

Examination of the rust-proofed metal under a microscope reveals a surface of minute crystals, created by the chemical reaction between the solution and the metal. This coating is the rust preventive, and serves to form a superior bond between the lacquer and the metal.

Studebaker Observes Second Anniversary Of Free Wheeling

Studebaker is celebrating the second anniversary of free wheeling this month. Presented to a skeptical motoring world in July, 1930, free wheeling, in 24 months, has written a new chapter of American motoring history. Today virtually every make of American motor car offers this innovation in one form or another.

Studebaker owners were the first beneficiaries of an engineering improvement which brought new motoring thrill and thrift. Within 30 days of the introduction of free wheeling, Studebaker had climbed from tenth to fifth place in national sales.

Today free wheeling is almost as commonplace as balloon tires or four-wheel brakes.

Fifty-Nine Per Cent of Dodge Cars Produced Since 1914 in Service

Computations from United States registration figures and Dodge production records recently completed by the statistical department of Dodge Brothers' Corporation, disclose that as of Dec. 31, 1931, 59 per cent of all Dodge vehicles produced since 1914 for distribution in the United States were still being used.

The figures reveal that 70.5 per cent of all Dodge trucks manufactured were still in use. Also 48.5 per cent of all the four-cylinder Dodge passenger cars and trucks produced for the United States are still in use.

Among the older Dodge cars still in use are many of the type that became famous during the World War days. Many of the 17,370 Dodges purchased by the Government during the war were resold to citizens. Some were never mustered out of service and are still doing duty for the army. Other four-cylinder Dodge cars were purchased by the army in 1916 for the punitive expedition against Pancho Villa in Mexico. One was used by Gen. John J. Pershing. This car now is on display in the Dodge transportation and equipment exhibition at the Dodge plant in Detroit, the largest permanent show of its kind in the world.

'Zero Pressure' Type Tire Is Patented by B. F. Goodrich Co.

A patent covering, a new type of tractor cushion tire known as the "Zero Pressure," was granted recently to Henry F. Schippel, a B. F. Goodrich Co. tire engineer, and was assigned to the Goodrich company.

The new tire is designed to provide a snow-shoe effect in loose or soft soil, having a tread which deflects readily under moderate loads providing unusual tractive qualities, the patent petition states.

The tire also eliminates rebound, rides easily, will not damage pavements, and requires no inflation, the manufacturers maintain.

The new Goodrich tire has already been widely accepted for agricultural and road construction uses.

Chrysler's Automatic Clutch

VACUUM CONTROL VALVE
ACCELERATOR PEDAL WITH CONNECTIONS TO CONTROL VALVE
VACUUM OPERATING CYLINDER AND CLUTCH CONNECTIONS

The automatic clutch, as used by Chrysler is intra-connected with the free-wheeling unit, which is a Chrysler development of the over-running clutch type, at the rear of the transmission. A button on the dash controls the automatic clutch and free wheeling operation. By means of the button, gear-shifting can be made conventional or free wheeling can be eliminated, or both done away with, depending on the position of the button.

This automatic clutch operates in all gears, forward and reverse, and at every car speed, entirely without the use of the clutch pedal or a pedal substitute. The accelerator controls it all. The reason for this, as explained, is that the instant the accelerator is released the clutch disengages, thus disconnecting the transmission from the engine. At the same instant and because of its over-running clutch principle, the free wheeling cuts off the transmission from the propeller shaft and rear axle. Thus, the gears stop rotating instantly and the transmission becomes dead and inert. The gears, being of the internal type in the eights and of the easy-shift constant-mesh type in the sixes, can be shifted instantly and without noise or clash, into any gear—forward or reverse—that may be selected.

Since no strength is required now in the gear shift lever and the gears really are not shifted and pushed into mesh by the lever, shifting becomes only a matter of gear selecting. For that reason, in a Chrysler car the gear shift lever has become a new silent gear selector.

New Oil for Auto Engines Introduced By Standard Oil Co.

The Standard Oil Co. has just placed on the market a new, revolutionary motor oil called Syntholube.

G. W. Coldsnow, local manager of the Standard Oil Co., says that Syntholube is made scientifically—synthetically, by combining desirable chemical and physical properties that have never before been available in any one crude oil, without undesirable properties that usually accompany them. The Standard Oil Co. states that this oil, Syntholube, makes sludge unknown, carbon practically unheard of and winter and summer driving a pleasure.

The oil is said to be virtually everlasting, barring contamination by dirt, and will come in two grades, SAE-20 and 40. Syntholube 40 can be used the year round unless the temperature in winter goes to 17 degrees below freezing for an extended period of time. In these climates, Syntholube 20 is available.

PRACTICAL PIONEERING LESSONS FOR SCOUTS

Mystery Section, Final Cabin Camp Period, Opens at Irondale, Aug. 15.

The ability to use an ax in the building of shelters out of native materials is taught scouts enrolled in the fourth section of cabin camp which began Monday at Irondale. It is expected that many campers will, during the pioneering section, pass merit badges in that subject as well as badges in various crafts.

More than 150 scouts are attending this section of camp. Included in the number are scouts from three troops which are occupying units in the troop camps inaugurated two years ago. Twenty-four members of Troop 8, Buder School, are in the Adirondack cabins, located in the old Ranger camp. Maplewood Troop 3, Maplewood High School, has eight members who are also in the unit of the Adirondack cabins. Ten members of Troop 247, Froebel School, comprise a unit in the cabin camp.

The Mystery Section, final cabin camp period, will begin Aug. 15 and end Aug. 22, one week later. Of the 75 scouts who are expected to attend, 42 will be in troop units. Sixteen members of Troop 116, Pershing School, will comprise a unit in the cabin camps; 12 scouts of Troop 55, Cote Brilliante Presbyterian Church, will occupy the Tree House unit, and 14 members of Troop 202, Centenary Methodist Church, South, will occupy the Indian Village.

Because reservations were too few, the coming two roving tours and both sections of the new Lake of the Ozarks camp were not held.

Troop Notes

South District.

In a contest between two patrols on an overnight hike taken by Troop 214, Fremont School, on July 15 and 16, the first patrol, led by Walter Heede, defeated the second, led by Joe Alberts, by two points. The troop recently named Peter Wilhelm reporter.

Fifteen merit badges were awarded to six members of Troop 247, Froebel School, at a recent court of honor. Karl Artman received badges in cement work and bookbinding, Louis Appel in bugling and interpreting, Sebastian Fertling in cooking, civics, pathfinding and scholarship, George Meyer in swimming, Milton Sparwasser in cooking, civics and pathfinding and Scoutmaster Sparwasser in civics and pathfinding. Last week the troop visited Police Headquarters and radio station KMOX.

North District.

Earl Jacobs and Fred Ahrens of Troop 88, Salem Evangelical Church, have passed the fireman-ship merit badge. It has been announced that a prize will be awarded the patrol having the best attendance during the remaining meetings of the summer vacation period.

Suburban District.

Mount Pleasant Troop 1 has been invited by a former committeeman, Russell E. Warren, to spend an evening in Seventy Six, Mo., to demonstrate scout work.

Cub Notes.

Pack 41, Advent Lutheran Church, visited Police Headquarters and radio station KMOX last week, accompanied by parents and friends. At a pack picnic last month 55 cubs and friends attended.

Belleville Area.

Alfred Budde has been declared winner of a contest to determine which scout in Troop 3, St. Mary's Church, could acquire the best sun tan. Selection of the winner was made at a troop swimming party July 24 at Voellinger's Park.

Arthur Rauschkolb, Harold Beese and Ray Lee constitute a committee in Troop 5 to make plans for the stimulation of attendance at troop meetings.

Scouts of Troop 8, Bunsen School, competed in a swimming meet yesterday at Turner Pool.

Stanley Moore and Ralph Oughton have become tenderfoot scouts in Troop 9, Union School. The latter is the fourth member of his family to become connected with the troop. His father, Vincent Oughton Sr., is a committeeman and his brothers, Vincent Jr. and Robert are scouts in the troop.

Eleven members of Troop 11, Knights of Columbus Hall, are attending Camp Wangelin.

Following a regular meeting of Troop 13, Christ Church, scouts cooled off at a party in Bellevue Pool, last week.

AID SOCIETY SEEKING HOMES FOR SEVERAL SCHOOL GIRLS

Wants Places Where They May Continue Studies and Have Allowance for Housework.

The Children's Aid Society is seeking to find homes for several high school girls where they would be able to continue their studies and have an allowance in return for housework. Homes for a boy, 6 years old, who is deaf, and for a girl 7 years old, who is crippled, are also being sought.

Herschel Alt, secretary of the society, said it is assisting 14 children who will attend high school when the fall term opens, most of them are earning all or part of their keep. During July the society helped 643 children and 87 unmarried mothers.

COMMUNITY COUNCIL OFFERS FREE OUTINGS

Opportunities for Camp Life Given by Its Member Agencies.

Hundreds of St. Louis mothers, children and young people before the summer is over will have had a taste of sunshine, fresh air, good food and a care-free life at camps operated by member agencies of the Community Council.

Free outings will be provided for more than 1000 persons by the Frank Wyman Outing Farm at Eureka in its five sessions, reduced from 12 to eight days each because of the shortage of funds. Boys 6 to 12 years old and girls 6 to 11, attend at the rate of 204 for each session, with 14 mothers with each group as cabin supervisors. Fourteen entertainers will volunteer their services.

The Y. M. C. A. camp at Kimmswick, with a capacity of 130, is expected to accommodate a total of 1050 girls this season. Guests, largely industrial employes, enter a routine of handicraft, table games, tennis, swimming and dramatics.

Camp Skullbone-in-the-Woods at Dittmer, is sponsored by the Neighborhood Association, which is devoted to fostering cleanliness, order, respect for law, wholesome amusements and purposeful athletics. About 30 persons at a time can be accommodated for periods ranging from one day to two weeks.

More than 850 Boy Scouts 150 in each successive group, will have two-week vacations at their camp near Ironton. The Girl Scout camp at Cedarledge, near Pevely, affords opportunity during the season for 341 girls, 10 to 18 years old, to engage in pioneering, nature studies, dramatics, swimming and training and tests for life saving.

Wesley House is making it possible for 100 persons to attend camp, and in addition, is enabling its various boys' and girls' clubs to have occasional one-day outings, river excursions, woods picnics and sight-seeing trips. Several families attended Camp Evangeline of the Salvation Army near Ferguson, and many children are to attend Rose Bry Summer Camp at Webster Groves.

ROBBERS GET $378 PAYROLL

The Liebermann Drayage Co., 103 South Third street, was robbed yesterday of $378, which had been withdrawn to pay its employes.

The owner, Louis Liebermann, and a clerk, Miss Lucille Mees, were in the office when two armed robbers entered. The robbers ordered Liebermann to lie on the floor and went to the desk where Miss Mees was putting the money in envelopes. She handed the money over to them and the robbers fled in an automobile which had been parked outside. Both wore colored glasses and one held a handkerchief over his face.

Sailboat Races Popular at Harbor Point—Annual Bridge Tournament Held at Clubhouse.

HARBOR POINT, Mich., Aug. 6.

THE younger members of the Point are again enjoying their Prune races three times a week. From the porches of the Little Harbor Club one can always see sev- ral of these baby sailboats sailing owards Menonaqua Beach, and back again.

John C. Sluder of St. Louis, who has been sailing here for several years, has been judge for these races. Sterling Edmunds is also an enthusiastic boatsman, and has one of the fastest sailboats in the North. Last week he and John Sluder raced their boats at Charlevoix. The bay at Harbor Springs is being disturbed by the speedy outboard boats which seem to be aining in favor at the expense of heavier craft. The first regatta of the season was held today.

The Little Harbor Club held its annual club bridge tournament last week. The clubhouse was decorated with zinnias and bachelor buttons. Several small dinner parties proceded the bridge, and after the tables were put away the guests danced. A buffet supper was served.

Music for swimming has proved to be extremely popular, especially with the younger members of the club. Every day the orchestra moves to the side of the pool, and swimmers endeavor to keep time to the music.

Picnics are frequent. They range all of the way from such affairs as the clam bake of last week to impromptu gatherings of a few people.

Tennis too has many followers among whom is John G. Glessner I. Mr. Glessner, who with Mrs. Glessner and their baby son John III has been spending the summer at the home of Mrs. Glessner's mother, Mrs. Greenfield Sluder of St. Louis, divides his time between work and play. He is preparing a thesis to be presented at Harvard University this fall. Mr. and Mrs. Glessner will leave shortly by motor for New Hampshire where they will spend a few weeks at the estate of Mr. Glessner's parents before returning to Cambridge, Mass., for the winter.

Mrs. George Tuttle of St. Louis and Dr. and Mrs. Schaff of Northport Point were guests of Mrs. Alex J. Cochran last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason Scudder arrived at the club house last week to be with Mr. Scudder's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles White Scudder.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace Fristoe who are spending the summer their home at Charlevoix with their guests, Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Moss and Mrs. Lee Petit Gay drove here last week Friday and were luncheon guests at the club house.

WEQUETONSING, Mich., Aug. 6.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER H. PETRING arrived recently from St. Louis to spend the rest of the season at their cottage. Their daughters, Mrs. Henry Duncker and Mrs. Fred Pavey, are expected soon.

Mrs. Samuel McCluney, with her daughter, Miss Louise McCluney, arrived on Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. McCluney's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Columbus Baldwin from New York, will join them in a few days. Mrs. Baldwin was Miss Katharine McCluney.

Mrs. George L. Ball and daughter, Miss Marie Ball, returned to Webster Groves last week after a visit with Mrs. Ball's sister, Mrs. Henry M. Meier.

Paul Fentress of Winnetka, Ill., is a guest of Prynne Hoxie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Hoxie, at Harber Springs.

Robert W .Brooks arrived at the Wequetonsing Hotel where he will be joined by his daughter, Miss Florence Brooks.

Mrs. Harry L. Block, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wiggins, Mrs. Rolla ells, Mrs. Harvey G. Mudd, and Mrs. Ames Cushman attended a luncheon at Ramona Park Hotel last Thursday. The afternoon was spent in playing bridge.

CHARLEVOIX, Mich., Aug. 6.

MR. AND MRS. H. L. CORNETT have returned to St. Louis after a short visit at the Belvedere Hotel.

Miss Edna and Miss Jane Birge and Mr. Arthur Birge entertained 25 of their friends with a party last Monday evening. The guests, who included Miss Frances O'Neil of St. Louis, met at the Birge cottage. Later the crowd went to the beach and enjoyed a marshmallow roast.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bell and family are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richardson.

Charles Fox Jr. is spending August with his mother, Mrs. C. B. Fox.

HARBOR POINT, Mich., Aug. 6.
THE younger members of the Point are again enjoying their Prune races three times a week. From the porches of the Little Harbor Club one can always see several of these baby sailboats sailing towards Menonaqua Beach, and back again.

John C. Sluder of St. Louis, who has been sailing here for several years, has been judge for these races. Sterling Edmunds is also an enthusiastic boatsman, and has one of the fastest sailboats in the North. Last week he and John Sluder raced their boats at Charlevoix. The Little Harbor Club held its annual club bridge tournament last week. The clubhouse was decorated with zinnias and bachelor buttons. Several small dinner parties preceded the bridge, and after the tables were put away the guests danced. A buffet supper was served.

Music for swimming has proved to be extremely popular, especially with the younger members of the club. Every day the orchestra moves to the side of the pool, and swimmers endeavor to keep time to the music.

Picnics are frequent. They range all of the way from such affairs as the clam bake of last week to impromptu gatherings of a few people.

Tennis too has many followers among whom is John G. Glessner II. He is preparing a thesis to be presented at Harvard University this fall. Mr. and Mrs. Glessner will leave shortly by motor for New Hampshire where they will spend a few weeks at the estate of Mr. Glessner's parents before returning to Cambridge, Mass., for the winter.

Society to See Melodrama On Showboat

Event Monday Night to Be Preceded by Picnic Parties in Florissant Valley.

THE wooded lands of Florissant Valley, where several old St. Louis families of prominence have country homes on property which has belonged to them since the original Spanish land grants, will provide the settings for old-fashioned picnics tomorrow night preceding the showboat performance of the melodrama, "The Lure of the City," sponsored by the Service Bureau, a Junior League affiliate.

Various groups of all ages, from the married sets to children of school age, will form parties to motor to various points in the county with supper baskets, the contents of which will be spread informally on the grass, or at tables on the grounds of the country houses.

Later in the evening, the picnickers will drive to Musick's Ferry on the Missouri River at the end of Hall's Ferry road, where the showboat, The Hollywood, is moored, and where the performance is scheduled to begin at 8:15 o'clock. The old steam calliope atop the brightly lighted floating theater will shriek the tunes "Here Comes the Showboat," "Dinah" and the "St. Louis Blues," as the time for the play approaches.

Broad highways lead to the ferry, the approach to which is marked by an old stone mill, long ago fallen into disuse, and where ample automobile parking space has been provided. The boat is reminiscent of early plantation days, when favorite melodramas with moustached villains and demure blond heroines amused river-bank dwellers. It has a seating capacity of 500.

Debutantes and sub-debs, who in a few months will make their formal appearances in society, have arranged Dutch treat parties for the picnics. One group will include Miss Ann Ferriss, Miss Marjorie Capen, Miss Mary Taussig, Miss Eleanor Conant, Miss Mary Coit Day, Miss Jane Bond, Miss Marian Davis, Miss Lily Busch Magnus, and Miss Christine Jones. Miss Ferris, Miss Capen, Miss Taussig, Miss Conant and their escorts will occupy the only two boxes the boat boasts of during the performance.

Mrs. Donaldson Lambert and Mrs. Clarence Hopkins King will be in another party; Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Wells Streett and Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Simmons II in another; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Capen Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. John Burton Kennard will form a foursome for dinner before the show, and among others who will have guests are Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel B. Randolph, Gordon Hertslet, Mr. and Mrs. Ben G. Chapman Jr., Mrs. Lawrence Post and Mrs. Frank Harney.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brookings Wallace are planning a picnic for the younger set, of which their daughter, Kathleen and their son, Lee, are members, and Mrs. William Julius Polk will have another group of young people at her lovely old country house.

The funds derived from the benefit performance will be used by the Service Bureau for occupational therapy work in St. Louis. The bureau is devoted to giving unusual personal service. In addition to secretarial and list service, it maintains an exchange for objects of art and bric-a-brac.

Grandmother Plans Bacon Heiress' Debut

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.

MRS. MARTHA W. BACON, widow of Robert L. Bacon, one time partner of J. P. Morgan and Ambassador to France, is as excited over plans for the debut of her granddaughter, Miss Alexdra, as if it were she herself who was to make her first bow to society.

Mrs. Bacon said today that a death in her family prevented her own formal presentation many years ago.

She will introduce Alexandra, who is the eldest daughter of her son, Congressman Robert Low Bacon, Sept. 9 at Old Acres, her Westbury, Long Island, estate. Alexandra, is 18. The 600-acre camp near Flagstaff, Me., purchased by J. P. Morgan as a vacation retreat for the Morgan employes and their families, is named after the elder Mrs. Bacon's son, the late Elliott Bacon. The camp is situated in the heart of the Maine woods near the Canadian border.

Mr. Morgan is taking his annual vacation at his English home near London. His son, Junius, with Mrs. Morgan, and their three children, leave within the fortnight to join the elder Morgan in England, where, Sept. 7, he will observe his sixty-fifth birthday anniversary.

All the Governors of the Southern states have been invited to attend the annual dinner of the New York Southern Society, which will launch its second season at the Waldorf-Astoria, Oct. 21. Eight Governors have already accepted.

The William Wright Harts Jr., who returned yesterday from their honeymoon on the Riviera, brought back with them some rare birds from Italy and France for Mrs. Hart's mother, Mrs. Franklin Silas Terry. The pair expect to leave today for Madison, Conn., to visit Mr. Hart's father, Brigadier-General Hart, who was aid to President Wilson and military attache to the embassy in Paris.

Y. M. C. A. Summer School Ends.

The day summer school of the St. Louis Y. M. C. A. schools completed its seven-week session last Friday. Two hundred students received instruction at the Downtown Y. M. C. A.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

DO you know that just beneath that soiled, discolored, faded or aged complexion is one fair to look upon? Nature causes the normal skin to peel off in tiny, unseen, flour-like particles, a little each day, renewing the complexion of youth naturally, but there comes a time when this skin shedding slows up. Worry, overwork, sickness, inactivity are reasons that cause the face to be blotchy, discolored, and old looking. The thing to do, if you wish to look your prettiest at all times, is to assist nature in the process of absorption by using pure Mercolized Wax. Get an ounce at any drug store or beauty counter and use as directed. It gently but surely peels away the outer scarf skin, removing freckles, blackheads, oiliness or a muddy complexion. The underneath skin, then in evidence, is clear pink, fresh and velvety, and the entire face looks years younger.
Powdered Saxolite quickly reduces wrinkles and other age signs. Simply dissolve one ounce of Saxolite in one-half pint witch hazel and use as a face lotion.

COCHRAN ASKS HOOVER TO SPEED HOME LOANS

Congressman in St. Louis Finds Many Owners About to Lose Property.

Congressman Cochran, who is in St. Louis, has telegraphed a request to President Hoover to expedite organization of the recently authorized home loan bank system. Within two days, Cochran said, five home owners told him they would lose their property through foreclosures if some relief, such as the home loan bank promises, were not obtained.

"I investigated one of these cases," Cochran added. "The man was a World War veteran, totally disabled in battle. He has paid $4500 for an equity in a 70-foot lot and two houses, and has a $3000 mortgage. His taxes and interest were paid but a mortgage note became due July 15 and he cannot get a renewal. Foreclosure is threatened and the loan has been placed with a trust company for collection. The property has been appraised as an A1 loan.

"It is such cases as this which must be taken care of. If we cannot arrange without delay to do something to assist home owners through the Government, I feel it is the duty of St. Louisans to organize some kind of corporation to take over mortgages, where the equity equals half the value of the property."

TWO LEASES IN DELMAR LOOP DISTRICT CLOSED

Two leases closed this week in the Delmar loop district indicate an increased demand for stores there. The Lloyd T. Smith Hardware Co., now located in the loop, has leased the store at 6663 Delmar boulevard, for a term of 10 years, from the Lesser-Goldman Co. Smith will enlarge his stock considerably. The new store fronts on both Delmar and Enright and includes a large basement, which will be used for sales purposes. The E. A. & Franklyn E. Meyer Realty Co. represented both parties in the transaction.

Another lease was reported made to Mr. J. L. Sager on the store at 6681 Delmar. This store has been leased for three years. Sager has opened an attractive $1 dress shop, also selling hosiery, lingerie and millinery.

The E. A. & Franklyn E. Meyer Realty Co. also represented both parties in this lease. Considerable inquiry for stores in the loop district for all purposes have come in the last few weeks, according to Franklyn E. Meyer.

MAGUIRE TAKES OVER BUSINESS OF THE MECHANICS REALTY CO.

The Maguire Realty Co., 3801 Page avenue, has taken over the business conducted under the name of Mechanics Realty Co. the past four years. The sales force has been reorganized with the following salesmen: J. S. Grayson, Phil J. Hahn, Donald O. Dake, H. E. Haag, J. H. L. Farrow, Edward F. Dolan, John A. Thomas, A. B. Stecher, Arthur V. Grisham, Henry Newkom, Robert A. Moake.

Special departments, such as farms, sales, trading and exchanging of property, rental and property management will be in charge of William E. Maguire, who has been in the real estate business for 17 years.

MARY POTTER LOVE, INC., LEASES THREE RESIDENCES

Mary Potter Love, Inc., has leased 25 Cornell, residence of Oliver Winkle, to Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Gardner, for two years. The firm also leased the residence of Mrs. Madison Bell Bowmer at 4377 McPherson avenue for two years. The residence of Dr. Gustave Lippman, at 6207 Alexander, was leased to Mrs. Florence Schoen for the summer.

$300,000,000 Lent to U. S. Home Owners by Building and Loan Companies First Half of 1932

League of Associations Also Reports Adding 632,000 Investors—Large Part of Loans for Refinancing Mortgages.

More than $300,000,000 was lent to home owners in the United States in the first six months of 1932 by building and loan companies, which added 632,000 investors to its ranks during that period. The figures were made public yesterday by the United States Building & Loan League, in a six months' summary which characterized the business as "most satisfactory in view of present conditions."

Morton Bodfish, executive manager of the league, said homes of about 125,000 families were financed by building and loan associations during the first half of 1932, with individual loans averaging slightly less than $2500.

An "exceedingly conservative" policy of management by associations is indicated, he said, by an increase in the industry's contingent reserves during that period. Reserves July 1 were 4.92 per cent of total liabilities, whereas the industry's real estate holdings are only 4.12 per cent of total assets.

New Construction Loans Drop.

Analysis of reports from associations in 17 states showed that the percentage of loans made for new construction has declined steadily since January.

"Inadequate funds for home financing and the more pressing need for refinancing loans of the straight mortgage type which are now falling due account in part for this trend," Bodfish said. "There is no doubt, however, that there is a definite demand for the building of new homes in a number of areas. Money made available to associations through the Home Loan Bank system should stimulate this phase of the business, as well as assist in supplying refinancing and remodeling needs."

An unusually large proportion of money recently advanced to home owners by building and loan associations, Bodfish said, has gone to refinance loans previously made by private lenders and short-time mortgage lending institutions who have been calling their loans.

82 Pct. in Refinancing Loans.

"As a result," he explained, "more than 82 per cent of all loans from January to July were to refinance such mortgages, to assist families in purchasing some of the bargains in homes on the market today, or to remodel at bargain prices now available."

The percentage of the association's total assets invested in mortgage loans increased from 85.88 Jan. 1 to 86.54 July 1.

"Establishment of the new Federal home loan bank system, which will be developed largely through the associations, undoubtedly will lead to even greater development in the business," Bodfish asserted. "The results will be reflected soon after the system is in actual operation, and it is expected our report for the full year 1932 will show an even better record than for the first six months."

STEDELIN-ASHBY, INC., REPORTS SALE OF BUNGALOWS

Stedelin-Ashby, Inc., real estate and construction company, announces the sale of three new bungalows constructed by them.

They are: 5230 Mardel avenue, a five-room brick bungalow, to a client of the Holly Hills Realty Co.; 5236 Mardel avenue, to a client; a one-and-a-half story six-room bungalow, to a client of the Joseph A. Steinlage Real Estate Co. All of these bungalows are in the Northampton Park Subdivision, a section in Southwest St. Louis.

SALESMEN WANTED

MEN
IF THESE INCOMES INTEREST YOU AND IF YOU BELIEVE YOU CAN LEARN TO FOLLOW SUCCESSFUL PROCEDURE APPLY MONDAY MORNING; WE HAVE POSITIONS OF SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY FOR MEN WHO CAN LEARN HOW TO SUCCESSFULLY CONDUCT OUR BUSINESS.

These positions are permanent, immediate, substantial. Men selected will have to take time to learn, and during this time may have to be satisfied to get along on nominal earnings of $125.00 to $200.00 per month, if necessary. Amazing saleability of our newest mechanical invention makes possible the addition of a few more men to our organization, and after the right ways of working and thinking are learned and applied makes possible substantial increases in weekly pay checks.

Some idea of how powerfully saleable our product is, of how well it meets present-day demands, was indicated again by our latest sales report. For instance, V. M. Gallivan, a former draughtsman, made $140.00 for the week; Robert Edes, earned $115.00 the same week; V. Polity, has been in this work 6 years, made $185.09; John Paris, who started 9 months ago, made $90.00 for the week, while a former coal dealer made $275.00 that week, as compared with an average of $155.00 per week during July. To quote G. A. Beane, who earned $5,248.90 with Electrolux last year (as our income tax report to the government shows): "Selling Electrolux, is a pleasant, highly remunerative profession. . . The Company's fine personnel makes the business associations all one could ask. The liberal earnings plan enabled me to buy a home for my wife and daughters."

At no time during the entire period our company has been in business has it been so successful as at present. This is true of our local branch, of our national business from coast to coast, and likewise of our world business. But such progress has been the history of our business since the invention of this wonderful product.

The first model of this product was introduced in Europe and captured one market after another as fast as organizations could be employed and manufacturing extended. Today we have five great European factories and our sales there are greater than the combined sales of all other companies attempting to compete. It is now being predicted that the American factory will surpass all others combined.

No previous sales experience required. We teach you how to sell this product in this tremendous market. No charge is made for instruction, and there is no expense of any kind in taking up the work.

Men who learn this method increase their initial incomes as beginners, and qualify for higher pay in one to six months, depending on their adaptability and application. Thus, a former accountant averaged only $39.00 per week his first 12 weeks, but made $110.00 his last week reported to us. A former fur salesman made $85.00 that week compared with an average of $53.00 per week the previous 12 weeks, while a former assistant superintendent of a department store made $85.00 his first 8 days in this work.

To men who are ambitious and honest enough to do things we teach them how to do, and who are not content just to "get by", this opportunity will mean lasting success and deep satisfaction. If you feel qualified and really want something permanent come in for a personal interview, Monday morning, 9 to 12. Also 1 to 4, at 561-564 Paul Brown Bldg., 9th and Olive streets.

July was another record sales month for this amazing Electrolux invention (not refrigeration.)

Finn Wins

U. S. 400 AND 1600-METER RELAY TEAMS SET RECORDS

By Alan Gould
Associated Press Sports Editor.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6.—Finland's second long distance Olympic victory, in the steeplechase final, today added another extraordinary chapter to the track and field championships after two rack American relay teams blast- loose world records in the 400 and 1600-meter trials.

There was no question about the superiority this time of Volmari Iso-Hollo, another of Finland's younger stars, in the steeplechase but the development that the entire field was compelled to run one lap over the specified 3000-meter distance contributetd to the general furore, coming as it did on op of Lauri Lehtinen's disputed conquest of Ralph Hill in the 5000-meter final yesterday.

Another Road—by 40,000.

The mistake, which was charged o a new and inexperienced lap-check, was costly again to the Americans and aroused another demonstration by a crowd of 40,- 00 spectators, many of whom had booed Lehtinen's tactics in blocking off Hill's final challenge the day before.

Joe McCluskey, the black-haired boy from Fordham and Connecticut, was running in second place at the regulation 3000-meter mark but the extra lap was too much for him.

McCluskey lacked his usual finishing drive and finished third, as the race was run, trailing two yards behind Tom Evenson, British star, who was a full 75 yards behind the flying Iso-Hollo.

Throughout the last four rounds over the hurdles and water jump, the Finnish star was so far in front that there was no argument over his right to the title.

Actually the 10 steeplechasers in the field covered 3450 meters, a record that the officials had not figured on. Iso-Hollo's time for the extended distance was 10 minutes 33.4 seconds, which furnished the judges at the finished the first ue, apparently, that something was radically wrong.

It had confidently been expect- ed the Finn would surpass the new Olympic record of 9 minutes 14.6 seconds which he set in the trials last Monday.

By some rapid calculation it was figured Iso-Hollo passed the 3000-meter mark today in 9 minutes 18.4 seconds. This was under the previous record for the games, 9 minutes 21.8 seconds, made by Loukola of Finland in 1928.

But Iso-Hollo did not put on extra steam until he hit the last lap.

The runners, after a long conference, decided against accepting an offer to run the steeplechase over again at the regulation distance. It would have to be run off tomorrow, since the track and field championships have only one more day to go, and they felt it would be oo soon to attempt another such grueling test.

McCluskey Gets Ovation.

McCluskey's sportsmanship, under the circumstances, in accepting third place whe he might well have been the runnerup, was accorded a big ovation.

McCluskey, as well as his teammates—Glen Dawson of Oklahoma and Walter Pritchard of Hamilton College (New York)—were no atch for Iso-Hollo, who, as a 10,- 00-meter man, found the added distance no particular handicap. While the Finn was steadily shaking off all rivals, including Dawson, who challenged Iso-Hollo early in the race and went to the front for

Blaeholder Yields Only Five Hits, But Browns Lose to Athletics, 4-2

By James M. Gould.

George Blaeholder gave the Philadelphia Athletics only five hits yesterday afternoon, but as luck would have it, one of them was a homer by Al Simmons with one on and the other was a single following a two-bagger. These were the main factors in the result of the game which went to the Mackmen by a 4-2 score, the victory giving them the series, two games to one.

The Browns' attack began and ended in the first inning when Campbell hit a homer with Schulte on. Thereafter, they bothered Walberg a bit in three of the remaining innings but the Philadelphia southpaw, recording his thirteenth victory of the season and his third over the 1932 Browns, always had enough in reserve to put down the brief uprisings.

The story is told by the "left on bases" record. The Athletics had only three stranded while the Browns left nine on.

Simmons' 26th Homer.

Simmons' homer was his twenty-sixth of the season. Also, it was Al's only hit off Blaeholder. Foxx went hitless. He always has maintained that Blaeholder was the hardest pitcher for him to hit and, yesterday, Foxx grounded out three times and struck out once.

The Browns were away to a two-run lead in the first. Schulte doubled and advanced on Burns' sacrifice. Then Campbell, who, against southpaws, appears either to strike out or hit a very long ball, skimmed one off the pavilion roof and trotted around after Schulte. This advantage stood up until Blaeholder had a case of jitters in the third. He walked Walberg and Bishop first up and Haas, of course, sacrificed. Walberg scored while Melillo was throwing Cochrane out and Bishop counted ahead of Simmons, when Al dropped one in the seats in right center.

Threats by the Browns in the third and fifth were squelched by Walberg, in both cases, when he made Rick Ferrell fly out to Bing Miller.

Schulte Wrecks Scoring Chance.

Another glorious St. Louis chance went hay-wire in the sixth. Melillo opened with a single and Scharein walked. Levey sacrificed prettily and the bases were filled when Walberg passed Blaeholder. Schulte, however, picked on the first ball and grounded to McNair, who started a fast double play.

Blaeholder recovered notably from his unsteadiness in the third and after Simmons' homer in that inning retired the next 14 men to face him. But, with one out in the eighth, Schulte missed a shoestring catch of Bishop's drive and it went for a double. Haas then planted a single in right for the fourth Philadelphia run. Walberg passed Ferrell to start the St. Louis half but he settled down and made Melillo hit into a double play.

The Athletics went down in order in the ninth with Foxx striking out to end a hitless afternoon for him but the Browns couldn't bother Walberg in their last chance.

Brownie Notes.

WITH a doubleheader today day against the Yankees, Manager Killefer will start Walter Stewart in one of the games and may give Bob Cooney who a few days ago, defeated Boston, a chance in the second contest. Tomorrow is an open date.

The Browns had their usual weather-luck with rain an hour before game time and the attendance was not more than 1000.

After a half-game vacation, Al Simmons returned to the game and Mickey Cochrane went behind the bat where he looks much better than in left field.

Quite a clever record by Walberg was shattered when Bruce

Killefer to Carry On.

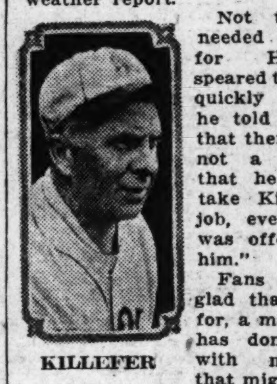
PRESIDENT PHIL BALL has announced that Bill Killefer will, as manager of the Browns, carry on for three years more, thereby killing the Hornsby rumor deader than a last year's weather report.



KILLEFER

Not that it needed killing, for Hornsby speared that one quickly when he told friends that there "was not a chance that he would take Killefer's job, even if it was offered to him."

Fans will be glad that Killefor, a man who has done well with material that might have discouraged many a less optimistic worker, is to remain in charge of the players whom he has welded into a hard-fighting unit, one that is always trying.

Deal Us Two "Aces."

WHETHER Killefer and the Browns go places, next season, depends on the reinforcements that may be added to the present roster of the club. As it stands now the squad has several weaknesses, and only additional material can remedy them.

Bill the Builder has wrought right well with the materials handed him when he succeeded Dan Howley, but he can't work miracles.

The first big effort to build up the team caused something of a smile among the boys who thought they knew baseball. That was because late in 1930, when the reconstruction work on the team began, the rebuilding was done mainly with minor league material.

The roster of the club today shows that of the 22 players under contract not more than seven were rated as real major leaguers in the fall of 1930!

The other 15 were pulled in from minor leagues where they had, for the most part, never graduated to the majors. Several had been up and failed to make the grade. No fewer than four of them came up from one club, Wichita Falls. Vice-President McElroy dug up most of this talent.

Bill the Builder Makes Good.

IT did appear that a major league club "built up" of more than half minor leaguers must be doomed to failure. But, under the handling of Killefer, several of the players turned out to be real stars.

Burns and Levey appeared to be failures for a time, but Killefer's patience pulled them out of the rut and today they are going strong.

Bruce Campbell, picked up in a deal with the Sox, is coming through. Storti is improving, and Scharein will be a standout Faireno, away fast and taken across rather sharply in the run to first turn, was clear before going a quarter, made the pace under good rating, maintained his advantage easily to final eighth, then weakened, and while not seriously threatened, had little left. My Dandy, in close quarters shortly after the start, saved ground throughout and stood a long drive gamely. Big Brand began slowly, saved much ground when working his way up and was strongest of all in final stages. Polydorus missed the early crowding, was on inside throughout, and had no mishap. Evergold met interference, moved up with a rush and weakened in stretch. Plucky Play crowded back, moved up mildly on outside at far turn, but weakened in stretch, showing a dull effort. Epithet had early speed and pulled up lame. Charleigh was outclassed and outrun after a half-mile. Pittsburgher bolted into the outer rail at first turn when he became unmanageable, broke leg and was destroyed.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Rushing into the lead a second after the start Faireno, winner of four important stakes this year, galloped to an easy victory in the $25,000 added Hawthorne Handicap today.

Faireno, owned by William Woodward, New York, won by a length and a half, with My Dandy, a 20 to 1 shot in the betting, second and Big Brand, a field horse, third. Polydorus was fourth in the field of 12. Evergold was fifth and Plucky Play, which conquered Equipoise in the Arlington Handicap, sixth.

The winner stepped the mile and an eighth in 1:52 2-5, closing at 2 to 1 in the betting. Faireno, coupled with Blenheim as an entry, paid $6.26 to win, $4.12 to place and $3.16 to show. The place price on My Dandy was $16.82, with $10.90 to show, while Big Brand paid $4.36 to show.

Tragedy for Pittsburgher.

The race resulted in tragedy for Pittsburgher, the big Kentucky Handicap star, owned by Theodore Mueller of Louisville, a member of the Kentucky Racing Association.

As the big field swept past the throng of 25,000, Pittsburgher, one of the favorites, stumbled and fell to his knees in front of the clubhouse. The big four-year-old quickly recovered footing, but the reins had snapped out of Jockey Wayne Wright's hands.

Pittsburgher, unguided and wearing blinkers, charged into the outside fence, which had been camouflaged by trees.

As Pittsburgher plunged through the iron fence, Jockey Wright slid off his back, probably saving his life. Pittsburgher gamely limped back onto the track, but his right fore leg was shattered. The gallant thoroughbred, a starter in the Kentucky Derby a year ago, was quickly put out of misery with a pistol shot.

Faireno Earns $25,950.

Today's race had a gross value of $33,500 with $25,950 going to Owner Woodward. Previous to today's race Faireno, victorious in five out of nine starts, had won $81,665.

JAPANESE HORSEMAN HURT WHEN MOUNT TRIPS

By the Associated Press.

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Aug. 6.—Maj. Shigetomo Yoshida, a star of the Japanese equestrian team at the Olympic Games, suffered the fracture of a cheekbone in a fall from a horse in a jump today.

The horse tripped on the top pole of a four-foot barrier throwing the Major and trampling his face. Physicians said the injury would prevent Maj. Hoshida from participating in his event, the Prix Des Nations competition, next Wednesday.

HATZFELD NINE IN MISSOURI LEGION FINAL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 6.—Slugging their way to an easy 18-8 victory over the Kansas City team, the Hatzfeld Post nine of St. Louis entered the final round for the State Junior American Legion championship here this afternoon. The St. Louisans will play for the title tomorrow afternoon against Kirksville, which won the other semi-final contest of the doubleheader today over Springfield, 7 to 6.

Kansas City put up little opposition against Hatzfeld. Morrie Rich, St. Louis' second-string pitcher, hurled the whole game, and fanned 12 batters, walked four and was found for eight hits.

Great Day for Batters.

Hatzfeld's batters also had a great day. Four triples and a home run out of 13 hits, coupled with 12 Kansas City errors, sent the St. Louis runners around the bases in quick succession. Never did they fail to get at least one hit in each inning.

Three Kansas City pitchers tried to stop the St. Louisans, but the Hatzfeld boys never stopped driving. Four runs in the first frame started the St. Louis bombardment, and Kansas City failed to threaten thereafter. Six Hatzfeld errors accounted for several of Kansas City's runs.

Steiner Pitches Today.

Not having to replace Rich on the mound today gave St. Louis a good chance to win tomorrow, for Ollie Steiner, the star southpaw, will be on the mound.

In the opener, Kirksville came from behind to win over Springfield. Two Springfield errors allowed Kirksville to tie the score in the eighth.

KANSAS STAR FINISHES WITH 8462.23 POINTS; JARVINEN IS SECOND

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6.—Jim Bausch, American allround star from Kansas, late today captured the Olympic decathlon championship, smashing the world and Olympic records to bits.

Bausch finished the ten-event two-day battle with the spectacular total of 8462.23 points for the greatest all-around performance of all time.

Akilles Jarvinen of Finland, who had held the previous world record at 8255.475 points, surpassed this also but had to be satisfied with second place with a total of 8292.48 points.

The former Olympic record, made by Paavo Yrjola of Finland, was 8053.29 points, made in 1928.

The next three finishers, in order, were: Third, Wolrad Eberle of Germany, with 8030.80 points; fourth, Wilson Charles, United States, 7985 points; fifth, Hans Sievert, Germany, 7941.07 points.

Defending Champion Sixth.

Paavo Yrjola, the defending champion, finished sixth with 7658.09 points, well below his winning performance of four years ago and barely sufficient to shut the third American, Clyde Coffman of Kansas, out of the scoring. Coffman was seventh with 7534.41 points.

Eleven of the original field of 14 that started the all-around battle finished. The other point scores were: Eighth, Robert Hisdall, Ireland, 7327.17; ninth, Erwin Wegner, Germany, 7179.93; tenth, P. Bacsalmasi, Hungary, 7001.73; eleventh, Harry Hart, South Africa, 6999.25.

Dusk fell across the huge Olympic Stadium before the decathlon was finished but most of the crowd forgot their suppers and remained to give Bausch's magnificent performance a great ovation.

"Jarring Jim," as he was known when he was a battering ram fullback for the University of Kansas Jayhawkers, never reached national prominence until this year, when he won the national championship in the final tryouts at Chicago with a record-breaking performance.

Thorpe's Mark Surpassed.

Today, however, he surpassed himself and eclipsed anything in all-around history, including the performance of Jim Thorpe, whose victory with something like 8400 points at the Olympics of 1912 was thrown out on the subsequent evidence of the Indian's professionalism.

Bausch was only fifth when today's events began, with his teammate, Buster Charles, the Oneida Indian, setting the pace. "Jarring Jim" however, came through the decisive tests with the finest performances of his career, clearing 13 feet 2 inches in the pole vault, hurling the discus 146 feet, 3¼ inches and then tossing the javelin 203 feet, 1⅛ inches to beat the Finns at their own game.

Bausch was first in all these events, although he shared the top height in the pole vault with his teammate, Coffman, in an astonishing exhibition of vaulting for a 200-pound athlete. The new champion the day before had topped the shot putting with 50 feet, 3⅛ inches.

"Jarring Jim" was a tired youth when it came to the last event, the 1500-meter run. Heavy-footed by then, Bausch was no match for Jarvinen and others of slimmer mould, but he plodded around the track rapidly enough to clinch the world title and record.

Buster Charles set the first day's pace with the remarkable total of 4266.20 points, due to his speed in the foot races and his agility in the jumps, but the American Indian faded in the rougher and tougher field events.

Injuries in the pole vault spoiled the chances of two leading contenders, Sievert of Germany and Dimsa of Latvia. Sievert was in front of the entire field when he hurt his ankle landing in the vault-

SWEDISH COUNT BEATS U. S. ACE IN PENTATHLON

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6.—A slender young American Army officer with plenty of heart but not enough leg power crumpled today in the last event of the Olympic Games pentathlon, a heart-breaking cross-country run, and America's finest bid for this championship tottered before the iron men of Sweden.

A member of the Swedish nobility, Count Johan Gabriel Oxenstierna, in whose land the modern pentathlon was conceived, renewed Sweden's dominance of this strenuous athletic test by proving that steadiness could outshine brilliance.

Never a winner nor never far behind in any event of the five-day program, the Count won the pentathlon with a point total of 32, far back of the Olympic record of 14, but good enough to conquer the two leaders of the first four days, Bo Sigfrid Lindman, a fellow countryman, and Lieut. Richard Mayo, United States Artillery, Fort Sill, Ok.

Lindman Is Runnerup.

Lindman was runnerup to Oxenstierna with 35½ points and Mayo placed third, the best record of any American in Olympic pentathlon history and ahead by half-a-point of the 1928 champion, another Swede, Sven Alfred Thofelt, who had 39 points scored against him.

Mayo, who stepped into the lead Thursday with almost a perfect performance in pistol shooting, breaking the Olympic record for this event, wilted in the 4000-meter race today. He ended in seventeenth place in the event. He tried so gallantly in the up-hill-and-down-dale run that he finished on the verge of collapse.

Two Britons ran one-two in the event, although it made slight difference in the final standings. Charles Percy Digby Legard won in 15 minutes 12 1-5 seconds, followed by Jeffrey McDougall, 15 minutes 42 seconds, with Ivan Duranthon of France, third, 16m 03 1-5 seconds, and Lindman, fourth, 16 minutes 05 1-5 seconds.

The Swedish Count won the championship by placing fourth in riding, fourteenth in fencing, second in shooting, fifth in swimming and seventh in running, although Lindman and Mayo had the most brilliant records. Lindman was first in riding, tied for second in fencing, was nineteenth in shooting, ninth in swimming and fourth in running, while Mayo placed second in riding, tied for fourth in fencing, took first in shooting, fourteenth in swimming and seventeenth in running. Thoefelt captured firsts in fencing and swimming.

By Damon Kerby.

With the prize list more than doubled over previous years, the eighth annual Post-Dispatch Babe Ruth All-America team contest opens today and will remain open until midnight of Aug. 31.

Nineteen cash prizes, totaling $700—first prize being $200—and 50 other valuable awards will be given to successful entrants in the contest, the nature of which is probably familiar to a majority of Post-Dispatch readers through previous similar events.

The plan of the contest, with no strings attached, is this:

BABE RUTH.

Babe Ruth will select an all-star team from the two major leagues. He will name the player he considers the leading player in the majors in each position. Two pitchers will be chosen. He will place the players in the batting order he would use if he were sending the men to bat in a regular game.

Contestants will be asked to select teams for comparison with Ruth's, and to name the players as nearly as possible in Ruth's batting order. An essay, not to exceed 250 words, in which the contestant must explain why he named his players, must accompany each all-star team. No contestant may submit more than one all-star team.

The First Prize.

The entrant who names Ruth's exact team in the proper batting order will get first prize of $200, or double the first award of previous years. Second prize will be $150; third, $100; fourth, $50; and there will be five prizes of $20 each and 10 prizes of $10 each.

The next 25 winners, in the order of merit, will receive baseball bats, autographed by Babe Ruth, and the next 25 will be awarded regulation American League baseballs, also autographed by Ruth, and mounted for use as blotters.

In the event of a tie among contestants for any award, the selection of the winning entrant will be determined on the merit of the accompanying essay. Failure to submit an essay with an all-star team selection will mean automatic disqualification.

Of course, if the exact duplicate of Ruth's team is not submitted, first prize will go to the contestant whose team is nearest to that of Ruth's. Judging will be handled by three prominent St. Louisans to be selected by the Post-Dispatch.

The contest offers Post-Dispatch readers—excepting Post-Dispatch employes and their families—an opportunity to test their baseball knowledge with that of one of the greatest baseball figure of all time.

Ruth's Status.

Ruth is a hitter of home runs, but he is far more than "a man with a bat in his hand." Players and experts alike agree that he has one of the really keen baseball minds of our times. He is intimately acquainted through first-hand observation with American League players, and he is also in close contact with players in the National League. His all-star team selections have become the "official" of baseball.

In order to get the full benefit of observation from others, however, he has asked to assist him—as in previous years—10 leading sports editors on the big league circuits. John E. Wray of the Post-Dispatch is the St. Louis sports editor so named.

The 10 experts will submit their all-star teams to Ruth, explaining their choices, and the Bambino will examine these teams and explanations before making his final selections. Final judgment of selecting the team, though, rests solely with Ruth.

New Record Likely For Ruth Contest

A NEW record for the number of teams submitted in the annual Babe Ruth All-America team contest is expected this year, what with the contest being really "bigger and better" with the list of awards more than doubled.

Interest in the contest has grown steadily each year. A new high point was reached last season when approximately 10,000 Post-Dispatch readers selected teams.

Despite the great number of teams to be judged, entrants may be assured that painstaking care, as in previous years, will be taken by the judges in examining every team submitted.

Winner of first prize last season was J. J. O'Rourke, a 54-year-old machinist's helper of De Soto, Mo.

Fine Performances of Youngsters Add Greatly to Interest in the Selection

The contest has interesting possibilities for every student of baseball, aside from the valuable cash awards—and who, may be asked, would this year pass up an opportunity at collecting $200, cash in hand, or, for that matter, a $10 bill? But for the contest itself:

A number of brilliant youngsters who have, to a certain extent, taken the play away from stars of others seasons, will make the selection of any all-star team an interesting problem. How good is Monte Weaver, the Senators' new pitching star? And what about Lonnie Warneke of the Cubs? And Huck Betts of the Braves, and Bill Swift of the Pirates? Are these men, this year, better than the Groves, the Gomezes, the Ferrells, the Vances?

The contestant may already have the answer to these questions in his own mind. Fine! Because, if so, he already has one of the big problems of choosing the correct team out of the way.

It may be emphasized that previous years' performances do not count. Some stocks that were paying dividends in previous years are valuable only as fancy wallpaper and for other like uses this year, and by the same token some of the valuable players of other years are "down" this season. Use only this year's performances in selecting the all-star team.

Averages of National and American League players are published in today's Post-Dispatch. They should be studied carefully before entering a team.

Emphasized Points.

Don't Forget That—

PLAYERS' performances during the present season ONLY will count with Babe Ruth when he selects his All-America team for this year. This is the first rule to remember in making your selections.

Don't send in more than one selection.

Don't name Ruth, as he will not name himself.

Don't pick your team at random. Study the batting and pitching averages, which will be published each Sunday.

Don't forget to put your name and address on your team and letter.

Don't write more than 250 words in the accompanying essay.

Don't write your team and letter on the same piece of paper.

Although the contest runs until Aug. 31, today is not too early to send in your selection. Players' performances for the year are fairly well known at this time, and a selection now might "pay off," whereas indecision and the ignoring of a first "hunch" might lead the contestant to make a costly error.

Submit all-star selections to the Babe Ruth Contest Editor, care the Post-Dispatch.

Rules Governing Babe Ruth's All-America Team Contest

THE contest is open to everyone, except employes of the Post-Dispatch and their families.

Entries will close Aug. 31 at midnight, and letters bearing postmark up to that time will be considered eligible.

The contestant naming the same players in the same positions and batting order as Babe Ruth wins the first prize; but in event no contestant duplicates Ruth's picks, the one nearest will be considered the winner.

In addition to naming the players to conform to those chosen by Ruth, contestants must arrange them in the same batting order as Babe Ruth. The Babe has agreed to place his choices in the order in which he thinks they should go to the plate.

An explanatory letter of not more than 250 words must accompany the selections and will be passed upon by the judges. This is as important as selecting the players. Babe himself will write an explanation of his choices. In event of a tie, excellence of the compositions would determine the winner. (Write on one side of the paper only and make your selections on a separate sheet.)

Ten players will make up the team, two pitchers and eight other players, one for each position. Only one team may be submitted by each contestant.

No corrections will be accepted once an entry has been received and filed.

Babe Ruth is not eligible. He will not pick himself.

Players must be selected on the basis of their play in the 1932 season only. Performances of previous years do not count.

A player may be placed in a position other than the one he regularly occupies, provided he has played such position in one or more championship games. Otherwise regular positions must be rigidly adhered to. For instance, a regular left fielder may not be placed in right field unless he has played there at least once in 1932.

The trophies will be $200 cash for first, $150 for second, $100 for third, $50 for fourth. There will be five of $20 each and 10 of $10 each. The next 25 winners will receive baseball bats, autographed by Babe Ruth, and the last 25 winners will be awarded regulation American League baseballs, autographed by Ruth and mounted for use as blotters.

Mail selections to the Babe Ruth Contest Editor, care the Post-Dispatch.

Four Players Sure to Draw Votes in Ruth's Contest

Wood Outlasts Mangin for Title At Southampton

By the Associated Press.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Battling his way through five sets of torrid tennis, played with the thermometer hovering around 90 degrees, Sidney Wood, New York internationalist, again displayed his supremacy over Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., to win the Meadow Club's forty-second annual invitation tournament today. The scores were 4—6, 6—2, 6—3, 12—14, 7—5.

In defeating Mangin for the second time within a week and the fourth time this season, Wood was forced to play his best tennis of the season. He lost the first set, won the next two and apparently was on his way to another easy victory when Mangin rallied and took the 26-game fourth set.

Wood was within a point of victory in the twentieth game but was unable to stave off Mangin's spectacular rally featured by service aces, in a smashing overhead game.

Again in the fifth set, the New Yorker was at match point five times before he finally put across a smashing placement from the net for the deciding point.

During the latter part of the three-hour match, both players frequently fell from exhaustion. There were times when both players talked with linesmen about doubtful decisions.

The victory gave Wood, who defeated Mangin in the final at Seabright last week, his second leg on the Meadow Club trophy.

DAUERS PLAY HUDSONS IN EAST SIDE LEAGUE

Ray Fansher's Dauers, pacemakers in the second-half split-season schedule of the East St. Louis Municipal Baseball League, with seven consecutive victories, will meet the Hudsons in the feature of the four-game schedule this afternoon at Jones Park, East St. Louis.

In another contest that should prove interesting, the Polish National Alliance will meet the Monsantos. In the other contests, the Hunters oppose the Verhovey Aids, while the Wackemeyers meet the Pennsylvanias.

Tennis Matches Postponed.

Municipal tennis tournament matches scheduled yesterday on the Jefferson Memorial courts in Forest Park were postponed until this afternoon on account of wet courts. Matches postponed included those in the women's Class A and the Men's Class B divisions.

DODGERS TIED FOR 4TH PLACE AFTER DEFEATING PIRATES, 2 TO 1

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 6.—The Dodgers gained a foothold on the first division ladder today, tying the Boston Braves for fourth place as they scored their third straight triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2 to 1, while Boston split a double-header with Cincinnati.

It was the Dodgers' twelfth victory in 14 games and the league leaders' seventh straight defeat.

Freddy Heimach, Dodger southpaw, came out ahead of Heinie Meine and Bill Harris in a pitching duel only through the medium of a Pirate error. The Bucs outhit the home team, 8-7. With two out and the bases loaded in the third inning, Floyd Vaughan, young Pittsburgh shortstop, booted Hack Wilson's grounder and let Brooklyn score both its runs.

Reds and Braves Divide Twin Bill.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Aug. 6.—Wes Schulmerich and Ray Kolp were the heroes of the day today as the Braves and Reds divided a double-header. Boston won the first game, 4 to 3, with a spectacular four-run rally in the ninth, but were shutout, 3 to 0, by Kolp in the second.

Schulmerich's mighty home run smash off Larry Benton with two on gave the Braves the verdict in the opener.

FERRELL HOLDS RED SOX TO ONE HIT, INDIANS TRIUMPH, 3 TO 0

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 6.—Dale Alexander, Red Sox first baseman, sent a treacherous hopper past second to rob Wes Ferrell, ace right-hander, of a no-hit, no-run game today as Cleveland defeated Boston, 3 to 0. Alexander's bounder hopped over Cissell just as the Tribe's second baseman stretched his hands for it in the fourth inning.

The victory was Ferrell's eighteenth of the season. He allowed only two bases on balls and only seven drives went out of the infield.

The triumph gave the Indians a clean sweep of the four-game series and their fourteenth victory in 15 games with the Red Sox.

White Sox and Yanks Break Even.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Sad Sam Jones, knocked out of the game Thursday, came back and pitched the White Sox to a 10 to 5 victory over the New York Yankees in the first game of today's double-header. The Yanks, with Ben Chapman batting in all the runs, took the second clash, 4 to 1.

Jones gave only eight hits, including Lou Gehrig's twenty-sixth home run of the season while the Sox bunched their 13 blows. Chapman's homer with two on in the ninth won the second game for the Yanks behind Johnny Allen's four-hit pitching.

Crowder allowed the Tigers 12 hits, but so effective was his support that most of them were wasted. His team-mates on the other hand made the most of the 10 hits they made off Whitehill and Wyatt and were aided by five bases on balls and a costly error by Walker.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Jim Mooney, the Ten pitched the Giants to their third straight victory this afternoon in the first game of a doublehe then ran out of left-handers and the Redbirds, throwing at them with his right arm, pounded Ad Gibson and gained an even break for the day b Yorkers in the second contest.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.

The Redbirds will have a day of rest tomorrow, but tomorrow night they will play an exhibition game under the flood lights at Staten Island. They depart for Philadelphia Monday morning for four games in three days with the tough Phillies.

Bill Hallahan pitched in batting practice again this afternoon. He may give the arm a test in the series with the Phils.

Jimmy Wilson, who has been handicappd by a sore thumb on his right hand, injured when the Cards were in Philadelphia on their last trip, was forced out of the first game today, when Hogan fell on Jim's hand sliding to the plate in the eighth inning. Umpire Moran had called Hogan out, so Jim was charged with an error (his third of the game). He was penalized for losing a foul in the sun and he had a real error, making a wild throw trying to catch Critz stealing.

Pepper Martin, suffering from an annoying skin rash, departed for St. Louis today to report to Dr. Robert F. Hyland, the club surgeon.

BLAEHOLDER ALLOWS ONLY FOUR HITS BUT BROWNS LOSE, 4 TO 2

Campbell hit his homer in the first. The Philadelphia left-hander had 19 straight scoreless innings to his credit, including shutouts over Detroit and Cleveland in succession.

Blaeholder used the same system in the first two innings. He got the first two men, let the next single and then retired No. 3.

Lack of control put Blaeholder in bad in the third for, after one had scored on an infield out, Simmons, after striking out his first time up, poled homer No. 26 into the stands in right-center. It was the only hit of the three-run inning.

There was a strong wind blowing in during the game and it gave Goslin quite a chase for Miller's foul in the fourth. But El Goose made the grade and the catch.

Bill Killefer naturally was delighted with his reappointment. This made it unanimous as every player was "pulling hard" for the gentleman from Paw Paw.

CATCHING AND MAXWELL IN TRI STATE FINAL

JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 6.—Dane Catching of Joplin and Dale Maxwell, youthful Columbus, Kan., golfer, will meet in a 36-hole match tomorrow for the Tri-State golf championship.

Catching advanced to the finals today by disposing of Joe Bill Hogeboom of Springfield, in a dazzling burst of par-shattering golf. The Joplinite scored 31, four under par, to have Hogeboom six down at the turn, and then shot one over par on the next five holes to end the match.

Maxwell took advantage of erratic putting by Johnny Ferguson, Springfield star, to win a ragged match, one up.

By J. Roy Stockton.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Jim Mooney, the Tennessee schoolmaster, pitched the Giants to their third straight victory over the Cardinals this afternoon in the first game of a doubleheader, but Bill Terry then ran out of left-handers and the Redbirds, happy to see a man throwing at them with his right arm, pounded Adolfo Luque and Sam Gibson and gained an even break for the day by crushing the New Yorkers in the second contest.

Mooney held the world champions to five hits in taking the opener, 5 to 1, while the Redbirds collected the luscious and unusual total of 21 safeties in scoring their victory, 10 to 2, thereby breaking a losing streak of four straight and the New York winning streak of six straight and giving Dizzy Dean his ninth decision of the season.

Carleton in Fine Form.

The Cardinals were first to score in the first game. Collins doubled to left in the second inning and Orsatti's triple off Marshall's shin netted their only run of the contest. Lindstrom's double and English's single tied the count in the second half of the frame, and Bill Terry put New York ahead in the fourth, hitting a homer into the upper deck of the right-field stands.

Tex Carleton retired for a pinch hitter in the eighth and with Stout pitching the Giants added three runs in their half. Critz singled to right, stole second, took third on Wilson's wild throw and scored on a wild pitch. Hogan singled to left and scored on Allen's double past Frisch when Wilson dropped Blades' throw.

Allen took third on that error, but was out at the plate on Terry's grounder to Gelbert. English then singled to right and Terry scored from first with the third run of the inning.

Dean Gains Easy Victory.

Luque held the Cardinals in check for three innings in the second game, but Street's warriors broke loose in the fourth and drove six runs over the plate, making the rest of the afternoon a pleasant job for Dizzy Dean.

Bottomley opened the attack with a single and was forced by Collins. Orsatti, Watkins, Mancuso and Dean then singled and Reese doubled to drive Luque from the box. Sam Gibson struck out Gelbert, but Frisch singled to score Reese with the sixth run of the frame.

Reese Reels Off Homer.

Gibson was bombarded in the fifth, the Cardinals batting around again and adding four runs to their total. With one out Orsatti singled, Watkins doubled and Mancuso sent them home with a single. Reese then hit into the lower deck of the right-field stand for a homer, scoring behind Mancuso.

Dean turned in one of his best games of the season in the nightcap, holding the Giants to seven hits. Lindstrom picked on a slow ball and hit into the left-field seats for a homer in the fourth inning, and the second and final New York run was a gift in the ninth. Terry led with a single, and after English and Marshall had been retired, Bill took second unmolested and scored when Leslie, batting for Schumacher, singled to center.

Ernie Orsatti distinguished himself in the final by hitting five singles for a perfect day at bat.

RED BIRD NOTES

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.

The Redbirds will have a day of rest tomorrow, but tomorrow night they will play an exhibition game under the flood lights at Staten Island. They depart for Philadelphia Monday morning for four games in three days with the tough Phillies.

Bill Hallahan pitched in batting practice again this afternoon. He may give the arm a test in the series with the Phils.

Umpire Moran had called Hogan out, so Jim was charged with an error (his third of the game). He was penalized for losing a foul in the sun and he had a real error, making a wild throw trying to catch Critz stealing.

Pepper Martin, suffering from an annoying skin rash, departed for St. Louis today to report to Dr. Robert F. Hyland, the club surgeon.

The doubleheader attracted about 12,000 persons, showing what a winning streak will do.

CATCHING AND MAXWELL IN TRI STATE FINAL

JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 6.—Dane Catching of Joplin and Dale Maxwell, youthful Columbus, Kan., golfer, will meet in a 36-hole match tomorrow for the Tri-State golf championship.

Catching advanced to the finals today by disposing of Joe Bill Hogeboom of Springfield, in a dazzling burst of par-shattering golf. The Joplinite scored 31, four under par, to have Hogeboom six down at the turn, and then shot one over par on the next five holes to end the match.

Maxwell took advantage of erratic putting by Johnny Ferguson, Springfield star, to win a ragged match, one up.

ing pit, but this event took so long to complete that he was able to return and finish the program, under considerable handicap.

Dimsa was second to Bausch, with the pole vault finished, but found a foot sprain so severe that he had to withdraw. Dimsa's total for eight events was 6636.04, but he was nearly 300 points behind Bausch at the time and had no real chance to overhaul the American.

WALTER HAGEN AND JURADO PLAY TODAY AT MEADOW BROOK

By W. J. McGoogan.

Walter Hagen, Western open champion and Jose Jurado, sensational Argentine golfer, who are making an exhibition tour of the United States, will show in St. Louis today, opposing Bill Schwartz, Meadow Brook professional and Ralph Guldahl of the St. Louis Country Club in an 18-hole best ball match at Meadow Brook Golf Club this afternoon, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

Hagen has appeared in exhibitions and in tournaments in St. Louis many times in the past and has proved to be about the most popular golfer to show his wares here.

He is a very colorful player and the galleries like him despite his disposition to be late at the first tee.

In Schwartz and Guldahl the visiting pair will be meeting two young professionals who are always at their best at Meadow Brook. The course is Schwartz's home and he holds the record there with two 64's, while Guldahl since his advent to St. Louis this spring has always shown to advantage there.

Schwartz in some 10 rounds of medal competition over different courses here this year has averaged about 72, the same figure which Guldahl has attained. That is just about par.

Just the other day Schwartz and Guldahl played in a foursome at Meadow Brook, each turning in a 71, one under par.

The course is 6244 yards long with a par of 36 on each nine. It is not regarded as particularly difficult by good golfers but the rolling contour of its greens makes putting very difficult except for the most expert. It is at this feature of the game that Hagen has always excelled.

Hagen won the U. S. open title in 1914 and again in 1919. He held the British open championship in 1922, 1924, 1928 and 1929. In addition he has won numerous lesser championships. He just recently captured the Western Open for the fifth time in a tournament in which Bill Schwartz shot 298 for the 72 holes to finish well up on the list.

Jurado has won the Argentine championship seven times and made strong bids for the British Open. He is making his first appearance in the United States.

Guldahl, the young professional who came to the County Club this spring after leaving a job in Detroit, has been playing weekly matches at various clubs throughout the District. He is a powerful golfer.

Meadow Brook was formerly called Midland Valley. It is located on the Creve Coeur Lake car line on Ashby road and Canter Way. Admission to the match will be $1.10.

Moore Leaves Westborough.

Due to economic conditions, Frank Moore has been dismissed as assistant professional to Orville White at Westborough Country Club and plans to devote the rest of the season to teaching at a driving range in the county.

Moore was one of the St. Louis players to represent the city in the National Open this year and did well for three rounds. He blew up in the final 18 holes, scoring an 89 and destroying any chance he might have had to finish among the leaders.

SHOTTON SIGNS TO MANAGE PHILLIES FOR THREE MORE SEASONS

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—Burton E. Shotton, manager of the Philadelphia National League baseball team, today signed a three year contract to continue in that post, it was announced by L. C. Ruch, president.

Now in his fifth year as manager, Shotton has put the Phils in the thick of the pennant fight this season, and Ruch announced that the contract has been renewed at this time in order to free the leader's mind from thoughts of the future while the club is making a home stretch bid for the championship.

The salary terms of the contract were not announced.

WRAY'S COLUMN

next year if he can maintain the early pace he has set.

Killefer has a club today that is made up largely of young, ambitious boys who are becoming seasoned veterans. But the team will have to be reinforced by a pitcher who can win 20 games a season, a batter who can clean up the bases and a full quota of subs.

The Browns' infield now seems set, if Scharein stands up. The outfield is fair, the catching staff is first-class, as long as Ferrell is able to do the bulk of the work; but the pitching staff is not satisfactory. Too few mound men of real starting merit have hurt the club's chances. Gray seems to have relapsed into relief roles definitely.

It would, however, take only two strictly first-class players to put the Browns on the 1933 map—and perhaps these will be forthcoming in spite of Old Man Depression.

Safe for America.

THE Olympic Games of 1932 have already been made safe for America. Even before yesterday's races the United States' athletes had rolled up nine firsts and more than 170 points, which more than tripled the total of any rival nation.

With the games ending this afternoon it seems highly probable that the Americans will finish with 11 or 12 firsts, thereby exceeding the expectations of the coaches.

Gauged purely on the number of first places won, America deserves the unofficial world's track and field championship. Every country that had a standout man in any event sent that representative to the games.

While it is unfair to judge the athletic strength of rival nations on points, due to the fact that the high cost of transportation prevented many countries from sending their full complement of three men for each event, the decision on first places is fair. It indicates that America is almost equal to the task of beating all the other nations of the world added together. The total number of track and field events scheduled was 23, and of this number America by tonight will have achieved nearly half of that total.

And but for the sportsmanship of Hill in not protesting Lehtinen's foul in the 5000 meters, the United States would have had still another first place.

All the bear stories about the decline of American athletics that followed the Amsterdam games of 1928, and the "growing athletic strength of rival European nations," have turned out to be duds. Because of its highly developed system of developing track and field men, there is little danger of any nation outstripping the United States for some time to come.

Ouch! That Sore Lip Again!

BOSTON, among other communities which take a delight in being thrown for a loss by wrestling promotions advertised as "championship matches," seems to fall for some of the most outrageous publicity ever devoted to a sporting event.

For a recent "championship" show in Boston, between Henri de Glane and a rough-house actor, Jack Washburn, one newspaper gave nearly 10 columns of advance space in pictures and type, treating the affair in all seriousness, analyzing the chances of the performers and publishing a symposium of popular opinion.

If wrestlers have a sense of humor, their sore lips must give them constant pain. They surely can't keep from laughing—in their sleeves at their dupes.

Incidentally Washburn, who is known as the "roughhouse king of the mat," is scheduled to appear in one of the events on the al fresco program at Battery A Arena. There will be little wrestling but plenty of heavy-showmanship, in all probability.

Reconcile These.

WHETHER the publishers of this pumped-up publicity are unconscious in their sincerity, or conscious of their insincerity, we make no attempt to decide. But we may mention in passing that the writer of a signed column in the sport section above referred to, in one paragraph expressed the belief that the event would prove to be a great show and in the next intimated that it was his personal opinion that Jack Washburn, as a wrestler, was a champion truck driver—or words of similar import.

On a previous occasion, another Boston morning paper, with an early evening street edition, published, in the column of one of its experts, a reference to the RESULT of a wrestling match two hours before the bout had begun!

One naturally concludes that the writer knew in advance what was going to happen. Otherwise, how could he comment about that result before the show took place?

FINNISH STAR WINS STEEPLECHASE; FURORE OVER EXTRA LAP

a few moments, McCluskey stayed back around fifth place.

Not until the fifth lap did McCluskey make a real move. He passed Dawson as he went into fourth place, in pursuit of two Britons, Evenson and Bailey, as well as Iso-Hollo. Then he passed Bailey and had a short brush with Mathainen, another Finn. Going into the last and extra lap, McCluskey spurted past Evenson, but in the final drive, well after Iso-Hollo had broken the tape, the Briton passed the American and finished second. Evenson was two yards in front of McCluskey at the end.

U. S. Relay Teams Shine.

The American relay teams, without being extended in either race, turned in smashing performances and indicated they would take additional chunks out of the world records tomorrow, if pressed.

The 400-meter team, consisting of Bob Kiesel, Emmett Toppino, Hector Dyer and Frank Wykoff, clicked together beautifully and was timed in 40.6 seconds, wiping out the world mark of 40.8, shared jointly by a German team and the University of Southern California. They also beat the Olympic record of 41 seconds flat, set by the U. S. A. in 1924 and equaled by the Americans in 1928.

Italy and Canada trailed the American sprinters in the second trial heat, after the Germans had won the first heat in 41.2 seconds, beating Japan and Great Britain.

Carr on 1600-Meter Team.

With Bill Carr, the new Olympic 400-meter champion and world record holder running anchor, the American 1600-meter relay quartet romped through its first trial in 3 minutes, 11.8 seconds, leaving Italy and Germany far behind.

Carr did not extend himself, running his leg easily in only 49 seconds, as compared with his world record time yesterday of 46.2 seconds. However, his teammates had taken their assignment so seriously that there was still plenty of room to wipe out the former world mark of 3:12.6, set by Stanford in 1931, as well as the former Olympic record of 3:14.2.

The first three American baton-carriers were clocked unofficially as follows:

Ivan Fuqua of Indiana, 47.8; Ablowich of Southern California, 47.6 seconds, and Karl Warner of Yale, 47.4 seconds.

With the main battle to be concluded tomorrow with the classic marathon as well as the relay finals, the United States had the Olympic track and field team title stowed away by an overwhelming point margain. For 19 events, the Americans showed 185 points, the biggest total they have gained in three Olympiads, under the present scoring system. Finland was in second place with 62; Great Britain third with 41 and Japan fourth with 28.

Finnish Medal for Hill.

As an aftermath of their hotly disputed 5000-meter finish, Lauri Lehtinen of Finland, the winner, pinned a Finnish medal on Ralph Hill, American star, as they participated in the formal victory ceremony this afternoon.

Lehtinen also sought, unsuccessfully, to persuade Hill to stand on the top of the victor's pedestal with him while the Finnish national anthem was being played.

Cubs Buy Mark Koenig.

WOMEN OLYMPIC SWIMMERS BREAK WORLD RECORD THREE TIMES

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6.—Taking a tip from their track and field friends, swimmers of the world opened the aquatic events of the tenth Olympiad today by breaking three Olympic records and eclipsing one world mark three times.

The crowning achievement of the auspicious opening before 5000 persons was that of Mrs. Eleanor Garatti Sayville, who followed up a succession of two record breaking trial heats in the women's 100 meter free style event by traversing the 50-meter pool twice in 1 minute 8.5 seconds, 1.3 seconds faster than Miss Albina Ospiowich's accepted world mark, set by the American swimmer in 1929.

The San Francisco mermaid, a member of the 1928 team, also broke Miss Ospiowich's Olympic record of 1:11, set four years ago at Amsterdam.

Weismuller's Mark Surpassed.

Her performances followed Japan's bid as a serious contender for the water carnival honors as 17-year-old Yasuji Miyazaki sped past Johnny Weissmuller's Olympic record of 58.6 seconds for the 100-meters free style, winning his semifinal heat in 58 seconds flat.

During the morning, Clare Dennis of Australia started off the proceedings in proper fashion by leading the qualifiers in the 200-meter breast stroke for women with an Olympic record breaking pace of 3:08.2.

Then, just to top off a large first day, the Hungarian water polo team, playing a brilliant offensive game, swamped the defending champions, Germany, 6 to 2, in a fast contest.

While the championship is a round robin affair and does not necessarily mean elimination of the title holders, the defeat of the Germans stamped their opponents as the class of the six teams entered.

The United States seven won a slow contest from Brazil, 6 to 1, in the first of the two games, but the team work which Hungary presented far excelled that of the Yankee combination.

The women's preliminary trials in the 100-meters free style, clearly were the class of the races. First, Margaret Cooper, sprint swimmer from Great Britain, started out in the second heat by cutting two seconds off the Olympic record. Her time of 1:09 was eight-tenths of a second faster than Miss Osipowich's world's mark.

Mrs. Sayville Stars.

Spurred on by this performance, Helene Madison of Seattle, applicant for more records than she can count of her fingers and thumbs, went Miss Cooper one better and traversed the course in 1:08.9. Only to have Mrs. Sayville follow with her great race.

The first heat of the women's hundred had been won by Cornelia Ladde, Holland, in 1:12.1, and it appeared that a drab afternoon was in prospect for the cash customers. Then the lightning struck. Miss Cooper was closely pressed by Josephine McKim, a United States entry, in setting her mark.

Miss Madison had no opposition. She was almost three seconds ahead of Jennie Maakal, South Africa entry, and climbed out of the pool without showing signs of having extended herself.

On the other hand, Mrs. Sayville had Willemijnte Den Ouden of Holland pushing her all the way. She trailed slightly at the turn, but with Miss Denouden out in front, the San Francisco swimmer quickened her stroke, churning her lane into a froth as she dashed to the finish.

The summaries:

EASTERN ELEVEN MEETS WESTERN STARS IN GAME TOMORROW NIGHT

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6.—The announcement "and a new Olympic record" has been made many times at the 1932 games, but there's another one to be made Monday night.

A flock of football players from Princeton, Yale and Harvard will meet the best California, Stanford and Southern California can muster.

Not only will it be the first time American football has been played at the Olympic games but it will be the first time it has been played anywhere on an August night.

It will be no trick at all to make a football attendance record for an August game. There surely will be 75,000 spectators, maybe more.

All the players are seniors. There is hardly a man in either lineup whose name is not known to a majority of football fans.

Neither team will have the slightest idea what to expect in the way of plays from the other for a nonscouting policy has been followed.

Some hint of the opposing strategy has leaked out. The East will use a shift, along military lines, while the Westerners will follow the tandem shift of Southern California.

Gus Shaver, Southern California star, will bear the brunt of the ball carrying for the West, assisted by Clarke and Mallory, Trojan teammates, and Watkins of California.

Two smashing Harvard backs, Crickard and Schereschewsky, have great ball lugging ability, and Taylor of Yale and White of Harvard are not far behind.

Tentative lineups include Arbelbide of Southern California and Stone of California at ends for the West, Ehrhorn of Stanford, and Hall of Southern California, at tackles, Hulen and Heiser of Stanford at guards and Williamson, Southern California, center.

Szabo to Wrestle Here Wednesday

Sandor Szabo, who was pinned six times by Jimmy Londos in matches during 1931, and once this year before the split in mat circles which put Jimmy on one side of the fence and Szabo on the other, has been signed by Promoter M. A. McEvers for a bout on Wednesday night's wrestling show at the Battery A arena. His opponent is yet to be announced.

McEvers has also announced that Allen Eustace, originally from Kansas, has been signed, and will appear against Tiny Roebuck, the Indian, in another preliminary event.

In a 30-minute bout already made public, Jack Washburn will oppose Glenn Munn, brother of the late Wayne Munn, one-time wrestling champion. The headline event will bring together Roland Kirschmeyer and Earl McCready, both former Oklahoma A. and M. wrestlers.

Dick Shikat and Hans Kampfer have been announced as opponents for the semifinal.

Tickets for the card are on sale at the Marquette Hotel, Tommy Sullivan's Future City gymnasium and the Coliseum. Slips also will be redeemed at these places. Admission prices range from $1 to $2.20, including city, State and Federal taxes.

MISSOURI PACIFICS WIN MUNY GAME, 2-1

Rain caused postponement of all but one game yesterday afternoon in the Municipal Baseball Association.

In the only game reported, the Missouri Pacifics defeated McQuay-Norris, 2 to 1. The teams are in the No. 1 division of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial League.

EQUIPOISE ROMPS TO TWO-LENGTH VICTORY IN WILSON MILE

EARNINGS FOR SEASON $78,175; LADYSMAN TAKES JUVENILE RACE

By the Associated Press.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Equipoise, C. V. Whitney's great colt which won seven straight races this year before meeting defeat in the Arlington Handicap, returned to Eastern competition in fine fettle here today and toyed with two opponents in the Wilson at one mile.

Sonny Workman was practically easing up as he passed the judges' stand two lengths clear of G. H. (Pete) Bostwick's Blind Bowboy, ridden by the amateur horseman himself. Another six lengths back came W. R. Coe's Pompeius to annex what was left.

The big crowd gave the winner a fine reception. Equipoise covered the eight furlongs in 1:38 1-5 and was quoted at 1 to 8. His success was worth $6350, bringing his winnings for the season to $78,175. The Pennant colt carried 126 pounds, conceding five pounds by the scale to each of his rivals.

Blind Bowboy, in his best form, raced head and head with Pompeius until the Coe color-bearer faltered after six furlongs. Equipoise, fractious at the barrier, broke from outside the stalls, daylight behind the other two contestants. Workman did not ask the Whitney star for his best speed until leaving the far turn. Then the colt bounded forward willingly and taking command when straightened out, just romped the rest of the way.

Ladysman Wins Another.

W. R. Coe's Ladysman, winner of the Arlington Park Futurity, won the $10,000 United States Hotel Stakes, first of the big juvenile features at Saratoga.

H. C. Phipps' De Valera and William Woodward's Happy Gal, coupled in the betting as the favorites, finished second and third, respectively.

HORSE EQUALS RECORD FOR PACING EVENT

By the Associated Press.

SALEM, N. H., Aug. 6.—The track's record for pacers was equaled today by John C. Thompson's May E. Gratton of New York in the free-for-all event that featured the Grand Circuit's closing program at Rockingham Park.

This chestnut daughter of Calumet Gratton, driven by E. Pitman, equaled the Salem pacing mark when she won her second heat in 2:00¾. She trailed the Kansas City black horse, Coldcash, in the final heat. C. F. Crowley's black colt, Mc I Win of Cleveland gained the victory in the three-year-old's pacing event.

NICHOLS TO BOX ON VALLEY CARD, AUG. 15

Jack Nichols, two-time holder of the city junior light-heavyweight championship, will meet an opponent yet to be named in one of the feature bouts on the Mississippi Valley Amateur Association's next boxing card Monday night, Aug. 15, at the Battery A arena.

Nichols broke into the limelight last summer when he upset the "dope" and knocked out two opponents to take the honors. He showed a great deal of improvement during the winter season and when he engaged in the junior tourney this summer, he ruled supreme.

There is only one local 175-pounder who disputes Nichols' claim to the title, and he is Louis Kimmell, one of Barney McCarthy's larruping North Siders. Kimmell is training daily and if he gets in superb physical shape by the next week, he very likely will accept the bout.

Willie Miller of the South Broadway A. C., who is chairman of the Matchmaking Committee, also announced that if suitable opponents can be lined up, he will employ Les Schulte, former National A. A. U. junior heavyweight monarch, and Irving Striebel, newly crowned M. V. A. senior heavyweight champion, in special bouts.

The Bat's the Thing.

LOU GEHRIG never wears a hat
In winter or in summer,
But as an artist with the bat
That bozo is a hummer.

Joe Jackson wore no shoes or socks
And always traveled light,
But knocking pitchers from the box
Was "Shoeless" Joe's delight.

What, No Tea!

John McGraw and Charley Comiskey made several efforts to introduce baseball in England, but England always refused to acknowledge the introduction.

Guess it's too fast for them. Just about the time the tea is coming to a boil the game is over.

On the other hand, it takes several days to play a game of cricket. Indicating that the game must have been written by Eugene O'Neill.

Short and Sweet.

A battle between Kid Cocoa and Kid Chocolate ought to prove interesting.

When candy kids hook up we'll see
The battle of the century.
'Twould be a toss-up which would cop,
The Chocolate or the knockout drop.

The only kick the Cardinals got out of the "lucky" horseshoe seems to have been in the pants. And is THEIR face red!

At any rate, ever since they received the horseshoe shower from Iola, Kan., the pitchers must have thought they were pitching horseshoes instead of baseballs.

Nine for Old Penn State.

ASHES to ashes,
Dust to dust;
If the Phils don't win it,
The Pirates must.

Mildred Didrikson, the Olympic star, wants to be called "Tex" instead of "Babe." Okay by us, Tex.

ALL hail to Mildred, alias Tex,
The fleetest runner of her sex,
But Tex by any other name
Would be a wonder, just the same.

Expert Opinion.

A LEARNED, penetrative tike
Is Oswald Amos Rand:
He knows when umpires miss a strike
From far back in the stand.
—Fred Jay in the Daily Oklahoman.

AN eagle eye has August Kraut;
Way off a mile or so
He knows just when a guy is out,
And when he beats the throw.

Joe Sewell, who outlived his usefulness with the Indians is one of the main cogs in the Yankee machine. Another instance of the uncertainties of b. b.

However, the Indians gave themselves a break when they held on to Joe's brother Luke, who continues to be their mainstay behind the bat. But this severing of family ties and selling human chattels down the river is what led up to the big rookus in '61.

ST. LOUIS THIRD IN PLAYGROUND RADIO MEET

Coming through with a total of 16 5-6 points, St. Louis, represented by the public school playgrounds, captured third place yesterday afternoon in the fourth annual mid-Western playground radio track and field meet.

Sixteen cities competed in the various events and Louisville took first place with a total of 29 points, which were accounted for by four firsts in the various events and several seconds and thirds. Rockford, Ill., also had four firsts, but failed to hold up in the other events and took second with 20 points. The local team, although unable to win a first, captured places in eight of the 13 events. Rodowe H. Abeken, supervisor of recreation, was in charge of the meet.

The victory marked the first in four years of competition for Louisville. St. Paul, which finished sixth yesterday, has taken first place once and St. Louis has been out in front on two occasions. Following St. Louis were the playgrounds of Memphis in fourth position with 16 points; Evansville with 15 and St. Paul with 13 points. The remaining points were scattered among the other 10 cities.

The junior boys particularly did well for the local representatives, taking places in four of their five events. John McGrath of Buder tied for fourth in the 60-yard dash with athletes from Racine and Madison. Relly Siegrist of Sherman also tied for fourth, his mark in the running high jump equaling that of an Evansville youth. Reed Wedler's toss of 107 feet 1¼ inches was good for a second in the basketball throw. Wedler was competing under the colors of Lowell School playground. The Buder relay team stepped the 360-yard distance in fast time to take a second in that event for St. Louis and to win the distinction of being the only local play center to place athletes in two events in the radio meet finals.

The results of the St. Louis end of the meet at the Stadium:

Anglo-French Agreement
Out Specter of Anothe
In Europe, Says M

Former Ambassador to the U
Hopes Continental Nations W
Irritations Caused by Tari
Restrictive Laws.

By HENRY BERENGER,
Chairman of the French Senate's Foreign Affa
Former Ambassador to the United

GREAT BRITAIN and France have decided forts to remove the specter of war from E back prosperity by mutual help. Born unde auspices, this agreement made at Lausanne was dent Hoover's messages in 1931 and 1932.
If the readjustment of war debts is examined will be done openly and in full independence by itors, comformable to the necessities of their r but till then, no one is authorized to say that th agreement has been specifically concluded in vie ment.
What, then, is its significance?

The significance of the pact is hat it has rendered diplomaticaly concrete the circumstance that prior agreement between France and England is necessary o guarantee peace in Europe and restore Europe's vital equilibrium.
In recent years it was thought hat an agreement between France nd Germany should precede Eu-opean reconstruction. This was he principal aim of diplomats rom Locarno up to Lausanne.
It was the object of the conerences of the two late foreign ministers, Aristide Briand of France and Gustave Stresemann of Germany, that upon the erstwhile battlefield these enemies would rect in Europe a new order makng for stability upon which Euope could rehabilitate itself.
Sir Austen Chamberlain propounded the view that the entire ontinent of Europe must work ogether under the auspices of the League of Nations. But succesive diplomatic accidents showed his point of view, though logical, unrealizable.

Barriers in Germany.

Adolf Hitler's appearance on the political scene, the proposed Ger-an-Austrian "Anschluss," German refusals of further reparaions payments, the aggressive
Pan-German campaign against the Versailles treaty—all made it lear that we had thought too op-imistically of a possible Franco-German rapprochement.
Events warned that the best licy for bringing peace to Euope had not been followed.
Around Germany had gathered ther treaty revisionists—Italy,
Bulgaria, Hungary, Turkey and Soviet Russia.
Around France were the so-alled conservatives — Belgium,
Poland, Jugo-Slavia, Rumania and Czecho-Slovakia, who did not wish o see the map of Europe altered gain. Hence the stalemate and he prospect of new conflicts.
The cart had been put before he horse. In June, 1932, it was ealized that a Franco-German ac-ord must follow, not precede, the stablishment of stability in Euope.
England and France together ssess the power and enjoy the uthority which enable them to uarantee the world's equilibrium.
Militarily, their forces are complementary, not rivals. The Brit-sh Navy and French Army, unit-d, are invincible, as history has roved
The saving and producing ca-cities, the banking and credit stems, the traditional faculty of ecruiting and developing and inellectual aristocracy fitted to the most diverse responsibilities — in short, the spiritual and social forces of Britain and France, have made them veritable leaders of

Anglo-French Agreement Blots Out Specter of Another War In Europe, Says M. Berenger

Former Ambassador to the United States Hopes Continental Nations Will Remove Irritations Caused by Tariffs and Restrictive Laws.

By HENRY BERENGER,
Chairman of the French Senate's Foreign Affairs Committee and Former Ambassador to the United States.

PARIS, Aug. 6.

GREAT BRITAIN and France have decided to unite their efforts to remove the specter of war from Europe and to bring back prosperity by mutual help. Born under the United States' auspices, this agreement made at Lausanne was evolved from President Hoover's messages in 1931 and 1932.

If the readjustment of war debts is examined on Dec. 15 next, it will be done openly and in full independence by debtors and creditors, comformable to the necessities of their reciprocal situations, but till then, no one is authorized to say that the recent confidence agreement has been specifically concluded in view of this readjustment.

What, then, is its significance?

The significance of the pact is that it has rendered diplomatically concrete the circumstance that a prior agreement between France and England is necessary to guarantee peace in Europe and restore Europe's vital equilibrium.

In recent years it was thought that an agreement between France and Germany should precede European reconstruction. This was the principal aim of diplomats from Locarno up to Lausanne.

It was the object of the conferences of the two late foreign ministers, Aristide Briand of France and Gustave Stresemann of Germany, that upon the erstwhile battlefield these enemies would erect in Europe a new order making for stability upon which Europe could rehabilitate itself.

Sir Austen Chamberlain propounded the view that the entire continent of Europe must work together under the auspices of the League of Nations. But successive diplomatic accidents showed this point of view, though logical, unrealizable.

Barriers in Germany.

Adolf Hitler's appearance on the political scene, the proposed German-Austrian "Anschluss," German refusals of further reparations payments, the aggressive Pan-German campaign against the Versailles treaty—all made it clear that we had thought too optimistically of a possible Franco-German rapprochement.

Events warned that the best policy for bringing peace to Europe had not been followed. Around Germany had gathered other treaty revisionists—Italy, Bulgaria, Hungary, Turkey and Soviet Russia.

Around France were the so-called conservatives — Belgium, Poland, Jugo-Slavia, Rumania and Czecho-Slovakia, who did not wish to see the map of Europe altered again. Hence the stalemate and the prospect of new conflicts.

The cart had been put before the horse. In June, 1932, it was realized that a Franco-German accord must follow, not precede, the establishment of stability in Europe.

England and France together possess the power and enjoy the authority which enable them to guarantee the world's equilibrium. Militarily, their forces are complementary, not rivals. The British Navy and French Army, united, are invincible, as history has proved.

The saving and producing capacities, the banking and credit systems, the traditional faculty of recruiting and developing and intellectual aristocracy fitted to the most diverse responsibilities — in short, the spiritual and social forces of Britain and France, have made them veritable leaders of civilization every time they have agreed upon a common mission. They are two huge lighthouses burning on every sea, whose rays cross all continents and are capable of lighting up Europe if their beams do not interfere with each other.

Other Countries Hopeful.

This is understood throughout Europe. Hence we have seen nation after nation adhere to the Franco-British pact of confidence. Here is no question of vassalage or abdication. Each nation preserves its independence and ideals. Each hopes and emphasizes its point of view will bring it to success, with the help of the pact. Both hope and expect the Franco-British union will establish peace in Europe from which adjustments and new treaties will emanate.

Here is no new diplomatic formula meant to enrich Geneva's museum of paper protocols. No. Here, this time, is a living reality, born of present European anxieties, and alone henceforth capable of facilitating peaceful and effective reorganization of Europe.

How will this European reorganization work under the aegis of the new confidence agreement? The work will be done by the commissions created at Lausanne and Geneva. One of these commissions is already occupied with the question of Danubian Europe—the most urgent problem—one that is disturbing the entire economics of the old continent. It is a question which imperatively demands settlement within the next few weeks.

Another commission is entrusted with monetary questions, a task most vital and most urgent, for it is through lack of ability to obtain a sound currency that the majority of European nations are dying of asphyxiation.

World Cannot Be Excluded.

Normal circulation of exchanges means that payment must be established in Europe. This can be brought about only by general readaptation of tariffs and adjustment of production to possible markets on the continent. Both proposals presuppose the sacrifice of national interests to general European interests. When we have reached that stage—and it must be reached—we should not forget that Europe cannot exclude the rest of the world, because Europe has no cotton, no metal, no petroleum, nor even enough cereals upon which to live.

European markets must remain open to other continents because Europe needs them as much as they need her. Only superior inter-continental solutions can end the profound depression from which the world is suffering.

Here is the supreme mission, to settle which Europe, the Americas and the rest of the world will meet in a world economic conference. May it soon be held and under the aegis of a confidence agreement that will include Europe, America and all the rest of the world.

CARL GUSTAV EKMAN QUITS AS SWEDISH PRIME MINISTER

Resignation Due to Acceptance of Party Funds From Late Ivar Kreuger.

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 6. — Carl Gustav Ekman, Prime Minister of Sweden since June, 1930, resigned today, another victim of the collapse of Ivar Kreuger's farflung enterprises.

As the leader of the popular Liberal party, he accepted 50,000 kronen from Kreuger last February as a contribution to the party fund. At the present rate of exchange that amounts to about $9000.

An official communique said that was the reason for his resignation, but the statement added the money already had been returned to administrators of the Kreuger concerns.

Berlin and Vienna Did--Can St. Louis?

Problem of Getting Rid of Antiquated Tenements Viewed by St. Louisan After an Investigation of Results Accomplished in European Cities.

Samples of buildings which have replaced what were slums in Berlin and Vienna. Rents are as low as $5.00 a month.

What Berlin and Vienna Have Done

THE siedlungen, or home settlements, of German and Austrian cities are of several types. The largest and most familiar are the huge blocks of 3-story and 4-story apartments or tenements, removed from each other by wide spaces and housing thousands of people. The Karl Marx Hof in Vienna and the Britz development in Berlin are leading examples of this type.

Other siedlungen are garden colonies, on the outskirts of cities, with patches of earth 50 by 100 feet for each family, and with summer houses or year-round dwellings, and in some cases quarters for chickens or a pig; semi-separate 4 or 5 room dwellings; and separate single homes with front and back yard.

The smallest apartments, for bachelors or spinsters, have one room, a combination living room, bedroom and kitchen. The next size has separate bedroom and closet; others have two or more bedrooms.

Each apartment has running water, usually cold only; electric light, gas, toilet, coke stove, and oak floors, with bricks or concrete in the cooking corners. Few have private baths, but shower and tub baths are furnished in the building at a small charge. The larger groups have shops, kindergartens, libraries and post offices. No clothes posts, garbage pails, ash cans or rubbish heaps are visible. Use of machine laundry and drying rooms is included in the rentals. The buildings are turned and curved to catch the sunlight. Porches are partitioned to afford privacy.

Rents are exceedingly low, due to government subsidies and exemptions. A 3-room efficiency apartment can be had for $5 a month, four rooms for $6.50. Rentals include a tax applied to repairs and to a fund for more such buildings. In all cities, the siedlungen are fully occupied, and have long waiting lists.

J. A. Wolf of the Neighborhood Association Points Out Obstacles to Be Overcome Before Blighted Downtown District Can Be Replaced With Modern, Desirable Homes for Workers.

ST. LOUIS will know, within a few months, what can be done to provide modern homes for wage-earners, near the downtown district, at rents not greatly exceeding those now charged for old and unhealthful tenements.

The model housing systems of Berlin, Vienna, Hamburg, Munich and Frankfurt, miles of steel, concrete and glass, homes for tens of thousands of families, have furnished the ideas. They have shown how such buildings can be constructed and arranged in St. Louis and other American cities.

But this city will have to work out its own plan of financing the enterprises. Here they must be made not only attractive and beneficial domiciles for the tenants, but attractive investments for the builder. Government subsidies, such as have aided the housing movements of continental cities, are not sought or expected here.

Arrangements were completed last week for a study of land and building costs, in definite St. Louis neighborhoods, and of rent schedules which would yield a reasonable profit to the owners of new buildings. When these rents are compared with those now being charged by owners of buildings in the same districts, it will be known whether the war on the slum, which is being waged in German cities and has been begun in some American cities, can be undertaken in St. Louis.

Getting Facts for St. Louis.

J. A. Wolf, director of Neighborhood Association, who spent three months last spring in a study of the new German and Austrian housing system, is in charge of the inquiry to be made here. He will have an active part in any definite housing scheme which results. The financing of the inquiry, to cost $2000 or more, has been assured by a group interested in living conditions.

"As to what will be shown," Wolf said, "we are taking nothing for granted. We know that St. Louis families of small means now have to live in crowded quarters, with lack of light, air and privacy, and in many cases with lack of bath facilities and play space, and that they pay $4.25 to $6 a month per room for these quarters, the only advantage of which is the walk-to-work location.

"We must make our information on these matters definite and exact, and we must learn what new buildings will cost, for site, construction and maintenance. We must decide, as elements of the cost, what facilities and conveniences are to be included in the new buildings, and what type of construction shall be used.

"For the districts near the downtown section, we can plan for large-scale apartments of three and possibly four stories. Four is the limit, for we cannot figure on elevators.

"We must learn how far it will be feasible to make liberal use of glass and tile in construction, as has been done in Germany. We must see whether we can provide central heating, which the German siedlungen, because of fuel conditions peculiar to Central Europe, do not have. We must figure in the elements of sunlight and cross-ventilation, as they have done, but we need not follow all their oddities of exterior design, such as the horseshoe shape of the Britz siedlung, in Berlin.

Land Values a Problem.

"Land cost is a vital element, and we will have to find out whether the land can be had at the low price which would be suggested by present rental returns, or whether the owners will insist on a speculative value based on possible future industrial development. In some neighborhoods, owners have attached too much importance to this latter idea.

"When we have learned the cost of building in certain areas, the question will be, 'Where do we go from here?' Considering the cost, and figuring a fair return on the investment, with allowance for maintenance, taxes and interest, can we erect modern, fireproof, sanitary buildings and rent them at a price per room per month only slightly in excess of what is now paid in the same neighborhoods? Can we interest investors in this as a business proposition?

"From the answers to these questions we must determine whether St. Louis can undertake modern housing on a large scale. We will have no government subsidy such as those of Germany and Austria, and the projects must carry themselves as business ventures. They are not to be considered as philanthropies.

"The rents to be charged must not be a great increase over present rentals in the same districts. If there is any large increase, the scheme will not help the people whom it should help. The new buildings would be occupied, but not by those who now live on the same sites. They would be driven to some other slum, and there would be little net gain toward solving the housing problem."

The districts which naturally suggest themselves for the St. Louis development, and which Wolf's surveyors will study, are those with the walk-to-work appeal. The vicinity of Neighborhood Association house, at Nineteenth and Wash streets, is such a location. The employment centers of the Washington avenue wholesale district, the industrial development of North Twelfth boulevard, and scattered factories and warehouses, make the neighborhood one to attract wage-workers who must save time and carfare.

Many Negro families now live in this vicinity and in the old confines of Kerry Patch, to the west. This does not simplify the problem, but it is not viewed as forbidding the erection of large building groups for white occupancy. Better homes for Negroes, in other districts, would be likely to follow.

Locations for Experiments.

The present dwellings of the district are mostly old, and many are in poor condition as to sanitation and repairs. Due to the high standard long enforced by the city building code, most of them are structurally safe, but they fail by most of the tests of healthfulness and attractiveness.

Another inviting neighborhood for a like experiment, within walking distance of downtown buildings and the southern industrial district, is that lying east of Lafayette Park. Others may be found in the vicinage of northwestern and South Side industrial plants, and in the expected development in the new River Des Peres district.

The locations sought will be entire city blocks and groups of blocks. Isolated structures are not favored. The Berlin and Vienna plans, with their liberal light and playground spaces, are laid out in neighborhood groups. To duplicate some of the larger ones in the near-downtown districts here, alleys and even streets would have to be closed. Vienna has provided 55,000 new apartments to date.

The low rents of the European siedlungen, which cannot be approached here, were found by Wolf to have aroused resentment and a sense of injustice among many who do not receive their benefits. The government subsidies in various forms, which make these low rents possible, have been part of a taxation system which has almost "liquidated" the middle class.

As a natural result, he found, within sight

Resort to Ancient Barter and "Back to the Land" Movements Are Aiding Europe's Unemployed

Switzerland Training Idle Workers in New Occupations, While in the Balkans Both Compulsory and Volunteer Labor Are Tried.

By ALBIN E. JOHNSON.

GENEVA, Switzerland.

WHILE international organizations and groups of states are striving to find a way out of the ever-deepening economic crisis, European Governments and communities, in seeking to deal with the immediate social problems confronting them in caring for their millions of unemployed, have hit upon various remedial schemes—some of which are working out remarkably well.

Poland, where economic conditions, temporarily at least, seem to be improving and Italy, where the situation is becoming worse, have both partially eliminated the difficult monetary element in dealing with their unemployed. The Polish Government now is collecting arrears in land tax, property tax, death duties and taxes on industry "in kind," that is to say, commodities are accepted in lieu of money. A partial list of the things with which citizens can pay taxes to the Government are rye, cheese, barley, beans, buckwheat, potatoes coal and firewood.

Taxpayers, who wish to avail themselves of the privileges of "payment in kind," have to deliver the goods, at fixed valuations, to institutions indicated by the Ministry of Finance, from which points they are distributed to needy families of the unemployed workers.

Substitutes for Money.

The scheme is proving particularly valuable in that it not only enables certain industries to keep going and keeps a number of agricultural workers employed, but it also decreases the Government's expenditure for relief. In some Polish districts—and in Germany also—direct exchange systems have been instituted where in small units, tradespeople and farmers exchange commodity for commodity without the medium of money.

In Italy, where unemployment figures persist in mounting, despite the seasonal demand for labor and heroic efforts of the Government to furnish work by public undertakings, shortening of hours, etc., the "relief in kind" system also has been adopted. Foodstuffs (particularly macaroni, bread and milk) are given to persons registered as unemployed, in addition to money. Actual cash advances for unemployment insurance benefits amount only from 1.25 to 3.75 lire (six to 20 cents) per day, according to the wage previously earned by the recipient.

With 1,200,000 idle, and the number growing, Italy is finding it impossible to balance its budget, which is reported to show a deficit of two billion lire. Continuation of monetary payments to the unemployed is becoming increasingly difficult. The Cabinet has just approved four bills which set aside one billion lire for public relief through the construction of new roads, aqueducts, restoration of areas devastated by earthquakes and the World War and sanitary engineering projects. It is proposed to raise this amount through internal loans.

Germany, perhaps more than any other country, is taking an enlightened course in dealing with present depression. While, in the conduct of its foreign affairs, the Government blames everything on "war-debts and reparations." German industrialists hold an entirely different view. Of the 6,000,000 unemployed in Germany it is estimated, by the A. G. Farbenindustrie Gesellschaft, that purely internal causes are responsible for 2,000,000 idle, including 500,000 persons under 21 years of age, 500,000 elderly persons above 50 and a million able-bodied workers between those two ages.

Germany's Problem.

The problem confronting Germany, as the industrialists see it, involves the absorption of a million men in new industries, delaying the entrance into the labor market of a half million youths yearly and retiring another half-million workers on old-age pensions who have become economically unprofitable.

One palliative for relieving distress, which has made more headway in Germany than any other European country, is the "Back to the Land" movement. Several hundred thousand persons have already been placed upon a self-sustaining basis by becoming small land-holders. On the outskirts of many cities and towns, garden colonies have been founded on public land. Many huge estates, falling into the Government's unwilling hands through continued failure to pay taxes, are being broken up. State, provincial and communal lands, as well as private property (except farms worked by families) may be expropriated by the Federal Commissioner. Only two conditions are attached to the letting out of these small tracts to heads of unemployed families; willingness and ability to work the land and an intention to remain long enough to develop it and become eventual proprietors.

In France, where the available supply of agricultural labor is always insufficient, a determined effort is being made to get the unemployed out of the cities, especially those who originally came from the provinces, and back to the land. Ordinarily 500,000 Italian and Polish farm-workers come to France each summer to work. With the bars up against these aliens the shortage of farm labor is likely to be more pronounced. Consequently the industrial establishments are discharging first those workers who have had farm experience and secondly giving an indemnity to those released on the condition that they will invest the money in returning to agricultural pursuits. One agency recently resettled 150 Parisian families on farms.

Effect of Birth Rate.

France's agricultural situation is complicated, too, because the peasant birth-rate between 1914-1918 was about half normal and there is now an abnormal number of aging persons on the farms with no natural replacement as they become too old to work.

While no official statistics are available here from the United States the "back to the land" movement is reported to be accelerating there. There are twice as many city dwellers taking to the farms as there are rural inhabitants drifting into cities these days, according to reports. Canada, however, has informed the League that 42,882 persons settled on the land within a year without any direct financial aid from the Canadian Government.

Egypt's particularly acute unemployment problem, in regard to farmers, has resulted in putting the Government in the seed and banking business. An agricultural and Land Bank has been organized to melt frozen farm credits and extend aid to peasants as well as large landowners who otherwise might be forced to give up their properties. The Egyptian Land Co., organized by the Government, is empowered to buy up, at fair prices, farms which otherwise would have to be sold at ridiculously low and unfair figures. Cheaper money for meeting mortgages is also provided while the Government is undertaking to distribute seeds to needy farmers.

Switzerland, with 57,316 unem-

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Would Stand Pat on War Debts.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE tentative agreement by the usual secret diplomacy of Europe at Lausanne should not disturb us here at home.

The object of the discussions set forth in the agreement is plain and not to be misunderstood. It is: "We have milked Germany dry; we cannot get more, too much risk. Our next play should be to get the U. S. to cancel the balance we owe there. See what the U. S. did for us. After the armistice, they gave France their costly war material for a tenth of its value, rather than ship it home. They canceled four billions of war debt they had lent in order to get a settlement from us on the balance due. They paid for the transfer of their troops who saved us, and indemnified France for improvements made on her harbors and railways, as well as paying for the right to move troops through farms and truck gardens to get the war over with.

"If they were soft enough then to carry our loads, they will be more willing now to carry the debt for us in the hope that it will revive their trade with us. We can make the play from this side and our nationals in the U. S., along with their investors and bankers, will boost our game to make our now worthless securities good.

"We have called them dollar chasers so long that they will believe that they are the Shylocks and not ourselves, and when and if we put it over, we can make another arrangement to dictate to Uncle Sam and make him like it; for once we have our load on his back he will have less for his protection, while we can go on preparing for other conquests."

That's what they mean and all the polished liars of Europe cannot make anything else out of it. It is a plain case of freeze out, with the cards stacked against us.

We should not be disturbed, however, for they have had examples of our ability to do things. They know our ideals were high; they know our speed; that we poured money and food when it helped to nourish them, also they know we were played for a bunch of suckers. What they don't know is that we have learned enough in the past 14 years to protect ourselves for all future time. The moratorium of 1931 should be our last generous gesture. As soon as they are made to understand we will not cancel, Europe will begin to pay. They have the means, economists and propagandists to the contrary notwithstanding. They spent on armament in the past two years as much as would liquidate their debt to us, and this in a period of depression.

So common sense says sit tight, be nice, let them talk, and then say: "No cancellation, gentlemen. Follow our example. Be generous, pay your debts with what you are spending for armament. It will be good insurance against war, and increase our good will. We want friends, but we cannot regard liars and welshers as such."

EDWIN G. CROP.

Needed: A Good Head.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WE ARE beginning to hear a whispering campaign concerning Roosevelt's affliction. We have had men in the White House with good feet for 12 years—and look at conditions. What we want is a man with a good head, and we have him in Roosevelt.

MARGARET NOLAN.

For the Shorter Work Period.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHAT work is available, at all times, be it great or small, must be divided among all men who want to work or need to work, whether it means an eight-hour day or a four-hour day. A six-hour day at the present time would suffice. The greater the use of machines, the shorter the day, necessarily. Business men of the past, efficiency experts, who succeeded in cutting employes, and increasing production, were hailed with admiration by their associates as smart executives. This universal cutting has worked its inescapable cataclysm.

The Post-Dispatch could live up to its admirable record for service and liberality by making unemployment and the short week a daily editorial topic.

The politicians' aim is to confuse the minds of the people regarding the relative merits of issues. Business men exhale platitudes about confidence, credit, hoarding, cycles. This is not part of a cycle. It is a time for great changes—a milestone in human progress. The campaign to absorb all the unemployed men in St. Louis must be brought home to every inhabitant of St. Louis. Business men must be forced to yield to public opinion and pressure if they won't yield to the common sense of economic necessity.

JAMES E. MITCHELL.

Al Smith for Senator.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IF Roosevelt and his friends are really willing to spread a little balm over the bleeding wounds that they have inflicted on Al Smith, they should see that he is nominated as the Democratic candidate for United States Senator from the State of New York.

As a United States Senator, Smith would be almost as valuable as in the White House, and his figure would properly remain before the public eye.

The Awakened Voters

The primary election returns in Missouri are astonishing and encouraging. For the first time in recent years the voters realized the importance of the primaries, which the Post-Dispatch emphasized, and took a lively interest in the contests. Apathy was changed to action. When approximately 500 of the State's 4195 precincts were still unreported the Democrats had polled more than 532,000 for Governor, and the Republicans with about 150 precincts missing, had polled 353,600 for the same office. This is a record-breaking total of more than 885,000, a figure which the Associated Press expects to rise to considerably in excess of 900,000, when the official vote is known. It is already assured that the 1932 vote will be 200,000 greater than that of the 1928 primary.

Votes of the Republican and Democratic parties were reversed. The Republicans led in the primaries of 1926 and 1928. On the basis of the known vote, the Republicans increased their strength by 1600 this year over 1928, while the Democratic increase amounted to 200,000, a truly staggering figure. Final figures will show that at least 200,000 more Democratic than Republican ballots were asked for by the voters of Missouri.

The most significant result of the primaries was the practical elimination of the prohibition vote as a controlling factor. The majorities for wet candidates in the senatorial vote were overwhelming. Charles M. Hay, the dry candidate for United States Senator, with the indorsement of the Anti-Saloon League and the W. C. T. U., who was expected to win, or at least poll a heavy vote, was a bad third in the contest. Out of the approximately 500,000 Democratic votes, he obtained approximately 125,000. The Anti-Saloon League and other prohibition organizations have lost their grip. Their political power has vanished in this State.

There were other interesting phases of the election which indicated intelligence and discrimination on the part of the voters. Howell, who was selected and supported with all his power by Boss Pendergast of Kansas City for the United States senatorship, was overwhelmingly defeated by Bennett Champ Clark, who ran from the beginning on a repeal platform and in direct opposition to the Pendergast bossism. Pendergast gave Howell a majority of about 90,000 in an unprecedented vote in Kansas City. The determination of the Democratic voters to nominate for the senatorship a candidate in full accord with the Democratic platform and opposed to State bossism was clearly shown in the returns. Wilson, the Democratic candidate for Governor, although on the Pendergast slate and receiving a vote of about 100,000 in Kansas City, would have been nominated without the Pendergast indorsement. That was undoubtedly a handicap to him outside of Kansas City.

The Republican voters showed intelligent discrimination. With Becker, having a damning record as Secretary of State, running for Governor, they conscripted Koehler, a wet, to cut his vote in St. Louis, and Lieutenant-Governor Winter to oppose him in the State. The result is that Winter was nominated by a modest plurality, and Becker, regarded as one of the best vote getters in Missouri, is laid on the shelf. Former Mayor Kiel, an uncompromising anti-prohibitionist, won the Republican nomination for United States Senator. Anti-prohibitionists predominated in the selection of both Democratic and Republican candidates for the House of Representatives.

Another interesting development was the evident disregard of party lines in the voting. Undoubtedly, many Republicans voted Democratic tickets in the primaries. That was particularly evident in the St. Louis election, where the Democratic vote was unusually heavy, and where Clark received the enormous plurality of approximately 55,000. He received 12,000 plurality in the county, where there is usually a heavy Republican majority and approximately few Democratic voters.

The voters are awake this year. They are taking an interest in politics and playing an active part. That is evident not only in Missouri, but elsewhere. The result shows that where there are real issues and outspoken candidates on the issues, the voters are aroused and are willing to vote their convictions, regardless of party. The indications point to an unprecedented vote in November, and if that happens we need have no fear of the outcome.

Now There Are Five

Mississippi has joined the list of states which must elect their Representatives in Congress at large this November. Mississippi, like Missouri, Minnesota, North Dakota and Kentucky, the other states, lost representation as the result of reapportionment of Congress in accordance with the 1930 census. It should have been evident to the Mississippi Legislature that its redistricting act would be declared unconstitutional. Faced with the necessity of reducing the number of Representatives from nine to eight, the Legislature was naive enough merely to combine two districts, thus completely ignoring the requirement that districts be as nearly as possible equal in population. As in Kentucky a special court of Federal Judges sustained the lower courts of the State and now Mississippi is to have a bean guessing contest Aug. 23, instead of a primary. This means that at least 40 Representatives in the next Congress will be elected at large, rather than by districts, as they should be chosen. What makes the situation all the more lamentable is that it results not from a flaw in the machinery of representative government, but from partisanship which places political greed above every other consideration.

Federal Relief Funds and the States

The wisdom of Congress in making the distribution of Federal loans for unemployment relief conditional upon the exhaustion of state relief resources was demonstrated in the refusal of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation immediately to lend relief funds to the State of Pennsylvania.

The relief bill, in its original form, provided for the automatic distribution of the $300,000,000 fund on the basis of population. Such unrestricted payment of Federal moneys could only have had the effect of suspending or delaying effective state taxation for relief purposes. The bill, as amended and finally passed, however, clearly embodies the principle that Federal loans shall be supplemental to, not substitutes for, state action.

In conformity with this principle, the R. F. C. has already extended $3,000,000 to Illinois for use in Chicago, $1,800,000 to Michigan for use in Detroit and $852,662 for relief in various counties in Ohio. In Pennsylvania, however, the Legislature met in one extra session and went home without providing any new revenues for relief purposes. Summoned into a second special session by Gov. Pinchot, it has passed six weeks in futile debate. The R. F. C. has now placed responsibility for relief in Pennsylvania squarely up to the Legislature of that state. If it finally makes drastic and courageous provision for increased state taxation for relief purposes, the R. F. C. will unquestionably add a Federal loan to the local funds raised in this way.

Pennsylvania's need is desperate. More than a million of her workers are unemployed. In Philadelphia, 150,000 persons are entirely dependent on charity. Their care requires the expenditure of $1,500,000 every month. But it is probable that their need may be more adequately met by the refusal of the Corporation to lend to the State than by a loan made in the face of the Legislature's refusal to provide state relief. If the R. F. C. adheres consistently to the principle followed in this case, it may be able to draw out substantial sums to be spent upon relief in addition to the nest egg of $300,000,000 provided by the Federal Government.

Even so, the situation does not justify the blind optimism of President Hoover's statement that "we have a solid back-log of assurance that there need be no hunger or cold in the United States." We are approaching the fourth winter of unemployment. The numbers of the unemployed are the largest in our history. Their private resources are seriously depleted where they are not utterly exhausted. Business revival, even though it comes during the coming winter, cannot come rapidly enough to solve this problem without effective public assistance. The springs of private charity are drying up. State and local governments, at the best, are definitely limited in their power to increase taxation.

In the face of this need, the Finance Corporation's $300,000,000 will melt away like snow before a blazing sun. This sum, unhappily, will mark but the beginning of Federal relief. The Corporation has another means of combating unemployment in the $1,500,000,000 which Congress added to its capital to be used in loans to finance self-liquidating construction projects. The American Society of Civil Engineers has made public the results of a nation-wide survey of state and municipal public works which indicates that these funds should find ready employment. The normal annual program of such works is between $2,500,000,000 and $3,000,000,000. This year, the society finds, such building has been cut to $800,000,000, throwing some 2,000,000 people out of work. It estimates that more than $2,250,000,000 worth of public construction has been suspended because of lack of funds. Most of these projects are self-liquidating in character and therefore eligible for R. F. C. loans.

On the basis of this survey it would appear that the Corporation might be able to make an appreciable reduction in the burden of relief by speeding loans to provide re-employment in the completion of this suspended construction work. Such action, we hope, will be taken without delay.

"Chicken in Every Pot"

We are asked by a reader: "Upon whose authority is the statement made that in 1928 the Republican party promised the people "two cars in every garage and a chicken in every pot?" Believing the origin of so remarkable a prophecy should never be lost, we combed the campaign documents of 1928 and found this excerpt from Al Smith's Boston speech:

> Let us look at that page ad inserted by the Republican National Committee, entitled "A Chicken for Every Pot." (Laughter and applause.) "Republican prosperity has reduced hours and increased earning capacity." And then it goes on and says: "Republican prosperity has put a chicken in every pot and a car in every back yard to boot."

We must be content with tracing authorship to the committee, for it is too much to expect that the individual who penciled, penned or typewrote those words will ever step forward and claim them.

Why State Roads Are Delayed

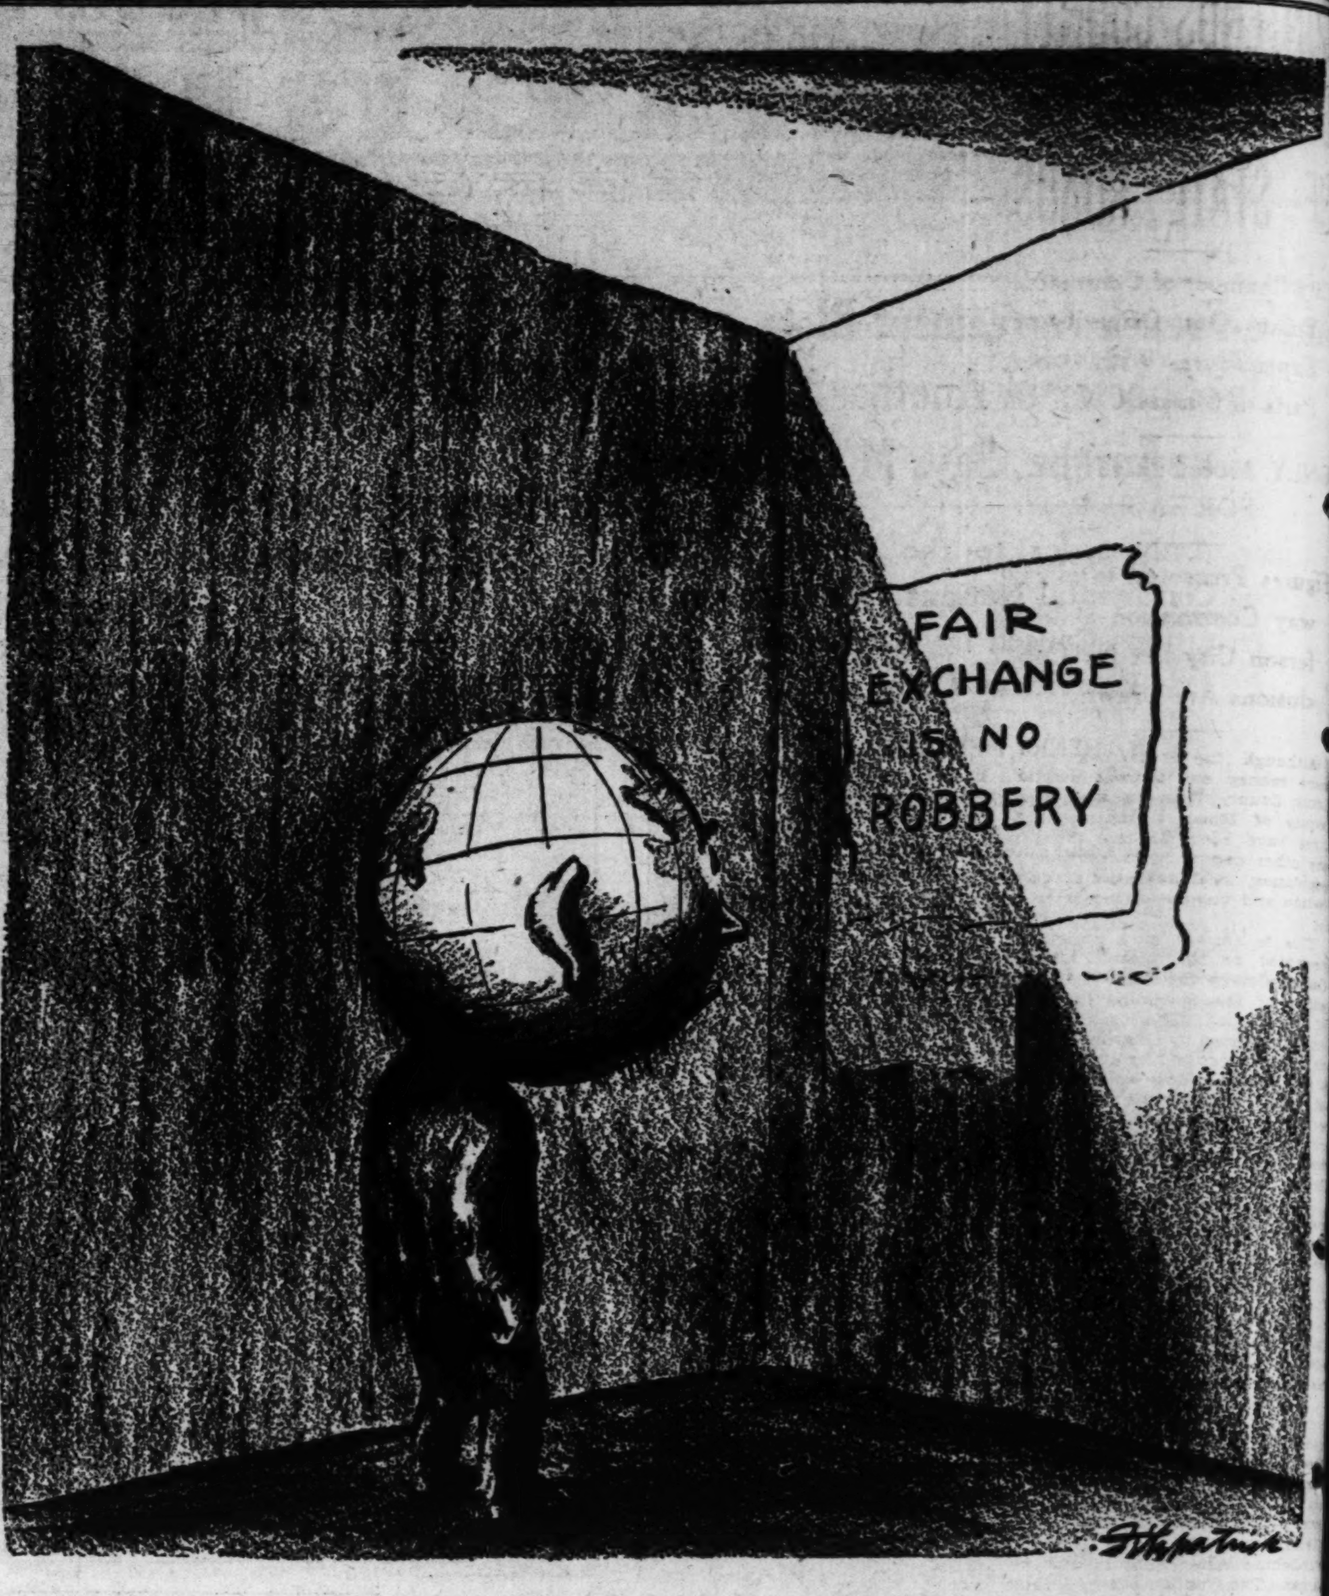
The State Highway Commission has a ready answer to queries over delays in carrying out State road plans in St. Louis County. It blames the County Court, or administrative body, for failure to provide rights-of-way, blames the condemnation commissioners appointed by the Circuit Judges at Clayton for excessive damage awards for rights-of-way, and blames the Circuit Judges for allowing excessive fees to the commissioners. In a letter to President Weisenburger of the city Chamber of Commerce, Chairman Phares of the Highway Commission said:

> It has been impossible to secure the co-operation of individuals or officials in St. Louis County or St. Louis, in the acquisition of necessary rights-of-way and the Highway Department has been compelled to fight the battle alone. Unreasonably high ideas of value are prevalent among the real estate men and damages are pyramided beyond justice. We have found that when a new right-of-way project is begun it is very difficult to deal with the property owners, due to the fact that they have been advised by friends, associates and shyster lawyers not to deal with the department's right-of-way agents, but to allow their property to be condemned with the idea that appraisers and juries will allow a greater amount of damages. In Jackson County, where a similar congested traffic condition exists, the commission never has expended one penny for rights-of-way. The County Court of Jackson County has co-operated fully and freely at all times with the commission, as have the officials of Kansas City.

It is high time for the St. Louis County Court to assume responsibility and leadership in providing routes for the additional and widened State roads which are badly needed. Virtually every other county in Missouri has given the State free rights-of-way, while the State has had to spend $369,449 on this item here in two and one-half years. Phares announced that the commission would abandon new construction in St. Louis County until the situation is changed. As a result, a joint committee of the city and county Chambers of Commerce has been appointed to consider the subject. The committee's cue is to act forcefully and not to pussyfoot.



FAIR EXCHANGE IS NO ROBBERY

WHAT THE TARIFF BOYS FORGOT.

Tariffs and the Profit System

So long as investment controls industry, profitable prices must be maintained; protective tariffs, by limiting production and maintaining prices, ministers to the profit motive, while bringing impoverishment to the masses; tariffs, thus, are one of the forms of sabotage necessary to preserve our present economic system.

Thorstein Veblen in "The Vested Interests and the State of the Industrial Arts."
(B. W. Huebsch, Publisher.)

THE experience of the war has shown conclusively that no one country can hereafter supply its own needs either in raw materials or in finished goods. Both the winning and the losing side have shown that. The new industrial order necessarily overlaps the national frontiers, even in the case of a nation possessing so extensive and varied natural resources as America. So that in spite of all the singularly ingenious obstruction of the American tariff, the Americans still continue to draw on foreign sources for most or all of their tea, coffee, sugar, tropical and semi-tropical fruits, vegetable oils, vegetable gums and pigments, cordage fibers, silks, rubber and a bewildering multitude of minor articles of daily use. Even so peculiarly American an industry as chewing gum is wholly dependent on foreign raw materials, and quite unavoidably so. The most that can be accomplished by any tariff under these circumstances is more or less obstruction. Isolation and self-sufficiency are already out of the question.

But there are certain vested interests which find their profit in maintaining a tariff barrier as a means of keeping the price up and keeping the supply down; and the common man still faithfully believes that the profits which these vested interests derive in this way from increasing the cost of his livelihood and decreasing the net productivity of his industry will benefit him in some mysterious way. He is persuaded that high prices and a scant supply of goods at a high labor cost is a desirable state of things. This is incredible, but there is no denying the fact. He knows, of course, that the profits of business go to the business men, the vested interests, and to no one else, but he is still beset with the picturesque hallucination that any unearned income which goes to those vested interests whose central office is in New Jersey is paid to himself in some underhand way, while the gains of those vested interests that are domiciled in Canada are obviously a grievous net loss to him. The tariff moves in a mysterious way, its wonders to perform.

To all adult persons of sound mind, and not unduly clouded with the superstitions of the price system, it is an obvious matter of fact that any protective tariff is an obstruction to industry and a means of impoverishment, just so far as it is effective. The arguments to the contrary invariably turn out to be pettifoggers' special pleading for some vested interest or for a warlike national policy, and these arguments convince only those persons who are able to believe that a part is greater than the whole. It also lies in the nature of protective tariffs that they always cost the nation disproportionately much more than they are worth to those vested interests which profit by them. In this respect they are like any other method of businesslike sabotage. Their aim, and presumably their effect, is to keep the price up by keeping the supply down; to hinder competitors and retard production. As in other instances of businesslike sabotage, therefore, the net margin of advantage to those who profit by it is greatly less than what it costs the community.

Yet it is to be noted that the Americans have prospered, on the whole, under protective tariffs, which have been as ingeniously and comprehensively foolish as could well be contrived. There is even some color of reason in the contentions of the protectionists that the more reasonable tariffs have commonly been more depressing to industry than the most imbecile of them. All of which should be disquieting to the advocates of free trade. The defect of the free-trade argument, and the disappointment of free-trade policies, lies in overlooking the fact that in the absence of an obstructive tariff substantially the same amount of obstruction has to be accomplished by other means, if business is to prosper. And business prosperity is the only manner of prosperity known or provided for among the civilized nations. It is the only manner of prosperity on which the divine right of the nation gives it a claim. A protective tariff is only an alternative method of businesslike sabotage. If and so far as this method of keeping the supply of goods within salutary bounds is not resorted to, other means of accomplishing the same result must be employed. For so long as investment continues to control industry the welfare of the community is bound up with the prosperity of its business; and business cannot be carried on without reasonably profitable prices; and reasonably profitable prices cannot be maintained without a salutary limitation of the supply.

A protective tariff is only one means of crippling the country's industrial force, for the good of business. In its absence all that matter will be taken care of by other means. The tariff may perhaps be a little the most flagrant method of sabotage by which the vested interests are enabled to do a reasonably profitable business; but there is nothing more than a difference of degree, and not a large difference at that. So long as industry is managed with a view to a profitable price, it is quite indispensable to guard against an excessive rate and volume of output. In the absence of all businesslike sabotage, the productive capacity of the industrial system would very shortly pass all reasonable bounds, prices would decline disastrously and overhead charges would not be covered, fixed charges on corporation securities and other credit instruments could not be met, and the whole structure of business enterprise would collapse as it occasionally has done in times of "over-production." There is no doing business without a fair price, since the net price over cost is the motive of business. A protective tariff is, in effect, an auxiliary safeguard against over-production. Incidentally, the fact that its imposition does not result in insufferable hardship serves also to show that the new order of industry is highly productive, quite inordinately productive in fact. And it is a divine right of the nation to use its discretion and offset this inordinate efficiency by adroitly crippling its own commerce and the commerce of its neighbors, for the benefit of those vested interests that are domiciled within the national frontiers.

Revaluation of the O'Fallon Railroad

IN 1913 Congress required the Interstate Commerce Commission to fix a value for the physical property of all railroads in the United States. The first important test case, involving the commission's basis of valuation, was that concerning the O'Fallon & St. Louis Railroad, a road of nine miles of main track in and around St. Louis. On May 20, 1929, the Supreme Court sustained the road in its protest against the amount of its valuation fixed by the I. C. C. in moving for recapture of the road's excess earnings. The court held that the valuation figure had not taken into consideration the cost of reproduction, although the court declined to fix the weight which should be accorded to this item. The dissenting opinions of Justice Brandeis and Stone held that the I. C. C. had given consideration to reproduction costs within the requirement of the 1913 legislation.

The decision in the O'Fallon case has been borne in mind by the I. C. C. in all its valuation estimates subsequent to the decision. Its ruling of April 7, 1931, fixing a valuation of the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad, announced that reproduction costs were taken into consideration along with cost of original investment less depreciation and other factors. The R. F. & P. has disputed the right of the I. C. C. to demand recapture of excess earnings based on this valuation, but the case has not yet gone to court.

The I. C. C.'s theory of valuation is that no single system of weights for original cost, reproduction cost, and other factors can be used for all roads, because the nature of each road's physical property differs from that of every other. Similarly, no single price index is used, for one road through level country will have little grading as compared with a road through mountains, one road has trestles mostly of wood while another has mostly concrete trestles, one road's land holdings are mostly in sparsely settled rural regions while another road's land is mostly in thickly settled industrial regions, and so forth. A separate figure is hence used in determining reproduction costs, depreciation, etc., of each item in every road's physical plant.

In the post-war period of rising prices, it was evidently to the road's advantage to have reproduction costs used largely as the basis of valuation. In the present period of falling prices, however, original cost as the basis may well be more to the roads' advantage than reproduction cost, as predicted by Justice Brandeis in his dissenting opinion in the Southwestern Bell Telephone case in 1923. The wholesale price index of the Department of Labor, with 1926 equaling 100, was 8½ per cent lower in June 1932 (63.9) than the average for 1913 (69.8).

The Interstate Commerce Commission has now practically completed its primary valuation of the physical plant of the railroads of the United States. According to the terms of the 1913 law, however, this valuation must be constantly revised to allow the price changes, depreciation, etc. The cost to the Government of this 19-year task has so far been about $42,000,000. The railroads claim that the cost to them, in making their own surveys and in listing property, etc., for co-operation with the I. C. C., has been over $140,000,000.

CONTENDS COUNTY DOESN'T GET SHARE OF STATE ROADS

City Chamber of Commerce Points Out Disparity of Expenditures With Other Parts of Missouri.

ONLY $106 SPENT FOR EACH AUTO

Figures Presented to Highway Commission at Jefferson City but No Conclusions Are Drawn.

Although the State has spent more money on its roads in St. Louis County than in any other county of Missouri, the expenditures have been far less than in any other county in proportion to population, local automobile registration and volume of motor traffic.

This is shown in a statement presented to the State Highway Commission by the Highways Committee of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce. The committee's study, prepared by Charles H. Diel, its secretary, considers St. Louis as a part of the county so far as use of roads is concerned. A large part of the State gasoline tax and motor license fees, which pay for the State roads, comes from St. Louis.

So far the State has built no roads within the city but it will onstruct about two miles here soon.

The disparity in treatment of St. Louis County and other counties is shown in the accompanying table. The Chamber of Commerce drew no conclusions in its presentation to the commission.

In relation to the volume of motor traffic on State roads, the expenditure in St. Louis County has een much less than in any other ounty—$106 a car. In relation to the number of automobiles registered last year in the city and St. Louis County, St. Louis County is far behind other counties, with $30 a car. The only other county where less than $100 a machine was spent was Jackson County (Kansas City), with a figure of $39. In proportion to population, St. Louis County likewise has trailed badly—$6.50 per capita. The only other county approaching so low a sum is Jackson, with $8.92.

St. Louis County, with a relatively small size, has .201 mile of State roads a square mile of its area, which is a comparatively high standing. Only four other counties have a larger proportion, with Dunklin County the highest —.271 mile of roads a square mile.

Averages for the whole State, in comparison, are: State road xpenditures for a car registered last year, $272; expenditures per capita, $56; roads constructed for a square mile of area—.123 mile. Of the 114 counties in Missouri, only eight have received a greater mileage of State roads than St. Louis County, up to last Dec. 31. The figures: Dunklin County, 143 miles; Greene, 131; Texas, 128; Barry, 120; Lafayette, 119; Saline, 116; utler, 115; Jasper, 114; St. Louis, 10.

The chamber statement shows that in 11 years of construction, up to Dec. 31, the State has spent $205,236,435 in building 8548 miles of roads out of a system eventually to reach 15,000 miles. The higher type part is nearly completed, with 3207 miles built up to Dec. 31.

High type roads develop traffic, says the statement. Nine counties having no paved highways have daily traffic counts exceeding their own local car registrations. These counties and the explanations for this condition advanced in the statement are: Camden, traffic to Bagnell dam; Washington and Iron, proximity to St. Louis; Taney, traffic to Lake Taneycomo; Ripley, Oregon, Shannon and Carter, traffic to large springs; Bollinger, no reason given.

Returns to Desk After Conferring With R. F. C. Officers as to St. Louis Request.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 6.—Gov. Caulfield, after a trip to Washington, returned to his desk in the Capitol today still undecided hether to apply for the $2,000,000 ederal relief loan sought by St. Louis. He expects to announce a decision within a few days.

In Washington the Governor conferred with officers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, through which the loans are made. "Their attitude," he said, "was that the Federal loans are to supplement the relief work of the communities and not in any way to relieve the communities of their obligation."

How this principle was applied to St. Louis the Governor would not say. That city has officially asked him to apply for a $2,000,000 loan to finance relief work until November when a $4,600,000 relief bond issue proposal is to be submitted to voters.

Detailed data on the needs of other parts of the State is being gathered by the Missouri Committee for Unemployment Relief of which Conrad Mann of Kansas ity is chairman.

How State Spends Road Funds

THE appended table, prepared by the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, shows the relatively small provision of State roads for St. Louis County, compared with other Missouri counties, in proportion to area, population, local automobile registration and motor traffic.

In the case of the St. Louis County figures on area, population and car registration, the table was compiled on the basis of the combined population and registration of the city and the county. The State has built no roads yet within the city, but a large part of State road revenue comes from St. Louis car owners, and St. Louis County State highways are partly intended for the use of city residents. The table:

| COUNTY. | Miles of State Road Per Sq. Mile of Area | Expenditures on State Roads | Spent Per Capita | Spent Per Car Registered | Spent Per Car in Traffic |
| St. Louis | .201 | $6,710,185 | $ 6.50 | $ 30 | $106 |

*Figure is high because part of highway No. 50 was closed when traffic count was made.

The expenditures cover the period from the beginning of the State road program up to Dec. 31, 1931. The first six counties listed are those having had the greatest expenditures and the last six are those where the least was spent. The last column, on expenditures in relation to traffic, is based on maximum figures in official State counts of traffic.

ATTACKS FARM BOARD FOR SALES OF COTTON

Senator Gore Says Farmers Will Lose From $50,000,000 to $100,000,00.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—A loss of from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 to the farmers through Farm Board cotton sale policies was predicted today by Senator Gore (Dem.), Oklahoma.

In a statement, the Senator said the board's decision to sell 650,000 bales of cotton during the current year, in addition to the half million bales which are being presented to the Red Cross, "loads the current crop down with more than a million bales produced in previous years."

The board's intention to dispose of 650,000 bales in the open market was announced this week by Carl Williams, board cotton member. He said the board's cotton holdings amounted to 1,310,000 bales, of which 500,000 will go to the Red Cross, and that the staple would be disposed of without disturbing the market.

Gore, sharp critic of the board's policies, had advocated withholding the cotton from the market until this year's crop was sold by the growers.

The Oklahoma Democrat said the board's decision to sell made an artificial surplus "amounting to more than 10 per cent of the current crop," adding it would "easily depress the price more than 10 per cent."

"If the board would market this 650,000 bales at the rate of 2000 instead of 10,000 a day," he said, "it would have a much less depressing effect upon a sensitive and fainting market. The present market cannot well absorb 10,000 bales a day."

He called attention to a bill he introduced directing the board to sell 60,000 bales each month after Aug. 1 next year, unless the price went above 12 cents per pound. Then, any amount could be disposed of at one time.

SHARP GAIN IN BANK CLEARINGS

Is Reflection of Increased Activity in Security Markets.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The sharpest gain in New York City bank clearings to be reported in many weeks was shown in the Clearing House Association statement today.

Clearings during the week ended today aggregated $3,469,601,077. This compared with $2,452,540,038 the preceding week, a gain of $1,017,061,039, or roughly, a third. The gain was interpreted as being largely a reflection of increased bank transactions growing out of increased activity in the security markets.

PROBABLE NOMINEES FOR SUPREME COURT

Phillips, Barnett, Cole, G.O.P.; Hays, Tipton, Burney, Democrats, Lead.

Returns from 3438 of the 4205 voting precincts of Missouri, last night, showed the probable nomination of these candidates for the State Supreme Court:

Division 1—Republican, Alroy S. Phillips, St. Louis; Democratic, Charles T. Hays, Hannibal.

Division 2 (two to be elected)—Republican, Raymond G. Barnett, Kansas City, and W. L. Cole, Union; Democratic, Ernest M. Tipton and Clarence A. Burney, both of Kansas City.

Division 2 of the court, to which two new members are to be elected, handles all appeals from criminal convictions. There will be one holdover Judge in this division, Judge Ellison, Democratic, so that the newly elected members will constitute the majority of this division of the court.

Earlier in the count, there was some expectation that C. C. Madison of Kansas City might pass Cole for the second Republican nomination in Division 2, or that John T. Fitzsimmons of St. Louis might replace Burney on the Democratic ticket. This now appears unlikely in either instance. Cole is expected to outrun Madison in the rural precincts still unreported, and Fitzsimmons, while likely to gain on Burney in the remaining precincts, seems to be beaten by about 8000.

Nominees for other State offices are:

Lieutenant-Governor—Democratic, Frank G. Harris, Columbia; Republican, James J. Barrett, St. Louis.

Secretary of State—Democratic, Dwight Brown, Poplar Bluff; Republican, L. D. Thompson, Jefferson City.

RECEIVERSHIP SUIT DISMISSED

A suit by Philip Bider, Louis Rotman and William Loomstein for a receiver for the E. H. Giessow Realty Co., with offices in the Central National Bank Building, was dismissed in Circuit Judge Nortoni's court yesterday. The petitioners alleged that Harry Giessow, Ralph Giessow and E. W. Giessow, officers, had offered to make settlement of the company's obligations at 20 cents on the dollar.

The suit was dismissed on a stipulation signed by parties in the case.

SWEDEN AND NORWAY FOR ECONOMIC PARLEY

Both Want Tariffs Lowered to Stimulate Their Vital Foreign Trade.

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 6.—Having watched a steady curtailment of their foreign trade by mounting tariff barriers and competition, Sweden and Norway are listening with sympathetic interest to proposals for a world economic conference.

To both of these nations foreign trade is vital. Both hope for a general thawing out of trade restrictions that will start movement of their exports and permit more active use of their merchant marines. Norway, especially, is concerned with the problem of finding employment for its merchant marine, which sends ships into all waters.

The importance of foreign trade to Sweden and Norway is shown by its unusually high per capita rating. In 1930 Sweden, with a population slightly more than 6,000,000, had per capita imports of $72.60 and exports of $67.60. Norway, with about half as large a population, the same year had per capita imports of $101.80 and exports of $64.30.

Both Have Low Tariffs.

Last year Sweden's imports were valued at $242,690,000 and exports at $190,810,000, an adverse trade balance that was almost covered by earnings of the merchant marine.

Both Sweden and Norway could and would participate with freedom in a world economic conference. Neither nation has been forced to erect high tariffs, in comparison with other countries, although Sweden this spring increased the duty on a few articles.

Both nations took part early this year in the "Oslo conference," at which Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Holland and Belgium agreed to work entirely in the open in the matter of tariff increases.

Emergency Tariff Powers.

The governments of both countries are equipped for emergencies, however. The Swedish Riksdag, before it adjourned this spring, gave the state authority to increase tariffs as it saw fit while the Riksdag was not in session, including special assessments 70 to 25 per cent of the value of articles now treated as non-dutiable.

From a world economic conference, if one were to be held, Sweden would seek a more open market for timber, wood pulp, iron ore, agricultural and industrial products; Norway a better market for timber products, dairy products, fish, whale oil, and industrial products.

Both nations have felt the sting of Soviet competition in foreign markets, and both fear a preferential tariff policy within the British Empire.

RECEIVERSHIP SUIT AGAINST MOTORS AGENCY DISMISSED

Court Holds Former Manager Was Not Partner in Central States Firm.

The suit of L. P. Hambuechen for appointment of a receiver for the Central States Motors, 3145 Locust street, in which, he alleged, he and Dr. Walter E. Harral were partners, and for a dissolution of the partnership, has been dismissed by Circuit Judge Hall. The company has the local agency for Franklin automobiles and also handles Pontiac cars.

Judge Hall held that Hambuechen was employed as general manager in March, 1930, but there was no substantial evidence of any agreement he was to be a partner, entitled to a share of the profits, since it appeared Dr. Harral had furnished all of the capital, approximately $43,000. Hambuechen claimed he had a $15,000 interest in the business because he was instrumental in getting that amount as a subsidy from the Franklin Automobile Co. at the time the Central States Motors took over the agency. This subsidy represented 10 months rent at $1500 a month.

Hambuechen's salary as manager was originally $350 a month but last February it was reduced by mutual consent, Dr. Harral said, to $69.20 a week and a 5 per cent commission on net profits. The plaintiff also asked for an accounting of profits, on which claim the court rendered a judgment in his favor for $724.44, based on 5 per cent of $14,548.

At Dr. Harral's request Judge Hall issued an injunction which prevents Hambuechen from holding or taking possession of any of the assets of the firm or from representing that he is its employe. Hambuechen filed a motion for a new trial yesterday.

of the gleaming tile and glass exteriors of Britz and Magdeburg, shopkeepers and householders who glower sullenly when the new siedlungen are mentioned, and who talk bitterly of the great buildings erected with their money, and filled, as they sometimes charge, with political favorites.

Some writers on the subject of American loans to Germany have featured the new housing schemes as the fruit of such loans. Wolf believes there has been some exaggeration as to this, and that the use of American loans has been only incidental, the German taxpayer bearing the chief burden.

What Others Are Doing.

The work now being considered for St. Louis has begun in some other American cities. "Ten major developments," Wolf said, "now under construction, call for an investment of almost $70,000,000. Socially minded individuals and groups are organizing housing projects in several cities.

"The City Housing Corporation of New York has invested $14,000,000; the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, under the New York State Housing Board, $9,000,000; John D. Rockefeller Jr., $8,500,000; the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., $5,500,000; the Prudential Life, $2,500,000; and the Buhl Foundation of Pittsburgh, $2,000,000.

"The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. has built 50 detached buildings, housing 39 families each, in Long Island locations, as the beginning of a housing work in which it may ultimately expend $100,000,000. The rentals are at $9 a room per month, including steam heat, hot water and electricity, and the investment is calculated to yield 5½ per cent.

"On Manhattan Island, the slum is being attacked from several directions. Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York has urged the use of $100,000,000 from the recently established Federal relief funds, for slum clearance in New York City. The city officials are considering an application to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a loan for this purpose.

"The congested condition of New York City is generally recognized. According to the Regional Plan Association, there is a single block tenanted by 1960 persons, and this and other blocks in New York compare in density of population with the slums of Shanghai.

"Chicago has been slow about taking up a general plan for slum reclamation, but it has had two demonstrations of what can be done. The Marshall Field estate has built the apartments of that name, with accommodations for more than 600 families. The Michigan Boulevard Garden Apartments, built by the late Julius Rosenwald, provide homes for 400 families, and the Rosenwald estate is finding them its most profitable investments. In both the Field and Rosenwald buildings, the average rental is $15 a month per room.

"A committee of the Cleveland City Council has plans under consideration for improvement of six slum areas, which have a total population of 315,000, and form a belt two miles wide around the business district.

"Cincinnati's City Manager, Council and City Plan Commission are co-operating in a survey, with a view to concentrating property in a given district for improvement. In Philadelphia, plans are under way for modernizing old homes into apartments which may be rented as low as $6 a room per month. In Newark, a life insurance company has acquired a block of tenements, planning to rebuild around the outer part of the block and sell the interior to the city as a park.

Right Time to Do It.

"When we have learned, by our studies now starting, what can be done in St. Louis, it will be time to go to business men with the story, show them what has been done elsewhere, and seek the formation of limited dividend housing corporations. We can stress the value of beginning while building costs are still low and when many are out of work. We shall keep in view such measures as the proposed Wagner bill, which provides that limited dividend corporations may borrow from the Government for large-scale operations at a minimum interest charge.

"In whatever is done, we must conform to accepted recommendations of city planning. We must avoid creating more slums and blighted sections. We must provide ample recreation space. We must take cognizance of transportation costs, and walk-to-work savings.

"If, as we all believe, there should be a job for every man, it is quite as imperative that the same man should be able to obtain decent, sanitary living quarters where he and his family may practice the common and necessary virtues which make for a respectable and progressing citizenry."

MRS. T. R. 71 YEARS OLD

To Give "Hoover Tea" to Deny Support of Gov. Roosevelt.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Mrs. Edith Kermit Roosevelt, widow of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, observed her seventy-first birthday anniversary at a quiet dinner party tonight. Only members of the immediate family were present. A large frosted cake, topped off with 71 candles and an extra one "to grow on" stood at the center of the table in the old Roosevelt home on Sagamore Hill, near Oyster Bay, Long Island.

Mrs. Roosevelt declined to be interviewed, but she indicated she was busy with arrangements for the "Hoover tea" which she plans to give on Wednesday, President Hoover's birthday. Although Mrs. Roosevelt does not discuss it, friends said her main purpose in giving a "Hoover tea" was to make it known generally that she was not supporting the presidential candidacy of Gov. Franklin L. Roosevelt, despite their kinship.

Barter and "Back to Land" To Aid Europe

ployed, according to latest reports, has struck upon the idea of furnishing vocational training for many idle artisans. The American tariff of two year ago is said to have deprived about 30,000 watch makers and lace makers of their means of earning a livelihood. The depression came along and added many more thousands to the unemployed army. Realizing that it might be decades before the crippled watch and lace industries recovered the Swiss Federal Council set aside 300,000 gold francs to train a limited number of workers in new occupations. The Cantons are supposed to furnish an equal amount, to "re-make" their unemployed artisans.

Free Work for State.

Systems of "forced" and "volunteer" labor have been inaugurated in Bulgaria and the Free City of Danzig, respectively. In Bulgaria the compulsory labor idea has been practiced since the armistice. With the growth of unemployment it has resulted in a great amount of productive work being done practically free for the State. Danzig, in June, had 31,874 idle workers and their families to support. The Senate sanctioned the organization of "volunteer labor" for execution of works of public utility, and unemployed men between 21 and 30 years of age were put to work. In pay they receive the usual regular unemployment relief with accident and health insurance in addition. Although the work is not compulsory there was a gratifying response to the Senate's appeal, indicating that men would rather work for their "dole" than accept it gratuitously.

FINDS 'UNFAIR ASSESSMENTS' IN ILLINOIS TAX SURVEY

Investigating Group Also Reports "Rank Inefficiency" in Functioning of Local Units.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—A subcommittee of the Illinois Commission on Taxation and Expenditures reported today it had found evidence of "gross unfairness and rank inefficiency" in a partly completed survey of local taxing bodies in Illinois.

"Our inquiries are revealing the sources of unnecessary costs and the points of weakness in the functioning of local taxing units," said State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, chairman of the subcommittee.

"It is generally conceded by members of the subcommittee that present methods of assessing property through township assessors is grossly unfair to the taxpayer. Such work apparently is considered of little importance and needing no qualifications for its performance."

Increase for Week Ended July 30 Is Sharpest of Year.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Anthracite production for the week ended July 30 took the sharpest jump of the year. The Bureau of Mines today estimated the output for the week at 1,048,000 as compared with 706,000 tons the previous week, an increase of 48.4 per cent.

Nation-wide bituminous coal production during the period also showed an increase, although not nearly as great as that reported from the Pennsylvania fields. Bituminous mines turned out 4,610,000 tons as compared with 4,400,000 tons the previous week.

20 PER CENT INCREASE IN STOCK PRICE RECOVERY

Week's Rebound as Shorts Are Routed Brings Average to 60 Per Cent Above Bear Market Low.

WEEK END BIDDING IS SPECTACULAR

Prices of Many Prominent Issues Are Up 2 to 12 Points at Peak Levels of Final Session of Week.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The eventual reaction against black pessimism sent the stock market up sharply this week.

When much of the financial community was looking for a substantial setback from the levels reached in the July upswing, the market turned against the bears in the most spectacular advances of the year.

Buying poured in from both domestic and foreign sources, with London a particularly heavy buyer, completely upsetting the calculations of many market experts. Shorts received severe punishment as they tried to cover their commitments in a run-away bull market.

The price average for the week showed the extraordinary appreciation of about 20 per cent, and at the end of the period were up some 60 per cent from the bear market lows. Bonds faltered at times, as attention was divided to the more speculative share market, but they also came up strongly at the end of the week.

Much of the buying appeared to be based on efforts and projects to bolster commodities, some of which were sponsored by the Washington administration. The week's net gains in principal staples, however, were modest, amounting to about 5 cents a bushel in wheat, and ¼ of a cent a pound in cotton. A wide range of staples worked a little higher, however, including copper, lead, zinc, silk, hides, rubber and others.

The pound sterling declined several cents, and the French franc was moderately lower, as dollars were in strong demand in both London and Paris.

Sharp Gains at Week-End.

A week of rising bullishness was completed with sharp gains by stocks, bonds and commodities today.

Stocks were in such strong hands that their market threatened at times to run away. Enthusiasm was tempered toward the close by profit-taking, but recessions from earlier highs were generally narrow and it was hard to find evidence that recently acquired energy was being dissipated. The average gain of 3.4 points was smaller than Wednesday's; nevertheless, trading was probably as broad as that day's and some issues developed even greater strength. Sales of 2,718,530 shares were the largest for a Saturday since May, 1930.

The uprush of a dozen or so issues strongly indicated that recent converts to the short side had again been badly pinched. Thus United States Steel preferred clambered 12¾ points to 87½ against its June low of 51½. Steel common's best price was 42¾, which was shaded to 41½, a net gain of 7⅛. American Telephone raced to 108⅝, up 7¼, before meeting much resistance. Allied Chemical and Union Pacific, with net gains of around 9 points each, were other star performers. American Tobacco "B," American Can, du Pont, General Electric, Western Union, Johns-Manville, Sears-Roebuck, Norfolk & Western, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and Coca Cola, although more subdued, nevertheless closed 2 to 4 points higher. Preferred stocks were buoyant.

Rout of Shorts.

Whatever short covering may have had to do with this demonstration, it was obvious that the market was getting strong support from other quarters. Brokers said foreign and domestic buying orders were coming in steadily, and advices from Europe told of her interest in our sudden rejuvenation. Some bankers were still inclined to advise caution, although in most quarters it was pointed out that a fairly substantial degree of appreciation from the pessimistic depths reached two months ago appeared justified, at least to the point where some business recovery would be discounted.

Week-end news was of a character to expand hopes; car loadings last week showed a gain; the season for a pickup is fast approaching, if not already at hand. Nevertheless, the rise fitted handily with present sentiment.

Also to be considered was the reported progress in proposed plans for the commodity credit company, which, according to unofficial advices from banking quarters and elsewhere, it is proposed be operated along conservative banking lines without blustery ballyhoo. Credit facilities are readily available in New York for commodity purchases; but the situation in the interior of the country is somewhat tighter and it is probably there that the new organization would function chiefly.

American dollar was strong, in relation to foreign exchanges the gains of United States currency were generally attributed to the increasing purchases of American securities by Europeans.

The British pound sterling was quoted at $3.51¾ for cables, last Monday, and late today was $3.45½. The French franc was also a trifle higher, as were Belgian and Swiss francs.

Day's 10 Most Active Stocks.

Sales, closing price and net change of the 10 most active stocks today follow: U. S. Steel, 94,600, 41½, up 7⅛; General Electric, 87,400, 19¾, up 2; Am. T. & T., 69,500, 108, up 6⅜; Montgomery Ward, 68,500, 12⅛, up 1⅝; du Pont de Nemours, 58,700, 36⅛, up 3¼; New York Central, 58,400, 19¼, up 1⅞; General Motors, 58,100, 14¼, up ¾; American Can, 55,400, 49, up 3¼; J. I. Case, 49,400, 49¼, up 5⅝; Union Carbide, 44,100, 24, up 2.

WEEK'S METAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Copper advanced ¼c in the domestic market to 5⅝c for electrolytic, delivered in the Connecticut Valley, with some producers holding for 5¾c and a small tonnage sold at that figure. Better demand was stimulated by firmness abroad, improved export buying. In the American market, consumers were bidding for 1933 deliveries, but producers were unwilling to accept forward orders at current levels.

Tin advanced as buying by domestic consumers for immediate and forward positions expanded, following a period in which stocks at consuming plants were said to have declined. Firmness abroad with active demand reported at London was a contributing factor.

Lead continued to rise as producers maintained a firm attitude. Most branches of the consuming trade were represented in the buying with the demand extending into September needs.

Zinc was firmer in sympathy with other metals as some sellers withdrew and refused to take further orders at current levels.

Demand was moderately active early in the week but tapered off somewhat later. Antimony was steadier as quotations in Japan and the continent advanced. Business was restricted to small lots.

"SHORT INTEREST" IN JULY ROSE 49,816 SHARES

The increase in the short interest in July was a surprise to brokers who believed the sharp advance starting last month had drawn much of its buying support from covering.

Total borrowings by members of the exchange against collateral on Aug. 1 amounted to 1.16 per cent of the market value of all shares listed, a decrease of 0.32 per cent as compared with July 1 and a new low record.

COTTON $1 A BALE HIGHER SATURDAY; UP $5 FROM LOW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Cotton rose approximately $1 per bale today, largely reflecting strength of the stock market. December contracts sold up to 6.30c, or 24 points net higher and more than $5 per bale above the early June low, and closed at 6.24c. The general market closed steady at net advances of 18 to 19 points.

An opening advance of 2 to 4 points met increased demand and, although there was considerable week-end covering and further evening up in preparation for Monday's Government crop figures, houses with Western and Wall street connections bought. Offerings were light, recent selling through brokers with co-operative connections being little in evidence, and the advance extended to 6.22c for October and 6.58c for March late in the morning or about 20 to 25 points net higher. Realizing then became more active.

Buying derived encouragement from reports of a more active demand for cotton goods, further showers or rains in the eastern belt and some additional crop complaints arising from dry, hot weather in the Southwest. More direct influences, however, were the increased buoyancy of stocks, the further advance in wheat, and the talk of a banking pool to aid in the marketing and improvement of commodity prices.

Another private crop report pointed to a yield of 12,500,000 bales, but the figures attracted little or no comment, and any uncertainty that might have been felt over next Monday's Government report was overshadowed by the improved sentiment in Wall street.

Liverpool cables said Bombay straddle buying had absorbed offerings in that market and reported an improved demand for cotton cloth from India and China. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 81,700 bales, against 41,000 last year.

ZINC AND ORE PRICES UP IN TRI-STATE FIELD

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 6.—Zinc and lead prices bounded upward in the tri-state district this week. The sharp advance in slab zinc quotations sent zinc ore prices up $2 in the Joplin market to a basis range of $15 to $18 a ton.

Lead was marked up $2.50 a ton, ranging from $27.50 to $32.50.

Sale of zinc for the week was reported at 1130 tons. Smelters were in the market for every ton available, with the purchase considerably under the current needs of the buyers.

Zinc production this week remained unchanged at approximately 900 tons, with the output next week expected to be slightly less. Stocks in the field were reduced to approximately 70,000 tons, the smallest in more than a year.

Reports of Commodity Buying Pool Proposals and Bull Movement in Stocks Called Factors.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Aug. 6.—The wheat market had a run-up of well over 2 cents today, influenced, according to trade review, by strength of securities, report of efforts to organize pools to aid in commodity purchases and by crop comment. ## WHEAT PRICE HAS RUN UP OF PRACTICALLY 3 CENTS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—In a bargain counter buying rush today, wheat jumped practically 3 cents a bushel, and despite big grabbing of profits held every bit of gain.

Sensational soaring of stock market quotations had made wheat cheaper by comparison than for a long while back. Reports, too, of steps taken under Federal auspices to organize pools for the purchase of commodities were a further source of bullish enthusiasm.

Wheat closed buoyant, 2¼@2¾ above yesterday's finish; corn 1@1⅜ up; oats at ½@⅝c advance, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents higher.

From the moment trading began, streams of buying orders poured into the wheat pit, as a result not only of steep upturns in stocks but also owing to higher wheat prices at Liverpool and especially talk of Reconstruction Finance Corporation activity relative to commodities.

Fresh bullish reports about crop in Canada and of domestic spring wheat as well owing to dry weather and high temperatures were an additional incentive to buy. At no time did price reactions amount to more than a cent, although export trade was narrowed by the markets upward swings.

Corn, rye, oats and provisions borrowed strength from wheat.

Cash wheat prices were 2 to 2¼ cents better today following the basis figure very closely while the basis held firm. Millers and elevators were in the market, while there was nothing definite as to export and shipping sales were only 5000 bushels. Estimated receipts 83 cars. Booked to arrive 27,000 bushels.

Cash corn prices were ½@¾c higher with the basis steady. Estimated receipts 177 cars, mostly on contract. Shipping sales were 3000 bushels. Booked to arrive 150,000 bushels.

Cash oats prices were ¼@½c better with the basis also ¼@½c up. Estimated receipts 212 cars. Booked to arrive 165,000 bushels. Shipping sales 95,000 bushels.

ST. LOUIS' LATEST VENTURE IN OUT-OF-DOORS DRAMA

The Little Theater Production of "The Little Clay Cart" Introduces a New Al Fresco Auditorium to the General Public.

By M. W. CHILDS
Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff.

ST. Louis has for many years been known for its outdoor theaters. In the beginning there were such noble institutions as Uhrig's Cave and Delmar Garden. Uhrig's Cave wasn't, in the precise definition of the word, only a theater. It was better than a theater. The whole family might sit and look out over a cool froth at "Iolanthe" or "Pirates of Penzance," sit at little tables and hear Strauss waltzes and tell Oscar, the waiter, to bring them more of the good beer.

Then, beginning modestly, came the Municipal Opera. It soon achieved a huge popularity, a theater of its own and its picture in the papers as far away as Istanbul and Rangoon. Then there developed the Garden Theater. It was intimate and delightful, a dramatic success of high rank. Unhappily it did not survive.

And now we have seen the beginning of St. Louis' first amateur outdoor theater. The Little Theater recently presented "The Little Clay Cart" under the stars and with such response that this foremost group of amateurs will take itself out of doors each season for two or three productions, it is expected. Already for this summer another production is planned and will probably go on before the earliest vacationers return. This venture of the Little Theater proved, if further proof was needed, that the St. Louis public has been conditioned to like open-air drama, all the way from Aeschylus' "Electra" to Harry K. Morton's rubber legs.

"The Little Clay Cart" was produced for the first time in the country in an outdoor theater at the John Burroughs School Outdoor Auditorium in St. Louis County. An almost perfect natural amphitheater is the basis for this playhouse. And nature has been left pretty much alone, except for a determined and successful assault upon mosquitoes. The seats were purchased from the Garden Theater. The capacity is 500. The theater's acoustics are good and the stage is beautifully masked by overhanging trees.

For their first venture into the open the Little Theater chose a most difficult and unusual play. And that they succeeded so well is a tribute both to the director, Neal Caldwell, and to the enthusiastic amateurs who gave so many weeks of time and effort. In many respects "The Little Clay Cart" was ideally adapted to out-of-door performance. As done in the West, this romance from India's remote history is highly stylized, simplified, done with a single stylized setting. With but $300 allowed him for the production, Caldwell achieved a performance regarded as having beauty far out of proportion to this modest sum.

Director Caldwell has good reason to be familiar with "The Little Clay Cart." This fifth century play was first brought to America by Miss Irene Lewisohn of the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York. Next it was done under the direction of Cloyd Head at the Goodman Theater in Chicago. In this last production Caldwell took the leading male role of Charudatta.

The leading woman's role, that of Vasantasena, the courtesan, in the Little Theater production, was taken by Miss Ethel Dyer. Charudatta was played by Bruce McFarlane. In connection with McFarlane's recent rise to stardom with the Little Theater there is a story that illustrates the compelling attraction of the stage.

To three or four of the play try-outs, when the late Frederick Kitson Cowley was director, came a very earnest young man who said his name was Bruce McFarlane. He seemed to lack presence and his voice was bad. There was not so much as a walk-on part that he could qualify for. But his persistence interested Mr. Cowley. He advised young McFarlane to have a nasal operation which would alter the timbre of his voice.

Promptly the young man went to the hospital and submitted to an operation. When he returned, it was apparent at once that he could develop an excellent stage voice. And when he had played two or three minor roles, it was plain, too, that he would have a fine stage presence.

Later McFarlane, at first very shy, disclosed something of his past. His real name, it developed, was not Bruce McFarlane but Jack Gaybauer. Since his family had prejudices against the theater, he did not feel that he could become an actor, even an amateur actor, under his own name. Further, he disclosed that one reason he so persistently wanted a stage career was to overcome his very great shyness and diffidence. He had tried boxing and wrestling for the same reason. In fact, he had had his nose built up by a surgeon at the same time that he had the operation which improved the quality of his voice. The Little Theater, then, was for him a kind of post-graduate course.

No one who saw him in "The Little Clay Cart," or in Strindberg's "Fathers," in which he starred during the winter season of the Little Theater, can doubt that he has overcome any handicaps he might have begun with. Miss Dyer, who played opposite him, has had a long-standing interest in the theater. When she was at Bryn Mawr College, she gained a reputation as director and player.

Those who are most interested in the Little Theater hope some day to have in St. Louis a theater of professionalized amateurs who give their whole time to play production for modest salaries. Cleveland has such a playhouse and there are many who believe that the theater's future in this country rests with such semi-amateur, semi-professional groups. But that is the future.

As to the present, if the Little Theater produces another play in this, its first summer season, it will probably be Moliere's "Don Juan."

Photographing Objects the Eye Cannot See

Infra-Red Process Now Developed to the Point Where Cameras Can See in the Dark and Penetrate to Distances of More Than 300 Miles.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

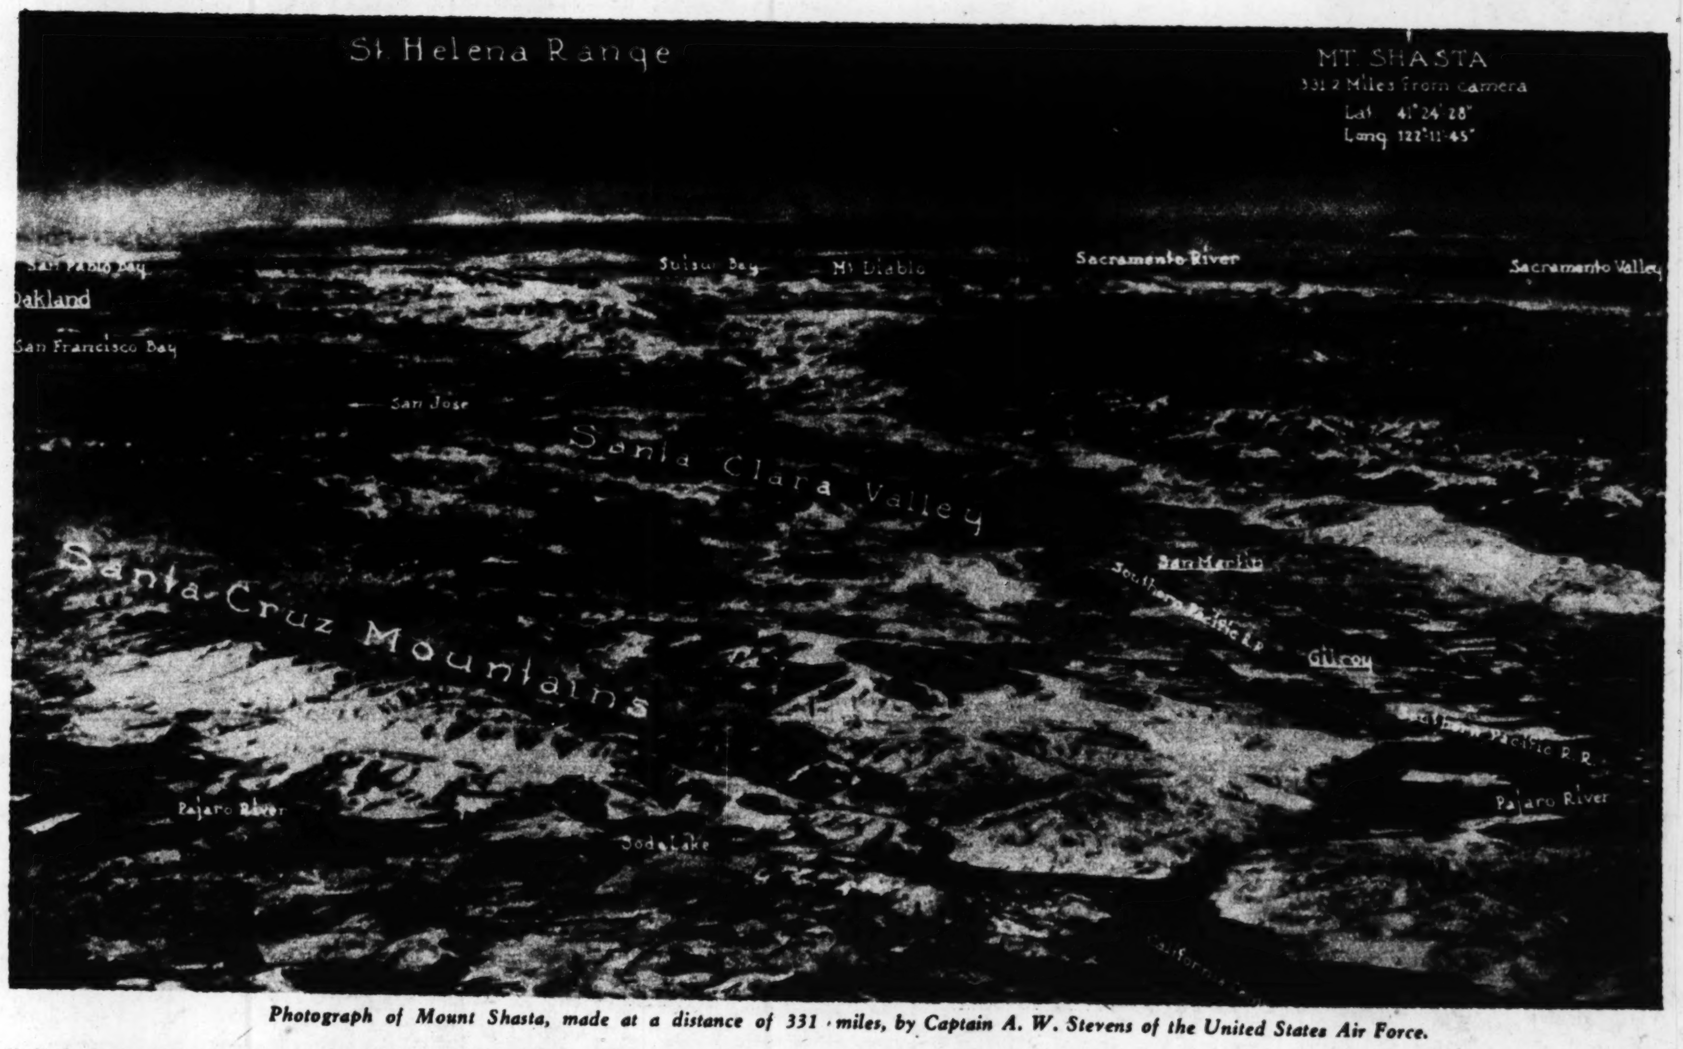
CAMERAS which see in the dark and which penetrate to distances completely invisible to the naked human eye are now demonstrable scientific realities. Mountains more than 300 miles away have been photographed from airplanes, and people have had their pictures taken—good pictures, too—in a room in which there was no perceptible light.

The explanation is infra-red photography, a development of recent years which is constantly being made more effective. It makes use of waves of light which belong to the infra-red region of the spectrum—light waves which are too long to be visible to the human eye, but which can act on a photographic plate made sensitive to them.

For some years infra-red photography has been used by astronomers. With photographic materials which are sensitive to invisible waves of light, they have been taking pictures of the spectra of the stars. Long exposures have been necessary in the work because of the low general sensitiveness of the materials. As the sensitiveness has been increased by constant laboratory work, astronomers have been able to photograph the spectra of fainter stars.

With photographic materials being made ever more sensitive to infra-red, the project of taking a photograph in what seemed absolute darkness presented itself—that is, photographing people in a room lighted only by the invisible infra-red light. So one day a group of men was photographed under these conditions in the research laboratories of the Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, New York. The picture was taken in a room in which a booth had been erected. In the booth were 15 1000-watt electric lamps pointed toward the ceiling of the room, and over the top of the booth were placed deep filters which transmitted only infra-red light. Using a special infra-red sensitive plate, hypersensitized with ammonia, the photographer made a good negative of the group with an exposure of one second.



Photograph of Mount Shasta, made at a distance of 331 miles, by Captain A. W. Stevens of the United States Air Force.

Equally as sensational has been the use of infra-red in long-range photography. Captain A. W. Stevens of the United States Army Air Service has been particularly successful in this. His latest notable achievement in this field was the photographing of Mount Shasta, California, from a distance of 331.2 miles. His airplane was at a height of 23,000 feet and eight miles east of Salinas. Mount Shasta was too far away for him to see, so he aimed his camera with the help of a compass. The exposure was only one-fifth of a second, and an especially sensitive film was used.

Previously Captain Stevens had taken long-range photographs with infra-red light over the Rocky Mountains and in South America. In the southern continent he photographed the peak of Aconcagua when his airplane was 310 miles distant. This picture showed the line of haze over the pampas as curved, due to the curvature of the earth. In 1929, Captain Stevens took a picture of Mount Ranier from the air at a distance of 227 miles.

Scene in a London park. The one on the left was made with a pan-chromatic plate and the one on the right with an infra-red plate.

These long-range photographs are taken with a camera over whose lens is a filter to exclude visible light but which will let through the infra-red waves. The plate or film is one sensitized to infra-red.

The reason infra-red photography has proved so successful in long-distance work is that it penetrates haze much farther than visible light. Vapor and dust in the air scatter light, but the infra-red is less affected than visible light. Pictures shown here illustrate the difference between ordinary and infra-red photography in the elimination of haze.

Infra-red light was being used for long-distance photography nearly 10 years ago, when the Yosemite Valley was photographed from Mount Hamilton in California, 120 miles away. At that time, however, it was necessary to use rays which were rather close to the visible spectrum, as photographic materials sensitive to the longer waves of invisible light—that is, those comparatively far from the visible spectrum—had not been developed. Eastman research experts say that for this type of photography the only limit to the camera range is that set by earth curvature.

And Captain Stevens has expressed the opinion that it may be possible for the camera to give "an inkling" even of objects a short distance below the horizon—that light rays may be curved by the atmosphere.

Certain things have a different appearance in an infra-red photograph from that recorded in an ordinary photograph. Foliage, because of its strong reflection of infra-red rays, is dark in the negative and white in the print of a photograph. An illustration of this contrast is afforded by the two pictures reproduced here of a bridge across the Genesee River at Rochester, New York.

In portraiture rather startling effects are sometimes produced by infra-red photography. In one of the pictures shown here, a clean-shaven man appears to need the services of a barber, merely because the infra-red light caused the photograph to show the whiskers beneath the skin. In the two photographs of a Negro, the infra-red picture makes apparent certain Mongolian aspects of the face which are not shown in the ordinary photograph.

The photograph of a plaster bust, flanked by two electric irons, was made in the Eastman laboratories. It was made in darkness, the heat rays from the heated flatirons being the source of radiation, instead of lamps.

In addition to its use in astronomy and aerial and other long-range photography, infra-red photography is being employed in examination of documents and study of physiognomies

NEW YORK.

OF ALL the socially registered sisters who have moved across Chicago's ultra smart stage in recent years, none have been more famous for their devotion to each other than the glamorous Murphy girls—the three dazzling daughters of the late Dr. John B. Murphy, eminent surgeon.

Born with platinum spoons in their mouths, they were brought up like story-book heiresses in a great brownstone mansion at 3305 Michigan avenue, when that was Chicago's social front. Along with various young Armours and Blairs and Swifts, they attended Mrs. Loring's fashionable school for girls.

When they grew up they were introduced to all the most eligible men in the younger set at brilliant "coming-out" balls given by their mother, acclaimed by artists "the most beautiful woman in Chicago society." And wherever they went, at home or abroad, they were always pointed out as "those inseparable sisters."

Yet a suit recently filed in New York against Mrs. Rene Georges Le Brosi, the former Celeste Murphy and the youngest of the trio, reveals not only that her present husband was a waiter in a Manhattan restaurant when she married him last November, but that her choice of a helpmate has provoked a family feud among the devoted sisters.

THE suit, brought by Dudley Field Malone, international lawyer, is seeking to recover an unpaid balance of $19,000 on a $40,000 legal fee from the former Chicago social favorite and one-time wife of the late James Gordon Murdock of Indianapolis.

It grew out of efforts to block her second marriage made by her two sisters, Mildred and Cecile, who made conventional society marriages and are now prominent members of Chicago's select set.

Mildred is Mrs. Edward N. Hurley Jr., daughter-in-law of the war-time head of the United States Shipping Board and wife of the president of the Electric Household Utilities Corporation. Her sister-in-law, the former Helen Hurley, was presented at the Court of St. James a couple of seasons ago. The younger Hurleys' town house on Stratford place and country estate near Wheaton, Ill., are the rendezvous of smart society.

Cecile married the late J. Thompson Benedict, millionaire and scion of an old and prominent Chicago family, who was killed by a hit-and-run automobile in 1929. Her home is a de luxe co-op, overlooking Lake Michigan and Jackson Park.

Mrs. Hurley and Mrs. Benedict, spurred on by information supplied them by private sleuths whom they hired to shadow Le Brosi, tried in vain

And wherever they went, at home or abroad, they were always pointed out as "those inseparable sisters."

Yet a suit recently filed in New York against Mrs. Rene Georges Le Brosi, the former Celeste Murphy and the youngest of the trio, reveals not only that her present husband was a waiter in a Manhattan restaurant when she married him last November, but that her choice of a helpmate has provoked a family feud among the devoted sisters.

THE suit, brought by Dudley Field Malone, international lawyer, is seeking to recover an unpaid balance of $19,000 on a $40,000 legal fee from the former Chicago social favorite and one-time wife of the late James Gordon Murdock of Indianapolis.

It grew out of efforts to block her second marriage made by her two sisters, Mildred and Cecile, who made conventional society marriages and are now prominent members of Chicago's select set.

Mildred is Mrs. Edward N. Hurley Jr., daughter-in-law of the war-time head of the United States Shipping Board and wife of the president of the Electric Household Utilities Corporation. Her sister-in-law, the former Helen Hurley, was presented at the Court of St. James a couple of seasons ago. The younger Hurleys' town house on Stratford place and country estate near Wheaton, Ill., are the rendezvous of smart society.

Cecile married the late J. Thompson Benedict, millionaire and scion of an old and prominent Chicago family, who was killed by a hit-and-run automobile in 1929. Her home is a de luxe co-op, overlooking Lake Michigan and Jackson Park.

Mrs. Hurley and Mrs. Benedict, spurred on by information supplied them by private sleuths whom they hired to shadow Le Brosi, tried in vain to dissuade their baby sister from becoming a waiter's wife. Then they sought to postpone her wedding by withholding her share of their father's $1,700,000 estate.

To thwart them and protect her interests, the altar-bound Mrs. Murphy Murdock engaged Lawyer Malone. So professional were his services that between July, 1931, and January, 1932, he recovered her entire share of $400,000. Though his suit states that she had signed a contract fixing his fees at 10 per cent of all properties recovered, he charges she reneged on the bargain after paying $21,000 on account.

Until Attorney Malone began to press his legal suit against the former home-town beauty, Chicago society had never suspected the truth—that her husband had been a waiter in a New York steak salon before he slipped a wedding ring on her finger in Greenwich, Connecticut, last November. All it knew about her second marital venture was what was engraved on the parchment announcements, mailed from New York three weeks after that ceremony.

The formality of those announcements, plus the pleasantly foreign sound of the groom's name, coupled with the inclosed cards that they would be "at home" at fashionable Great Neck, Long Island, combined to impress her Chicago friends. They naturally assumed that she was just another local girl who had made a good international marriage.

Since the marriage, so Lawyer Malone's suit reveals, the Swiss bridegroom has turned his back on steamtables and salad counters and become a draftsman. With his wife and her two sons by her previous marriage—James Murdock Jr., 12, and John B., 9—he is living in the Great Neck mansion built by his predecessor.

For one of the glamorous Murphy girls to do any but the socially correct thing was a decided shock to Chicago society.

Like her sisters, whose twin debuts at a Christmas week ball at the Blackstone made drawing room history in 1910, the former Celeste Murphy had a very proper "coming out" party.

The sisters hired detectives to shadow Le Brosi, who was a waiter in a Manhattan chophouse until he married the former Celeste Murphy.

Regarded as the most beautiful of the trio of strikingly lovely sisters, she quickly captured the fancy of a half-dozen of Chicago's most eligible beaux. Almost at once, however, she began to show a preference for Jimmie Murdock, debonair son of the late Samuel T. Murdock, millionaire motor magnate of Indianapolis and South Bend, Indiana.

She became his wife at a fashionable wedding at the Church of the Sacred Heart in Hubbard Woods in June, 1918, and the two went to housekeeping in Indianapolis, where they shortly became leaders of the gay young set. There were born their two sons.

Before they had been married long, however, rumors that their hot love had begun to chill began to drift back to Chicago. But nobody took them seriously. The word "divorce" was not in the vocabulary of the Murphy family.

And when, in the midst of the rumors, business necessitated their moving to New York and they established themselves in Great Neck, the word went around again that all was well with the young Murdocks.

In consequence, Chicago society awakened with a start one morning early in the winter of 1928 to read that the former Celeste Murphy had quietly established legal residence in her girlhood city and was starting suit to divorce her wealthy broker husband. She charged him with extreme and repeated cruelty.

But the genteel start she gave society then was nothing compared to the hair-raising shock she administered a few weeks later when she ascended the witness stand in Judge Joseph Sabath's divorce courtroom. With painful details she described how the sight of her right eye had been permanently impaired by a blow dealt her by her spirited young husband. She testified about the time he fractured her nose. She spoke at length of beatings he had administered.

Waiving alimony for herself, she asked for and received custody of their children. She also received the benefit of an out-of-court settlement by which her battling better-half agreed to pay $400 a month for their support.

Decree in hand, she returned to Great Neck, and shortly afterwards word was carried to her that Murdock had suddenly died. Since then Chicago society has not seen her. And the first word many of her closest friends have had from her was the engraved announcement of her marriage.

IN selecting for her second matrimonial attempt a poor man without social pretensions, the striking Celeste has repeated family history.

There remain in Chicago's selecter circles today a few persons who can recall the opposition offered her mother, the beautiful Jeanette Plamondon, when she announced her intentions of marrying a struggling and unknown young doctor, 10 years her senior—a doctor whose name, by the way, was John B. Murphy.

It was unthinkable that the convent-bred daughter of the Ambrose Plamondons, pioneer Chicagoans of wealth and position, should exchange her role of rich man's daughter for that of poor man's wife. In 1885, when she was married, her doctor-husband was just approaching the threshold of his great career.

Up to 1890 his chief fame had come from collecting half of a $6000 fee—then considered enormous—for helping treat the policemen injured in the famous Haymarket riot. But in that year he devised the famous "Murphy button," which revolutionized intestinal surgery.

Prior to its invention, a patient suffering from such internal ails as appendicitis was very likely to die, for surgeons knew of no sure way of healing the incisions made by their knives.

From that time on his fame increased by leaps and bounds. On the staffs of a half-dozen leading Chicago hospitals, he became surgeon-in-chief of the Northwestern University Medical School.

During the last half-dozen years of his life, he was reputed to have had an income from his profession in excess of $200,000 a year.

HORSE MAGIC

PETER B. KYNE

"Malachi let fly with the BB shot."

MR. MALACHI CONCANNON left the race track at Tanforan Park, which is near San Francisco. He went across the sands to the adjacent town of San Bruno. He climbed wearily up three flights of stairs in the Bay View Apartments. At No. 27 he got out his latch-key; he sighed deeply and entered.

At the table in the kitchenette his wife sat shuffling a deck of cards. She looked up at Malachi with the sort of look all wives acquire after 20 years of wedlock, provided those years have been filled with vicissitudes. After a while she said:

"How did he finish, Malachi?"

"Poor Malachi!"

"Don't you sympathize with me!" her husband yelled. "I can't bear it. We're ruined. I stood off the feed man until this race. Now he'll attach the horses, and—and"——

"The cards don't say that, Malachi. And today I went to a fortune teller in the city. He says we're going to make a lot of money before this meeting is over. He simply is wonderful. He says the next horse you start will win at long odds."

"Did he say anything about betting his own money on him?"

"Now, Malachi, be reasonable. Have you got a copy of the condition book with you?"

Mr. Concannon surlily tossed it on the table before her, and Marge looked through it. "Here's another race for maiden two-year-olds tomorrow," she announced. "Have you entered our colt in that race?"

"No. I was too disgusted, Marge. This makes the third time he's been left at the post, so I thought I'd school him at the barrier a lot more an' then cut him loose."

The two-year-old colt Simple Simon, out of Simplicity, out of Simper by Simpleton by the immortal St. Simon, was in appearance all that one should expect of a two-year-old of such royal breeding. He represented Malachi Concannon's one frightful extravagance in horseflesh, and was the result of a tip Marge had paid an Oriental necromancer 50 cents for.

Marge had showed this necromancer the mimeographed list of the overnight entries and asked him for a sure long shot. He advised her earnestly to play a horse called Doctor Weeks.

Mr. Concannon had been horrified at the suggestion when Marge imparted it to him; he informed her Doctor Weeks was unsound, old, of indifferent breeding and the rankest sort of selling plater entered in a field of classy three-year-olds that could breeze faster than Doctor Weeks had run in his prime; that the old gelding hadn't won a race or even been in the money for a year. He forbade her to bet on the swindle. And in order to enforce his edict, he took the bank roll away from her that night.

Alas for the well-laid plan of the alleged head of the house of Concannon! Marge knew he would do that, so she held $100 out on him and hid it in her shoe. And the next day she bet it on the nose of Doctor Weeks, who ran the race of his ignoble life and won by a whisker. He paid 125 to 1, the only tickets purchased on him having been those held by Marge.

Well, they paid $10,000 for Simple Simon, as a result, and he an untried yearling. However, as Malachi observed, if Simple Simon didn't develop into a stake horse there wasn't any sense trying to breed race horses.

WHEN Simple Simon was saddled for the first time, his personality proved to be that of a devil. However, one can forgive that if the horse is fast; and Simple Simon, when fit, could step an eighth in 11, a quarter in 22 1-5, the half in 47 and the five-eighths in a minute flat.

On the day Malachi worked him five-eighths for the first time alone, he ran disgracefully. He was sluggish, a loafer; his time was 1:05. The next time out, Malachi worked him with one of his old platers in 1 minute and two-fifths of a second, which proved that Simple Simon was ordinarily unambitious, but did possess a sense of competition.

But Malachi discovered also that Simple Simon would not stand for the whip. One crack and he sulked. Nor was his competitive complex of such magnitude that he cared to exert himself to the point of outrunning another horse by more than half a length. Seemingly, he was satisfied to keep ahead of him, which is bad business, since if the jockey on the principal contender made the pace, the sluggish Simon would step right along with him until the pacemaker suddenly opened up on him, in which event the chances were that before Simple Simon's slow intellect had telegraphed to his legs the crying necessity for more speed, the race would be lost to him by anything from a nose to half a length.

"Oh, Lordy me," Malachi groaned to Marge, "what a colt! And what a liability!"

"That colt's afraid 'o the webbin', an' when it flies up he backs away from it instead o' breakin'. It's somethin' mysterious to him. So what I got to do is put somethin' equally mysterious behind him—somethin' he'll fear more than the webbin'. A whip ain't no mystery to him."

"What are you going to do?"

"I won't tell you. You'd tell this thievin' fortune teller, an' he'd remember it an' give the game away the next time some other fool horseman's fool wife came around askin' for high-class information."

"Little Margie always has some money when her Malachi is broke," she cooed. "We'll pay the feed man $100 on account and he'll lay off you until the meeting closes."

"Marge," Mr. Concannon murmured tremulously, "you drive me crazy with your superstitions, but I gotta hand it to you. You ain't no spendthrift otherwise, an' I guess if I didn't let you handle the family bank roll, we'd have been in the poorhouse long ago."

"What happened today?" Marge asked.

"The same thing. Just before the starter sprung the barrier the colt backed out of the startin' stall."

Marge nodded. "I asked the fortune teller how to cure him of that habit, and"——

"You'll be the death of me," Mr. Concannon cried wildly. "Woman, will you leave race horses to race-horse men? What the devil does some nut who gazes into a crystal ball know about schoolin' a two-year-old, an' him not knowin' a horse from a giraffe?"

"He knows more than you think he does. He says you ought to have one of the assistant starters stand behind the colt and when he starts running backward out of the starting gate stall the trainer should give him a larrup with his whip."

With his forefinger under her nose, Malachi threatened her. "Woman," he ground out, "if you'd use your own common sense and leave cards, palmists, astrologers and fortune tellers out of it, we'd make our everlastin' fortune."

"You've got to admit," Marge defended stubbornly, "that we're ahead of them thus far."

"I don't know about that, Marge. I'll bet you in the past 20 years you've spent $12,500 on the crooks before you picked a winner. The bird had to give you some sort of direct answer to your question. You asked for a sure long shot, and he did the best he could for 50 cents."

"He's given me Broadcast in the seventh race this afternoon," she said.

"He's a good amateur handicapper, Marge. Broadcast's a cinch. He'll win by five open lengths. Why, I could have given you Broadcast myself and saved you 50 cents."

"For 25 cents extra he gave me Tomtit to place. He says Tomtit should pay 10 to 1 to place."

"Tomtit," said Malachi Concannon, "will get down where the money used to be about the time the crowd is leaving the track. Don't you bet any of our money on that dog. Hear me? I forbid it."

Nevertheless, Marge had bet $5, for the bank roll was very low. However, being a woman of resolution, she also pawned her diamond engagement ring for $200 and bet that. Tomtit made a place, but only because at the turn into the stretch Broadcast stepped on a small stone, bruised the frog of his off front foot and quit cold under wraps, while the second favorite romped home in front, under wraps, with Tomtit and another of his kind ridden out to the last gasp. Marge redeemed her ring, wrapped $2000 in a small chamois bag and hung it around her neck. Nor did she mention her winning to Malachi. To her surprise, Malachi handed her $50 after dinner that night.

"I LAID $5 on Tomtit," he confessed, "but it was just another accident, and I'm ashamed of myself."

The day following Simple Simon's failure to break with his field, Mr. Concannon took the colt to the barrier to school him. He did not stand behind the horse with a quirt. Instead, he purchased an air rifle and loaded it with BB shot, stood back about 60 feet and aimed it at Simple Simon's right quarter and close in, where the hide is thinnest. At the horse's first move to back out of the stall Malachi let fly—and Simple Simon changed his mind abruptly. An assistant starter held his head and kept him from bolting; while the horse struggled with the assistant starter Malachi let him have another pellet, which made him rear and buck. A minute later, when the barrier was sprung, he was off like a flushed quail.

Malachi chuckled. "That BB shot gets under his hide and stings like a bee for a couple of minutes. He doesn't know where it came from, and he's mystified. It hurt so much he's more afraid of it than he is of the barrier. It's occurred to the fool now that the barrier has never hurt him, so he took a chance. Bring him back and we'll try him again."

They did. Simple Simon stood there trembling. Again he started to back out, and again Malachi shot him, and again he stood still, quivering; he even tried to look around to see what had struck him. They held him five minutes, sprung the barrier—and again he broke beautifully.

"He's ready to race now," Malachi informed Marge that night. "He's broken three times, and he knows now the barrier will not hurt him. But he also knows that if he don't break something will hurt him. I've entered him for tomorrow. Got any money, Marge?"

Marge exhibited her little plump chamois bag. "There's $2000 here, Malachi. I pawned my diamond ring and won on Tomtit, but you're not going to get a nickel of it until you withdraw your silly objections to Professor O'Leary."

"I know more about our colt than 10,000,000,000 Professor O'Leary's!" Malachi howled. "Come on, Marge, kick through."

"Not a buffalo nickel," Marge replied firmly, and Malachi did not ask her again. He hadn't been married 20 years to Marge not to realize that when she made up her mind nothing could budge her. So reluctantly he had to see her set forth for the city next morning for a conference with Professor O'Leary. She turned up at the barn at noon. "We'll bet the roll today, darlin'," she almost crooned. "Professor O'Leary says there's luck in odd numbers, and this is Simple Simon's fifth start. Here's the money, darlin'. Bet it on his nose."

Simple Simon was entered in the first race, and the bugle calling them to the post sounded at 2:15. At 2 o'clock Malachi made his bet, but not according to Professor O'Leary's advice. Unlike Marge, he was cautious and conservative. So he bet his money on Simple Simon to place. Then he went over to the starting gate and stood at the inner rail, just inside the infield and well back of the gate.

Simple Simon had the rail position, and it was apparent to Malachi that his colt was in a rebellious mood. So as the field came mincing up to the starting gate Malachi produced a small slingshot and let Simple Simon have a BB shot in the flank. Instantly the horse broke and cantered into the stall, where an assistant starter grabbed him by the head. Regardless of the fact that he might be ruled off the turf for it, Malachi let him have another BB shot just as the field was stationary in the stall for a moment. The result was that Simple Simon was off first with a tremendous burst of speed that carried him 10 lengths to the front at the quarter; then, finding himself quite alone, he commenced to loaf until another horse ranged in alongside of him, when he quickened his stride to keep half a length in front of the contender. A hundred feet from the wire that contender, having been nicely rated due to Simple Simon's loafing tactics, leaped forward under the impetus of a volley of blows from the bat, opened up a length lead and got under the wire to win by a nose. However, Simple Simon paid 10 to 1 a place.

When Malachi got back to the barn with the colt, he found Marge dissolved in tears and devastation. "Oh, Malachi, we're broke again!" she wailed, and sought his arms for comfort.

"And that," said Malachi Concannon brutally, "is what you get for 50 cents worth of bad information from Professor O'Leary. He told you to bet it on the colt's nose, and you told me to bet it that way, and as it was your money, I obeyed you. And now look where we are!" he concluded, without the faintest blush for his falsehood.

"Oh, I'm such a fool," Marge sobbed. "I'll never, never trust that horrible Professor O'Leary again."

"If you do, I'll kill him, and then they'll hang me for murder, and it'll be your fault. . . . Well, it might be worse. Our share of the purse is $300. Promise me you'll lay off Professor O'Leary from now on, and I'll forgive you."

"I promise," Marge sobbed. When she had departed, he gave Simple Simon a vigorous punch in the ribs. "You dirty traitor!" he growled. "You can run as fast as horses ever run, but slower horses will always take you like Grant took Richmond. A low-grade plater beat you today."

NOW, for all his roaring and bluff, Malachi Concannon was as soft as a child at heart. That night Marge suffered so much that he could not bear the sight of her suffering. Dear old Marge! What a gorgeous pal she had always been to him. He'd surprise her. When she rose from the dinner table to go to the gas range for the teapot, he slid $12,000 in crisp $100 bills under her empty dinner plate and sat back grinning like the head of an old fiddle.

In her hotel room Marge unfolded a letter and read it for the twentieth time. It ran as follows:

"Dear Mr. Concannon: Following an intensive study of astrology and numerology for the past 10 years, I have stumbled upon a remarkable discovery, which, if used, will be worth a King's ransom to a race horse owner.

"I have perfected and successfully tested astrological and numerical charts, by means of which I am capable of advising you under planetary influences. It is also definitely known that animals, like human beings, are at the time of birth imbued with certain planetary vibrations (i. e., characteristics) which govern and control them through life. I have found that if a horse is entered in a race when the planetary vibrations are similar or identical to those under which the animal was born, it is absolutely certain to win.

"Please understand that I accept no fee for my work until I have proved to you, beyond peradventure of a doubt, that I am the man you have been seeking all your life. I am an amateur, not a professional. You furnish the horses and I furnish the valuable information necessary to transmute horseflesh into gold. Need I say more? I need not.

"Very sincerely yours,

"J. SMITHSON CHEEVER,

"A. B., LL. D."

"A NUMEROLOGIST!" Marge breathed. "And I didn't promise Malachi I'd lay off them. I've simply got to have an interview with J. Smithson Cheever."

Professor Cheever was a personable, tall, fair man of about 36 or 38. We was one to inspire confidence.

The professor immediately launched a lecture on the subject of numerology. He had a chart to illustrate his points; he explained to Marge the signs of the Zodiac and the mysterious forces encompassed in the sun, moon and planets. He called them planetary forces and dwelt lovingly on vibrations; he explained to her that from time immemorial the sages of the ages had known that each letter of the alphabet had a corresponding number, known as the symbol of its vibratory influence, but that some confusion had arisen as to which alphabet one could use and be the richer by correct numerical divination.

Marge found it all very confusing but mysteriously delightful; and when Professor Cheever, mistaking her interest for understanding, suddenly commanded:

"Give me the name of the race horse." she replied: "Simple Simon."

The professor figured rapidly and announced that the horse's positive symbol of vibratory influence was 6. Next he asked for the date of the horse's birth, coded that and discovered that the answer also was 6, which he declared checked 100 per cent.

"For this horse," he announced, "you should always seek races in which the number 6 predominates."

Marge was an apt pupil. "The Au

IF Greta Garbo's name comes first in any list of famous Swedes in America, that of Vincent Bendix must certainly come second. Strictly speaking, he is not a Swede, for he was born in this country of Swedish parents, but, with the clannishness, the stubborn integrity, that characterizes his people, he nevertheless is, in the broader sense, a Swede. The meteoric rise of this son of an impoverished Swedish minister is one of the fables of modern business.

The depression has not served in any way to check this champion gadget maker. In 90 per cent of the motor cars on the road today there are three or four Bendix devices, in all airplanes three or four. He has brought out 22 new products since 1929. And while his personal fortune may be reduced by the drastic slump in the stock market from $100,000,000 to perhaps $50,000,000, or even $40,000,000, he is in a position to make a speedy recovery when the depression begins to lift. It is symbolic of Bendix's rise to fame that he lives in Chicago's most famous private dwelling. There is in St. Louis no parallel to Chicago's "Potter Palmer mansion"—the Kaufman-Bixby home on the site of the Chase Hotel, may, in its day, have been comparable. This crenellated castle of mahogany-red stone occupies the most conspicuous site on Lake Shore drive. It was there that the members of Chicago's first family, socially speaking, lived for 40 years. It was there that the Infanta Eulalie of Spain gave the snub direct to her hostess for being the wife of an "inn-keeper." King Edward of England, when he was still Prince of Wales, danced in the marble and terrazzo ballroom. Three or four Presidents have stopped there.

And now, in his ascendancy, this round, roly-poly, humorous looking Swede lives there. Potter Palmer III and Honore Palmer and all the rest of the tribe of Palmer have retreated to apartment hotels, to Paris, to the Riviera. Sole lord over this ornate Victorian palace is Vincent Bendix.

The way in which Bendix utilizes this unique house is typical of the man. In two or three rooms on the second floor he has established offices for his private architect, Donald Boothby. Four years ago he bought the house. For nearly a year he has lived there. Except for three or four official occasions, when the house was opened to charity events, Mrs. Bendix has never entered it. During the Democratic convention Bendix had Mayor Walker of New York and Mayor Cermak of Chicago as his house guests.

FOR the past four months, while he has supervised the erection of the lama temple, Dr. Hedin has lived there. In the marble and terrazzo ballroom, arranged on great tables around the walls are the rare and beautiful objects that will adorn the temple when it is completed, strange masks and bronze temples bells and incense-burners and drums, painted robes and the curious symbols that adorned the lama's altar and the broad throne of the chief lama. All these rare and precious things from the East arranged in this big, ugly room, and all because of the dynamic, driving energy of this modern Marco Polo, who hires experts to travel for him and bring back the treasures of the East.

How he came to buy the lama temple—the two lama temples, one for Stockholm in Sweden and one for Chicago—is typical of Bendix, too. He concentrates so intensely on his business, his inventions, that it is difficult, almost impossible, for anyone to interest him in projects of this sort, impossible to break through his absorption. But it came to his knowledge that Dr. Hedin needed money to finance one of his numerous expeditions into Tibet. Dr. Hedin came here and interviewed Bendix. A few days later Bendix gave Dr. Hedin a check for $65,000.

The model of the Lama Temple, called the "Golden Pavilion of Jehol," which is being erected on the grounds of the World's Fair, a present from Vincent Bendix to the City of Chicago.

Then Dr. Hedin ventured to propose an old dream. Ever since his first venture into Tibet it had been his ambition to bring back to Stockholm a lama temple.

"Sure, good idea," said Bendix, reaching again, if not actually at least figuratively, for his checkbook.

But a third person who was present ventured to say, "But what about Chicago? They'll be jealous here in Chicago when they find out what you've done for Stockholm?"

"Could you get two lama temples?" said Bendix suddenly to Dr. Hedin. "Yes? All right then, get two lama temples, one for Chicago."

And so there are to be two lama temples at a cost to Bendix of $135,000. The one at the Century of Progress Exposition here is to be an exact reproduction, down to the last millimeter, of the Golden Pavilion of Jehol. It was discovered that the original temple was in such a bad state of repair that it would be impossible to take it down, transport it and set it up again on Chicago's fairgrounds. Under Dr. Hedin's supervision, Chinese craftsmen made the copy, piece by piece, each numbered and lettered. A Chinese architect came along with it, Chinese paints and Chinese painters, for no American painter, union or otherwise, could achieve the same beautiful abaresques essential to accuracy. For his gift to Stockholm Bendix was made a Commander of the Royal Order of the North Star.

Bendix's fortune is based upon 5500 patents. A shelf of books, like a good-sized encyclopedia, contains nothing but the patents that the Government has granted him. With Winton, Haynes, and the other pioneers, Bendix built a horseless carriage. Financially it got stuck on the first upgrade, leaving its maker with nothing but debts. Never since that time has Bendix tried to make a complete motor-car. He has been content during the past 25 years to make the various parts that go into automobiles and how many parts he makes is indicated by those 5500 patents. The average number of successes out of this total is very high, as successful inventions are rated.

First and foremost was the Bendix drive—in its initial stage a kind of steel band which was connected with a separate starting motor. The steel hand would grasp the fly-wheel of the engine, turn it over and release it when the engine started.

As told in an account in a success magazine recently—Bendix has reached that stage in his career — the inventor started out to sell his primitive self-starter. Every automotive engineer who consented to examine it said it wouldn't work. At last he got a firm in Elmira, New York, to manufacture the invention. That was in 1911. In the following 17 years that firm received $30,000,000 from Bendix's invention.

Another successful invention was the four-wheel mechanical brake. The original invention was the work of a Frenchman, Perrot. Bendix saw it in Paris in 1922 and bought the rights to it. He had more than one reason to be vitally interested in this invention. Only a little while before his father had been killed under a car with inefficient brakes. When he had perfected Perrot's invention, he didn't have to offer it to scornful engineers. He organized his own company to manufacture the four-wheel brake and automobile manufacturers were eager to buy it.

Even during the depression Bendix's plants have increased enormously. The principal one, at South Bend, Indiana, had 360,000 square feet of floor space in 1929. Now it has nearly 25 acres under roof, a million square feet. In connection with it there is a highly developed research department to exploit the new ideas that pop into the head of this inventive genius. His latest successful invention, perfected and developed since the depression began, is the automatic clutch control.

BENDIX drives himself as rigorously today as he did 30 years ago. But it is scarcely a question of drive, for his boundless energy cannot be restrained. In his own remarkable memory he retains most of the details of his business.

Take a typical day in Bendix's life. At 7 o'clock he is wakened. Then comes his masseur, a powerful Norwegian. He is massaged as he lies in the middle of the great bed in the master's bedroom. While this is still going on, a secretary comes to take a half dozen telegrams and letters. The telephone rings. An art dealer is admitted to this early-morning session and despite the secretary, the masseur and the telephone, Bendix finds time to discuss a possible addition to his collection of tapestries. He breakfasts with another secretary and discusses the plans for the day.

At nine he has a long conference with his real estate agents. In the past four years his real estate and building operations have become increasingly important. He owns many valuable blocks on Chicago's near North Side. At ten o'clock he calls the manager of his Los Angeles plant and talks for three-quarters of an hour about an important shift in plans. Before he has finished the conversation he has talked to four persons at the Los Angeles end. (There is scarcely a day that Bendix does not spend from an hour to two hours on the long distance telephone, talking to New York, Detroit, all around the compass.) Half an hour later he is on the train for South Bend, thanks to the second secretary who accompa-

The RICH MR. ANNESS' BATTLE for HIS GRANDCHILDREN

First He Won Them From Their Mother After a Court Trial Filled With Charges and Counter Charges, and Now, Threatened by Kidnapers, He Is So Fearful of Their Safety That He Has Procured a Police Guard for Them.

Mrs. Patrick, after the adverse court decision.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK. AGAIN the law has taken a hand in the affairs of the little Anness boys, Peyton Jr. and Edward—this time to give them special police protection following threats sent to their grandfather, Edward C. Anness, member of the New York Stock Exchange.

Last year the law was concerned with the custody of the brothers. There was a series of bitter legal fights over whether their youthful mother, Mrs. Harold Patrick, or their wealthy grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Anness, should have the children. The grandparents won at last, but the Judge who ruled that she must give up her sons admitted that the mother "loves them and does not abuse them." And there is a threat of further litigation in the fact that Mrs. Patrick has not become reconciled to the loss of her children. She continues to seek means of proving that they need her love more than they do the luxuries of their grandparents' Park avenue apartment.

The court squabble over the Anness boys, with its animosity and mudslinging, was a sorry sequel to the Cinderella romance to which the children owe their being. Their father was Peyton Randolph Anness, a Yale graduate, who married Helen Donovan, a Wall Street stenographer, in 1923. Apparently they lived quite happily in the main. The two children came—Peyton Jr. is now 8 years old and Edward is 6—and provided additional ties between the parents, who adored them.

The children were, it is true, the cause of one rather serious quarrel between their parents. It concerned religion. The father wanted them brought up in the Episcopal Church, the mother wanted them to be Catholics. The outcome was they were baptized as Protestants, and then the mother secretly had them re-baptized as Catholics.

In 1928 young Anness died, leaving his widow $400 a month. Helen and the children went to live with her husband's parents. She devoted much time to her sons, guarding their health and looking after their training and the beginnings of their education. The grandparents, too, were extremely fond of the youngsters.

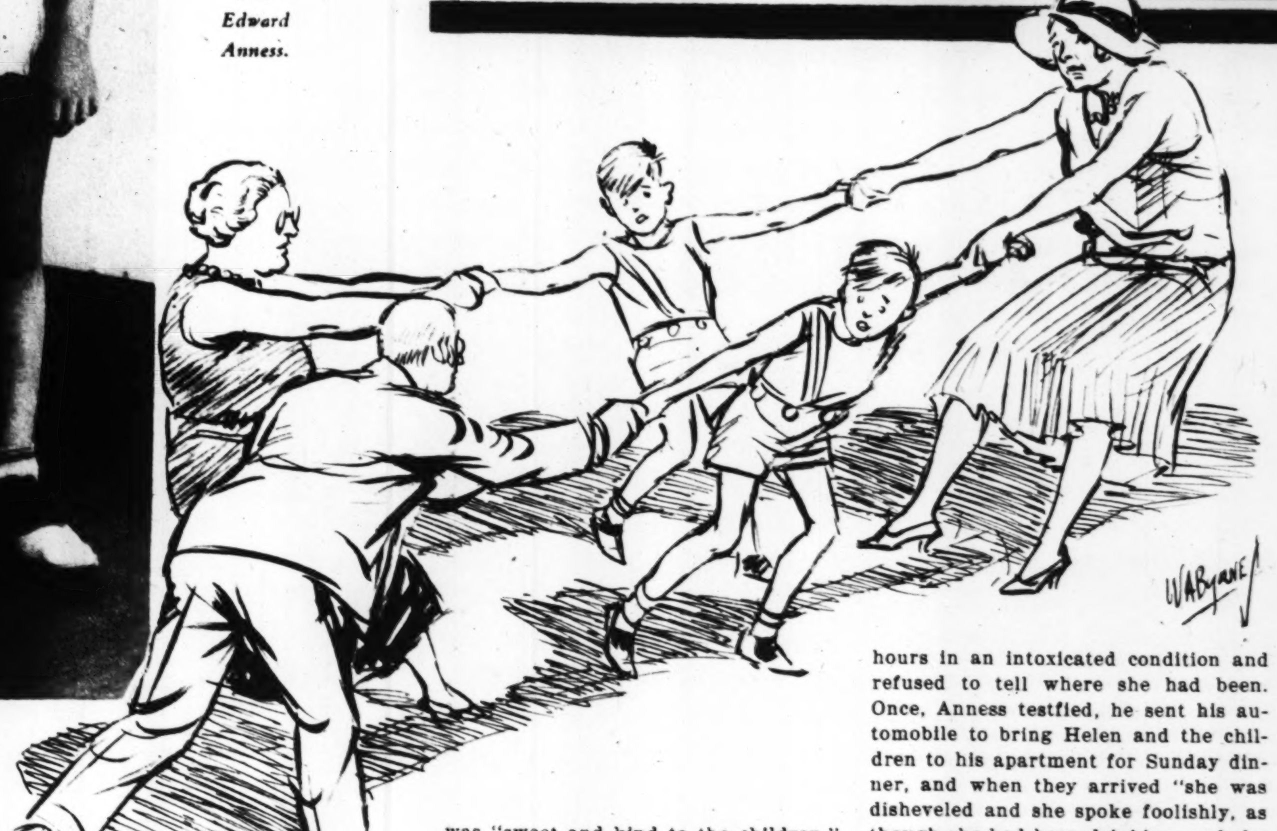
In the summer of 1930 Helen decided the boys should learn to swim, so she took them to the Milton Point Beach Club at Rye, New York, for instruction. Harold Patrick, captain of life guards there, gave the lessons. Before the course of instruction was completed, Patrick was paying more attention to the pretty brunette mother than he was to the children. And she had developed a good deal of interest in him. Presently she invited him to call. She had, by this time, moved into an apartment in Westchester to enable the children to spend much time outdoors, and here she received Life Guard Patrick. In September of that year the young widow married her sons' swimming instructor.

The Annesses strongly disapproved of this match—and of other things they had suspected or been told about their daughter-in-law's conduct. They determined the grandchildren must live with them.

MRS. PATRICK has said the Annesses offered her $1,000,000 to give up the boys to them. "I refused the offer," she related. "I wouldn't take $10,000,000 for one of those children's little fingers." So, of course, some of the newspapers dubbed the little Anness boys "the million-dollar babies."

Unable to induce Mrs. Patrick to relinquish the children to them, the Annesses went to court to win custody of the boys. They sought to prove that Mrs. Patrick was not a fit person to rear her children. They endeavored to show by affidavits that she drank too much and had love affairs with men; that Westchester police had been sent to the Patrick apartment to hush noisy parties; that Patrick had been convicted in 1921 on a charge of possessing narcotics and later had been arrested for a fight over a taxicab bill.

Mrs. Patrick denied the accusations, and made a few of her own against the Annesses and their alleged used of stimulants. She also asserted that her husband, the former life guard, had never used narcotics, and that his conviction in the drug case was due to bad company.



The grandparents applied to the Supreme Court at White Plains, New York, for permission to drop their habeas corpus suit, but Mrs. Patrick opposed the motion; she wanted the matter settled. Judge Graham Witschief decided to continue the case to a conclusion.

There followed an array of testimony as to the behavior of Mrs. Patrick and her husband.

Anthony Spiner, a taxicab driver of New Rochelle, told of driving the newly-married Patricks from one speakeasy to another. He said he took them home from the railroad station one night when they were drunk, helped them into their apartment and heard the children crying that they were hungry. He said while he was hunting for food for them he heard a scream and found Patrick choking his wife. He had to hit the life guard several times, he testified, to make him release his hold.

Adam Litker, a doorman at the apartment building in which the Patricks lived, testified to seeing Mrs. Patrick leaving her apartment with her face bleeding, crying her husband had beaten her.

Margaret Rich, who had been a maid-governess in the Patrick home, told of a number of things that didn't look just right to her. She said a New Yorker named Butler stayed over night in the apartment several times, although there was no spare room, and that Mrs. Patrick went to his apartment in New York and phoned her home about dawn to say, "I'm too drunk to come home." She said another visitor left his clothes in the dining room, and another forgot his hat, and that still another was a man with a glass eye. She also asserted she saw Mrs. Patrick cuddling the manager of a chain grocery store. But the maid declared that Mrs. Patrick was "sweet and kind to the children."

The grandparents themselves took the witness stand to relate that about a month after her first husband's death, Helen was so drunk she couldn't lift a cup of coffee to her lips. The Court was told that on another occasion she was picked up unconscious on the steps of the yacht club at Newton, Connecticut.

All these allegations reflecting on her character Mrs. Patrick denied emphatically and in detail. But the Judge decided in favor of the grandparents. Anticipating such a decision, Mrs. Patrick and her husband had moved with the children to Margate, New Jersey, a shore resort near Atlantic City. The order to turn the children over to their grandparents was not served.

BUT the mother was so fearful that efforts would be made to take the boys from her that she placed them in the special care of Chief of Police Charles E. Miller of Margate.

When the Annesses discovered where their grandsons were they tried to get them by applying to Vice Chancellor Edmund R. Leaming of Camden, New Jersey, for a writ of habeas corpus. The writ was denied. Then they filed suit in New Jersey for custody of the children, and Mrs. Patrick won the case. It seemed she had firm possession of her own children in New Jersey. Vice Chancellor Leaming suggested, however, that she get matters adjusted in New York also—that she enter a motion at a special term of the Westchester Supreme Court to set aside the judgment ordering her sons placed in their grandparents' custody.

Before she had acted on this suggestion, Mrs. Patrick was arrested on a writ issued at the instance of the Annesses, who feared she would move into another state. The outcome was that she returned to Westchester, and the court fight for custody of the two boys was renewed before the same Judge who had heard the original suit.

The old charges were dragged into court, along with a few new ones. The old witnesses and some new ones, too, were heard. The Annesses said the boys' mother had come home at all hours in an intoxicated condition and refused to tell where she had been. Once, Anness testfied, he sent his automobile to bring Helen and the children to his apartment for Sunday dinner, and when they arrived "she was disheveled and she spoke foolishly, as though she had been drinking, and she raised her skirts very high."

Patrolman Lawrence E. Jensen testified that, because of the complaints of neighbors, he went to the Patrick apartment to quiet a party. He said he found Mrs. Patrick drunk and her lip bleeding. "The children came running out and crying. Patrick told her to get back and said he had an arm that was aching to sock her. I stopped him from hitting her. Then she slipped on the rug and fell on top of the children. He slammed the door."

When the time came for Mrs. Patrick to present her side of the case she had a few unpleasant accusations to make, herself. She related that one time her father-in-law, the elderly and dignified Mr. Anness, "was so intoxicated he was unable to get up off the floor, and the butler had to put him to bed." And Mrs. Anness, the witness said, "kept a bottle of morphine and other drugs on her dressing table. I have always prevented the children from entering the grandmother's bedroom, for fear they might get some drugs or something." She also declared that Anness had a habit of sniffing at a charm, containing a phial, at the end of his watch chain, adding that before doing it he was drowsy and irritable, but afterward was in good spirits.

Mrs. Patrick denied that either she or her husband was a narcotic addict. Patrick testified that when he went to jail in 1921 he was "a Government agent assigned to go to jail for evidence."

In announcing his decision, Justice Witschief said: "The controlling principle in these cases involving the custody of children is the welfare of the children. The welfare of the child is superior to the claim of the parent to its custody. But the right of the surviving parent to these children is paramount to that of all other persons."

He said it was the Court's opinion that the mother loved her childen—but not enough. He believed she had never abused them physically, but "the whole trouble is that their (the Patricks) love of pleasure is greater than their love for the children."

So the Judge ruled that the two boys must be turned over to their grandparents.

Mrs. Patrick collapsed as a court attendant sought to take the sturdy, well-dressed little fellows from her. He didn't have an easy job. The boys kicked, screamed and sobbed when they learned they were to be taken from their mother. They continued to kick and scream as they were taken through the corridors and down elevators to be placed in their grandparents' shining limousine. The mother had to be carried from the courtroom.

The Annesses were elated by their victory.

Grandfather Anness said: "Before I filed suit last year to gain custody of them, the grandchildren spent much of their time at my home. We expect to engage a governess and tutor and send the boys to a private school. I want them to go through St. Paul's Preparatory School at Concord, where their father went, and then I want them to go to Yale, as he did."

When Mrs. Patrick was able to talk coherently, she said:

"I KNOW I will get the children back. Mr. and Mrs. Anness were disappointed when their son married a stenographer. I am sure they thought he would marry wealth. The charges against my morality are ridiculous. It is true I have given parties, and perhaps the radio played louder than it should have, but that's not immoral.

"I want my children to grow up in an atmosphere of laughter. I think laughter is better for them than medicine, and I'm afraid they won't get much of it in the solemn household of their grandparents. The children got the best of care and training with me."

The unhappy mother wasn't willing to accept the decision of the trial court as final. She appealed the case, and asked for the privilege of keeping her sons until the appeal was decided. Her plea was denied, as was also an application by the grandparents for permission to take the children "across the George Washington Bridge to New Jersey, so that they might see the sky line of New York."

While waiting for the ruling of the Appellate Court, Mrs. Patrick would sit for hours in front of the apartment house where the Annesses lived to catch a glimpse of her children when they came out with a nurse. When their appearance satisfied her that they were happy in their new home she would drive away, crying.

The Appellate Division handed down its opinion. It upheld the decision of the lower court.

But the mother has not entirely abandoned hope. She keeps thinking that some day she will, somehow, be able to prove that she has a right to rear and cherish her own sons.

Not long ago came the threat that the grandparents, as well as the mother, might lose young Peyton and Edward Anness. Mysterious letters received by Anness hinted that the boys would be kidnaped, or he himself would be "taken for a ride," if he didn't give up $100,000. Anness reported the matter to police authorities, and at his request a special guard was assigned to protect the boys.

Revoir Handicap for two-year-olds will be run next Saturday, Professor. Saturday is the sixth day of the week and the sixth day of the month. The race is number six in the condition book, and of the 32 horses nominated for the race, all have been declared out but six. Simple Simon has number six post position—and last night the stable cat had six black kittens in his box."

"He cannot lose," Professor Cheever declared earnestly. "Here we have a continuous progression of his positive symbol of vibratory influence, the figure 6, as charted and coded by me."

Marge, recalling the colt's inclination to loaf at an inopportune time, and to sulk and quit if whipped, said: "Suppose he only makes a place—that is, comes in second?"

"IMPOSSIBLE, I assure you, Mrs. Concannon; but even if, by some unforeseen influence he should, he will still pay to 1. To demonstrate my confidence in my powers of numerical divination, I wish to hand you now $100, which I desire you now to bet for me on your horse. Following six successful demonstrations, I shall expect an equitable division of all moneys received by you and your husband from winning bets. To tell the truth," he added a bit wistfully, "I grow weary of being a professor of ancient languages, and would like to travel a bit and see the world."

On Friday evening Mr. Concannon discovered that Simple Simon had struck his off knee against the wall of his box and bruised it slightly. So at dinner he announced his intention of scratching the horse in the handicap, fearing the race might work serious injury to Simple Simon's slightly injured knee.

"I have the bank roll," Marge declared, "and if you scratch him I'll run away with it. I'll leave you. I'll never speak to you again, you 'fraid cat!"

"Well, I'll not scratch him if you'll be contented with winning the purse. It's $5000 added. Can't take chances with our money on that knee."

When Simple Simon went to the post, his knee was still noticeably swollen, though he favored the leg to an extent scarcely noticeable. He broke on top and raced six lengths in front of his field to the half-mile pole; then, finding himself without competition, he started to loaf until the favorite ranged in beside him, when he speeded up and kept half a length ahead until about a sixteenth from the wire, when the favorite spurted and gained half a length on him. Whereupon Simple Simon pinned back his ears, swished his tail angrily and in two leaps had regained his position. He finished in front by a length and clipped two-fifths of a second off the track record. He paid 10 to 1 to win and 6 to 1 a place, and up in a friend's box, where she had been watching the race, Marge Concannon fainted.

WHEN Mr. Concannon came home that night he glared at his wife. "They tell me you fainted when the colt won," he charged. "That means the finish scared you sick. You had money on his nose—and I told you not to do that. How much did you bet?"

"Five thousand," Marge replied proudly. "I wired it to New York in order not to depress his price at the track."

"Sixty thousand bucks—and your money back!" Mr. Concannon murmured.

"And I'm going to give Professor Cheever a thousand," Marge announced generously. "He knew what he was talking about. He's the king of numerologists."

"So we're tied up with a new professor, are we? Marge, didn't I warn you off them birds?"

"Not off numerologists. I've dropped all the others. Professor O'Leary isn't reliable, but Professor Cheever—oh, darlin', he's wonderful!"

The following day when Concannon came home for luncheon, he showed Marge a telegram from a millionaire horse owner in New York offering him $100,000 for Simple Simon. "And I'm going to sell," he announced.

"Oh, yes? Well, in whose name is Simple Simon registered?"

"You're his owner, of course. I bought him for you and registered you as his owner just to compliment you"——

"I'll not sell him. Why, Professor Cheever says that if that horse is started under the right vibratory influences—pick his races for him, you understand—he'll win every race and make every post a winning post. Mala-

"I'll not sell him. Why, Professor Cheever says that if that horse is started under the right vibratory influences—pick his races for him, you understand—he'll win every race and make every post a winning post. Malachi, that colt will earn us $100,000 as a three-year-old. Why, he'll win the Agua Caliente Handicap, and that $100,000 guaranteed."

Mr. Concannon knew the argument was ended. The following day they shipped to Washington Park track, outside Chicago, and as his wife's accredited agent, he entered Simple Simon in a $5000 stake for two-year-olds at six furlongs. The colt's position was number six and the race was run on June 6, so Marge telegraphed Professor Cheever, who replied that all was well and to bet for him the $1000 she had informed him she had to his credit. Evidently the professor was a sport, for he desired his money bet "on the nose." He concluded his telegram with these words: "This is the day you really clean up."

On Friday, Marge wired, through her betting commissioner, bets to New York, Jersey City, Los Angeles and San Francisco. The consensus was that Simple Simon would make a place, so Marge decided she would get 2 to 1 to win in the books, and less than that if she accepted closing odds at the track.

At 9 o'clock on the day of the race the man who had offered $100,000 for the horse came to the barn and had a veterinary examine Simple Simon. When he was declared sound, the man made a new offer of $125,000, and Mr. Concannon telephoned his wife and begged her to sell.

"I'LL let you know by noon," she replied—and wired Professor Cheever for his best advice on the subject. At 11 o'clock a reply came from the professor stating that while the planetary influences for victory were excellent, there was such a thing as a certainty outside the realms of numerology, and that she should sell. Forthwith she sold, the new owner stipulating that the horse's winnings, if any that day, should belong to him.

When the deal had been closed and the check passed, Mr. Concannon said to his wife: "What have you got bet on him?"

"Ten thousand on his nose."

"In that event," Concannon replied, "I'll have to do something about this. The books in Chicago are laying 5 to 1 against him."

Marge screamed. "Why—why—I took 2 to 1 all over the country! I thought that a longer price than he'd pay at the track, and I was afraid to take closing odds."

"Well, give me $10,000 and I'll spread it in the Chicago books. They'll take it all. Does Professor Cheever say he'll win?"

"Absolutely. Oh, Malachi, what a fool I've been to take such low odds."

"Well, you have a chance to recover. The race won't be run until 3:15. Let's beat it to the bank and get more money to bet. I'll place it myself."

They did that and were back at the track and in their box just back of the finish line at 3:15 to watch the race. Simple Simon, as usual, was off first and raced the half four lengths in front of his field. Then he eased up, and the favorite challenged him until the turn into the stretch, when the favorite commenced to tire. Simple Simon commenced to loaf again, seemingly in a desire to accommodate his rival. But a black colt was coming up on the outside now—coming fast. The favorite made a spurt and drew on even terms with Simple Simon, only to fall back immediately; and while the complacent Simon, who wouldn't stand for the whip, galloped on, that black horse went by him in the last 50 yards. Simple Simon leaped forward to meet the challenge and although he had a world of speed left in him, the black horse outgamed him and won by a nose.

Seemingly the catastrophe had no disconcerting effect on Malachi Concannon. Marge's short upper lip commenced to tremble. The tears came, and she left them flow unashamed, while Mr. Concannon watched her sardonically. Presently he said:

"I don't mind losing our money, Marge, but it's awful to have lost the professor's money."

"I wish I'd never seen him," Marge sobbed.

"I don't. The professor isn't a bad old egg, if he is dotty on numbers. He advised you to sell that swindle Simple Simon, didn't he? Just for that, I insist you shall send him a check for $2000."

"But think of our own terrible losses"——

"WE HAVEN'T any terrible losses. The minute I saddled Simple Simon in the paddock today and boosted the boy aboard him, all my interest in him ceased. He was no longer your horse. Dark Michael won the race. Well, I've been watching that colt in his morning workouts for the past three months. I knew Dark Michael would be rated nicely and wait until Simple Simon came back to him. Nobody but his trainer and I gave Dark Michael a chance, but I knew the horse was good, that he's a great stretch runner and would catch that fool Simon napping. Which is what he did, although he wouldn't have done it if I had been interested in making Simple Simon win.

"His new owner and the new trainer gave the boy his orders, so for the first time since Simple Simon ran his first race, I've watched him from the grandstand. If we hadn't sold him, I'd have been standing close to the rail a sixteenth from home, and as Simon galloped by all set to be rushed by the contender, I'd have let him have a BB shot from an air pistol on a spot where it would do the most good. Remember how he pinned his ears and swished his tail the day he won the Au Revoir Handicap at Tanforan? Well, I shot him with a BB as he fled along the rail in front of me that day—and how did he run!"

"Malachi Concannon, do you mean to say that Simple Simon just lost me $10,000 because—you—you didn't stimulate him with the air pistol?"

"I do mean just that. Why should I stimulate another man's horse when I had $10,000 bet on Dark Michael at 5 to 1? I've saved your bets twice for you, Marge. . . Well, we've cleaned up $40,000 net on this race—$50,000 on Dark Michael, less the $10,000 you lost on Simple Simon—and we'll send the professor $2000"——

"The idea! We'll do nothing of the sort. Why, he's the worst numerologist I've ever met."

Mr. Concannon's hand stole over and closed on his wife's. "Poor Marge," he breathed tenderly. "You've been imposed on, haven't you? Just the same, you'll send Professor Cheever $2000. I promised him $2000, darling, if he'd wire you to sell Simple Simon. A hundred and twenty-five grand is a horrible price for an equine worry."

"You've made a fool of me!" Marge moaned.

"You always were that—and I'm still in love with you." He beamed down on her.

"You had a hunch to play Dark Michael," she charged. "And you fibbed about the price on Simple Simon."

"I'M NOT superstitious, but—I did. I'd an uncle once that was called Dark Michael. He was a big, rawboned devil like that horse, with a nose something like his, so I wired Professor O'Leary for a tip on the race, and he doped out Michael for me, which confirmed my own suspicions. O'Leary's not at all a bad handicapper. He used to exercise horses for me before I met you, Margie; in fact, his job was clockin' horses in the early mornin' when we were at Tanforan Park Crystal-gazin' was his afternoon job; sellin' in the afternoon the secrets his stop watch told him in the mornin' made him as high as $10 a day, he told me."

"Malachi Concannon," Marge almost shrilled, "will you shut up?"

"I will," Mr. Concannon replied mildly. "Indeed, I'm such a great hand at mindin' my own business I'm surprised at myself for sayin' a word!"

A College of Scientific Fishing

BRADENTON, Fla.

A COLLEGE devoted to turning out expert fishermen has been established in this community by Dr. C. H. Bryan, a retired physician of Chicago. It is the first and only institution of its kind, as far as is known, and though it came into being quite casually, it is now taken with great seriousness by everyone connected with it. It gives a diploma to every one who completes the course to the satisfaction of Dr. Bryan.

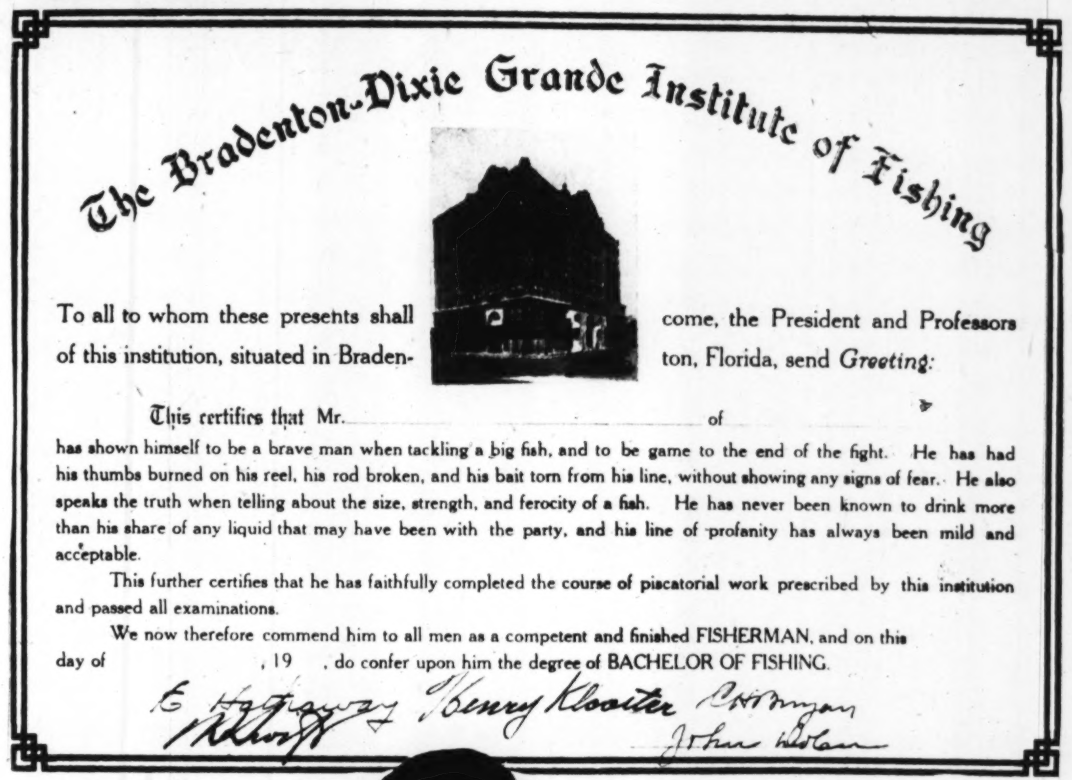
Now that the Bradenton-Dixie Grande Institute of Fishing is a going concern with hundreds of alumni casting their lines in Southern waters, Dr. Bryan wonders why fishing instruction has not been put on a formal basis a long time before this. As it stands, he declares, there are so many unskilled fishermen in the world that the whole sport gets a black eye from the fact that unskilled anglers get disgusted and quit without ever having experienced the pastime's real joy.

Dr. Bryan gave up a successful practice several years ago but immediately decided that his retirement from one kind of professional activity would not mean a cessation of active living so much as a change of activities. He accordingly went to Florida and traveled over most of the state in search of a place to do scientific fishing. He finally found it near Bradenton. This fishing ground covered over a hundred square miles. It is shallow salt water, three to ten feet deep, with good weed beds and wide open passes through the keys to the Gulf of Mexico. It has variegated shores with protection from high winds and storms, and the town of Bradenton has always been something of a fishing center, with good fishing tackle stores, hotels and boarding houses suitable to the entertainment of guests.

EVEN so, most of those who came here to fish were obviously dubs in Dr. Bryan's opinion, with no knowledge of the true inwardness of their art and no sense of the gratification that could be derived from properly landing a fish.

Dr. Bryan was so pained by the sight of such ineptitude that he began to take a few of them in hand. In a little time he was surrounded by a coterie of faithful disciples and thus the Bradenton-Dixie Grand Institute was started.

Dr. Bryan says that his college is not a profit-making enterprise and all that he is interested in is preserving the true canons of the sport and showing neophytes how the greatest possible pleasure can be derived from it. Incidentally, he feels that the fishing temperament is as necessary as a proper manual skill and the diploma issued at the conclusion of the course lays much stress on the recipient's lack of fear at having a rod torn out of his hand, on his good temper and on his relative sobriety. Dr. Bryan feels a fisherman should not drink more than his share—though his share, one imagines, is reasonably liberal.



The Bradenton-Dixie Grande Institute of Fishing

To all to whom these presents shall come, the President and Professors of this institution, situated in Bradenton, Florida, send Greeting:

This certifies that Mr. ______________ of ______________ has shown himself to be a brave man when tackling a big fish, and to be game to the end of the fight. He has had his thumbs burned on his reel, his rod broken, and his bait torn from his line, without showing any signs of fear. He also speaks the truth when telling about the size, strength, and ferocity of a fish. He has never been known to drink more than his share of any liquid that may have been with the party, and his line of profanity has always been mild and acceptable.

This further certifies that he has faithfully completed the course of piscatorial work prescribed by this institution and passed all examinations.

We now therefore commend him to all men as a competent and finished FISHERMAN, and on this day of ______________, 19 , do confer upon him the degree of BACHELOR OF FISHING.

E Hathaway Henry Klooster C H Bryan John Nolan

THE CITY ART MUSEUM will not exhibit in the "masterpiece alcove" this week as decoration work is being done in this room where the display at other times is held. The weekly exhibition will be resumed next Sunday.

He has lunch on the train. At 1:30 he is deep in a discussion with his chief engineers. This lasts for three and a half hours, with interruptions from the long distance telephone. By five o'clock he is on the train for Chicago, accompanied by two South Bend executives. They finish their discussion on the train, arriving at the "Potter Palmer mansion" in time for an impromptu dinner party. At one o'clock the party is still in progress but Bendix retires for a final session with the masseur.

Although he has only seen it twice, once in an early stage, again at dedication, Bendix is pleased as a child over the lama temple.

"Why this is an educational exhibit," he told the writer during the course of a few minutes' conversation just prior to the dedication of the temple. "This is going to be authentic, you know. everything down to the finest details. They're bringing 23,000 copper shingles from China and they're going to cover them with real gold. So that the whole thing will shine in the sun. Gold leaf. three-ply gold leaf applied to the shingles."

The dedication was in the Chicago tradition.

On the previous day it had been arranged by publicity directors of the fair that Dr. Koliang Yih, Chinese Consul, should come and bring with him some pretty Chinese girls. They would throw rice. It sounded very Chinese.

"Now move over a little bit," the photographers shouted at Bendix. "Throw your rice now, girls."

"I look like the laughing Buddha," said Bendix, humorously, when they made him pose sitting on the edge of the concrete foundation.

WITH him was little Jennie Yih, daughter of the consul. "This is my first Chinese sweetheart," said Bendix, "how about you and I going to Hollywood, Jennie?" "No, I would never go without my mother and father," said Jennie, looking at him out of her bland eyes. The girls on the terrace above threw their rice, the cameras clicked.

"Just one more, Mr. Bendix," said the photographers. "Say boys," he protested, "I've got to make a train." And make a train at last he did, with his secretary and his architect both hurrying his departure. The detective, the man who has watched over him for 14 years, sprang into the seat beside the chauffeur and the car whizzed away. A lama temple had been dedicated.

$100,000 Spent
To Perfect This Perfumed Mist
. . . The Ideal Way to Kill All
Flies and Mosquitoes

Fly-Tox was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. Ten years have been spent in perfecting it, and more than $100,000.

It is based on extracts from flowers of Japan, which insects cannot tolerate. An extract pleasant in odor, harmless to people, stainless to anything. But every fly or mosquito perishes quickly at a touch of the mist it creates.

These pests are your deadly enemies. They carry disease germs to infect every food they touch. Their every bite is poison. Over 30 diseases are carried in this way. Many thousands of children, every year, die from their contaminations.

Fly-Tox, used rightly, kills all these pests at once. The way is easy and pleasant, the results are sure, the cost 1 or 2 cents per room.

This new Fly-Tox—based on flowers—is many times as effective as methods of the past. Every lot is tested on flies in our laboratory to insure its quick effects.

FLY-TOX ONLY
A Rex Research Product

Use Fly-Tox only, and always in the new-type Fly-Tox sprayer. Spray to the ceiling, to create in your room a cloud of all-pervading mist. As this mist falls, every fly or mosquito dies at its touch. Yet no harm to people, no offense, no stains. Accept nothing less effective when the safety of your home is at stake. Sold in a million stores the world over. Get Fly-Tox now. # TOY TALKIES by

Walter Quermann

HIDDEN TREASURE

This is a game that can be played by any child. All that is needed are scissors, paste and some cardboard. The directions for playing "Toy Talkies" are given at the bottom of the game.

THE PLAYERS

TRIXIE—Her Uncle Tabbie told her to search for the hidden family jewels.
JOHNNIE MOUSE—An American vagabond, but a friend of Trixie.
ROBBER RAT—A villainous fellow.
SPIKE AND TUFFIE—Robber Rat's henchmen.

THE PLAY BEGINS

(Robber Rat, Spike and Tuffie enter.)

SPIKE—What did you bring us here for, chief?

ROBBER RAT—It's a long story. Before the war I was the butler for the Tabbies, who own this chateau. They had a lot of jewels worth barrels of money. When the war came they hid their jewels somewhere in this place and went to Paris.

TUFFIE—Why didn't you say this was to be a treasure hunt? We would have brought shovels instead of guns.

ROBBER RAT—Not so fast, Tuffie. Old man Tabbie told his niece where he hid those jewels, so she and an American are coming here tonight to get them.

SPIKE—I see. And after they get them, we get them.

ROBBER RAT—That's right. Be sure they don't see us until they have the jewels. Sh-h-h. Here they come—let's hide. (They leave and Johnnie Mouse is heard to say: "Gosh, what a spooky place." And Trixie replies: "I'm afraid; let's wait until morning." They enter.)

JOHNNIE MOUSE—Pshaw, there is nothing to be afraid of.

TRIXIE—You're the bravest man in the world.

JOHNNIE MOUSE—Ha-ha. Now to find the cellar. These look like stairs over here.

TRIXIE—Ugh! This place gives me the creeps. (They leave. Johnnie Mouse is heard to say: "We're in luck. These stairs do lead to the cellar. Now watch your step, Trixie.")

(Robber Rat, Spike and Tuffie enter. They are silent for a moment, then:)

ROBBER RAT—(Whispering.) Sh-h-h. Let's hide; they are coming back. (They leave and Johnnie Mouse is heard to say: "There, that wasn't so bad, was it?" They enter, Trixie carrying the Tabbie jewels.)

TRIXIE—Oh, I left my purse down there. Our railroad tickets to Paris are in it.

JOHNNIE MOUSE—You wait here. I'll get it.

TRIXIE—Please don't go. I'm afraid.

JOHNNIE MOUSE—Ha-ha. I won't be gone a minute. (He leaves and Robber Rat, Spike and Tuffie enter.)

TRIXIE—Oh!

ROBBER RAT—(In a hushed voice.) Don't make a sound. If you do and that American comes, we'll shoot him. Come with us. (They all leave and a moment later Johnnie Mouse enters.)

JOHNNIE MOUSE—Where is Trixie? Maybe she went outside. (He leaves and we hear him call, "Trixie, Trixie." Then he enters.)

JOHNNIE MOUSE — (Alarmed.) Trixie, Trixie! (He leaves, still calling "Trixie, Trixie!" At last he slowly enters.)

JOHNNIE MOUSE—She's gone! I'm going to hunt for her and I'll never rest until I find her! (He leaves, and we hear him calling "Trixie! Trixie!" until his voice can be but faintly heard in the distance.)

CURTAIN

DIRECTIONS: Cut out back-drop and pin it on a wall near the floor. Next, take two books and stand them at each end and about 5 inches in front of back-drop. Then take characters, cut them out, and paste them on thin cardboard, folding flap at bottom so they will lean back a little. Attach a piece of thread about 15 inches long. Place the characters back of the book on the right-hand side of the stage and draw them on the stage with thread as they are needed. The operator may talk for the characters, changing his or her voice as different characters go on the stage, or each character's part may be spoken by a different child. A flashlight can be used as a spotlight.

MUNY OPERA DRESSOGRAPHS

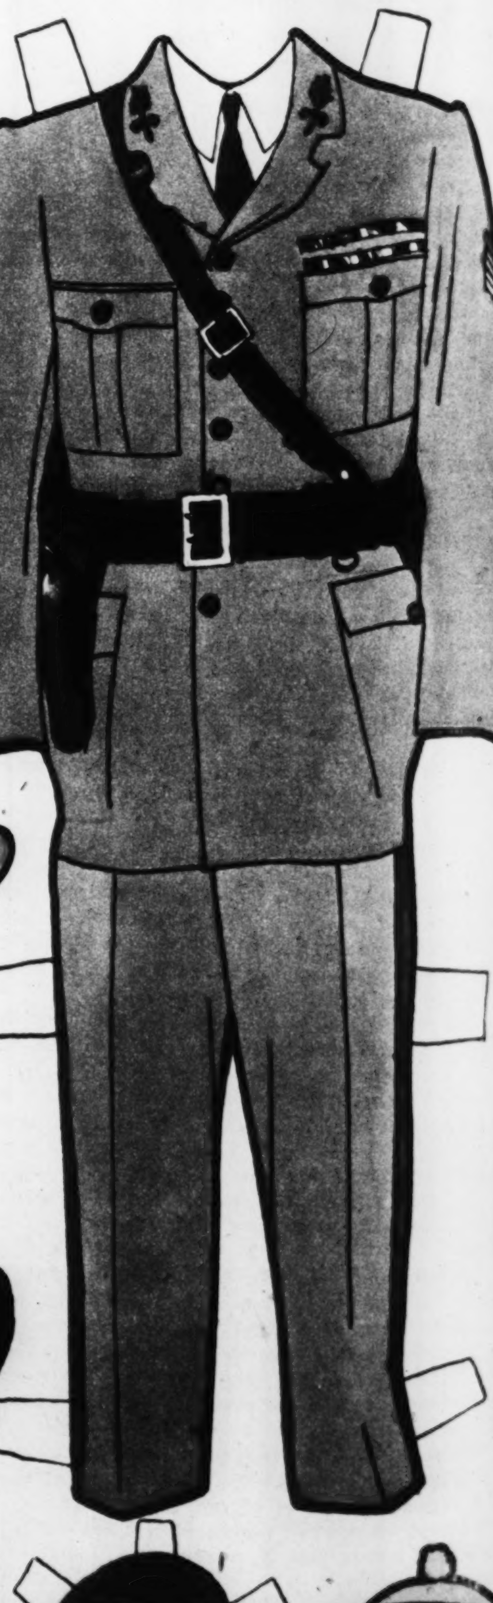
CUT SLOT ON DOTTED LINE



Clifford Newdahl

CLIFFORD NEWDAHL, today's selection among the Muny Opera stars who will appear in this space each week during the Forest Park theatre's season, was born in Lamberton, Minn., in 1901. When a child his family moved to the State of Washington, where he later attended the State university. After his graduation he studied music in New York and then returned to Washington as professor of music at Bellingham State Normal School. Then he went East again and sang leading tenor roles with the American Grand Opera Company. His first venture in lighter music was in "Three Little Girls" and he followed this with an appearance in "Blossom Time."

Accompanying Mr. Newdahl are three costumes he wears in Muny Opera plays. Cut out the star and paste on cardboard. Then cut out the costumes and dress him in his proper outfits.

The three costumes shown here are worn by the star in these roles in the following Muny Opera shows: 1—Franz Schubert in "Blossom Time;" 2—Captain Paul Fontaine in "Desert Song;" 3—Prince Chu Chang in "The Land of Smiles."

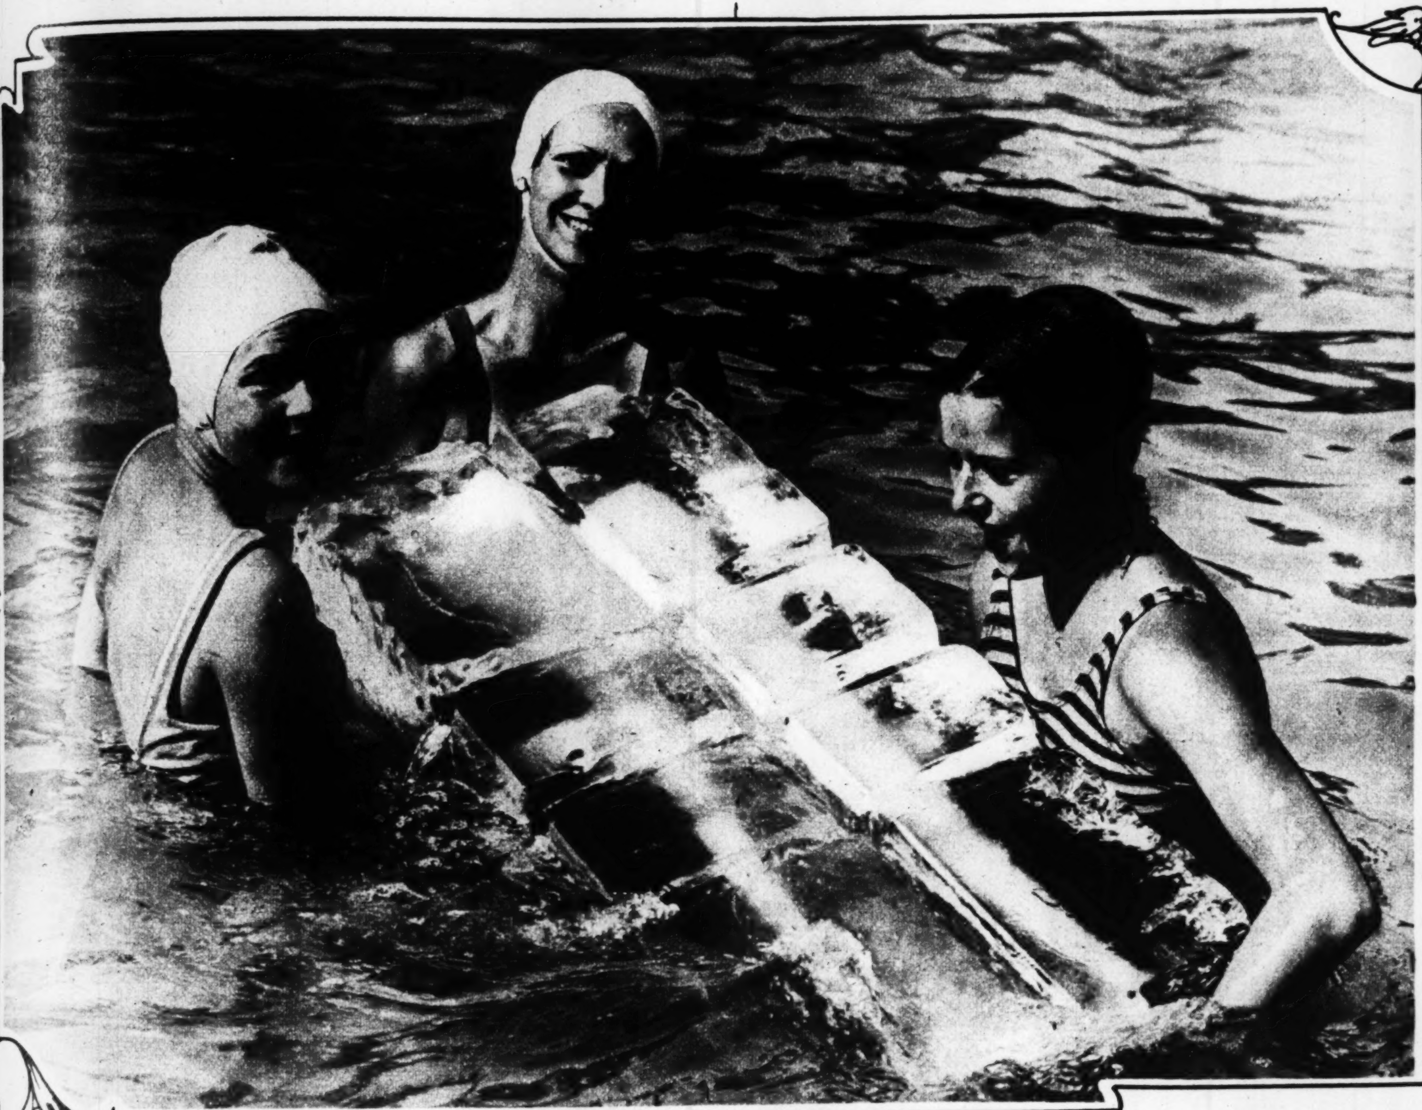
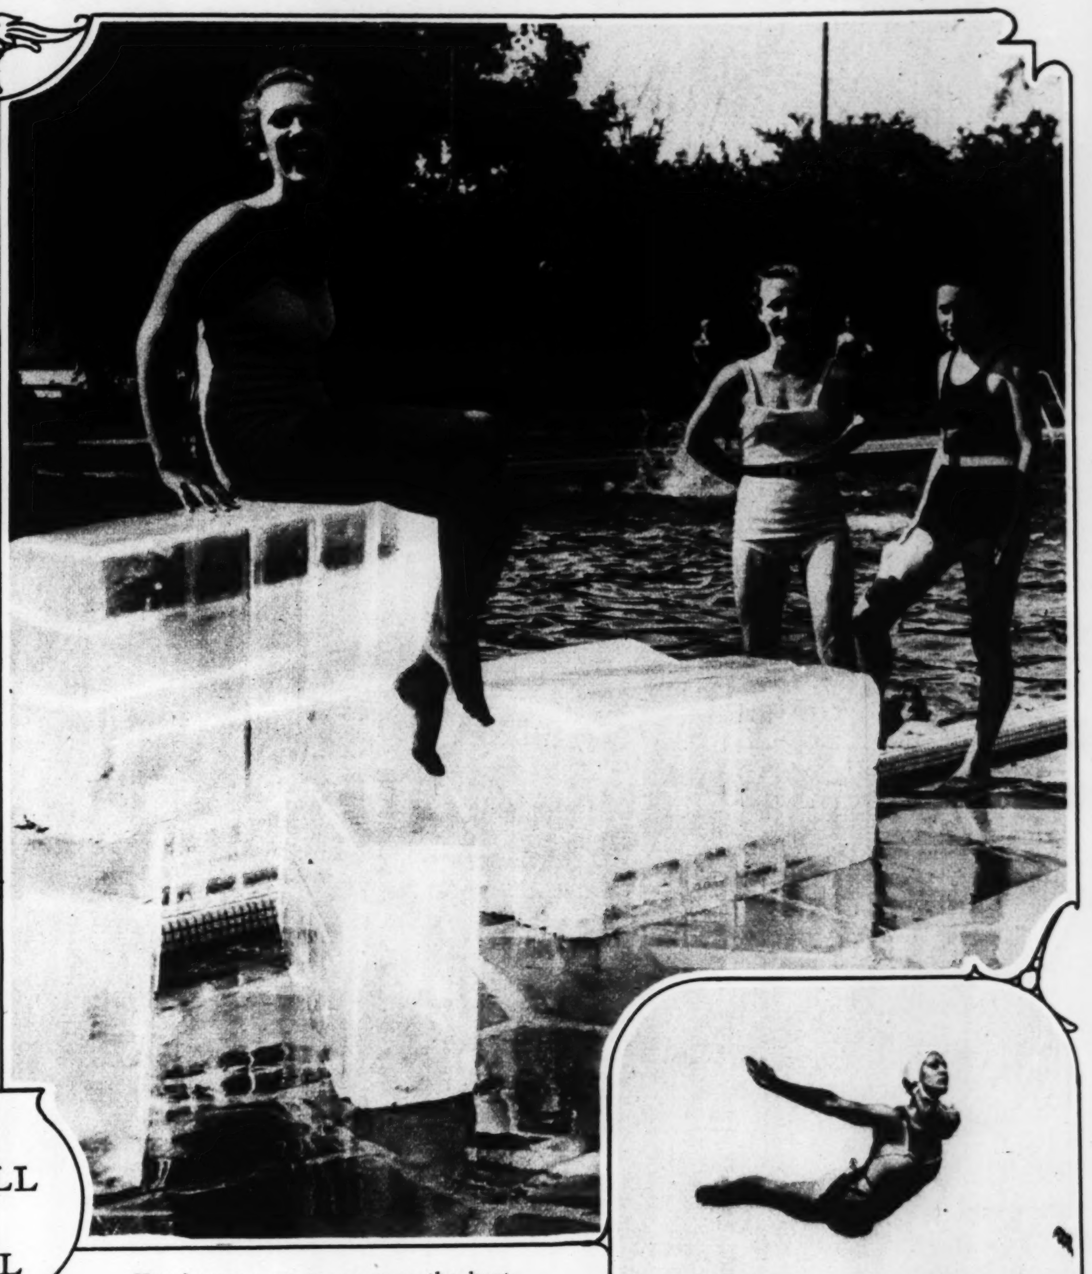
GETTING AN ARCTIC CHILL IN THE SWIMMING POOL



Snapshot made at the Westborough Country Club, St. Louis County, by a Post-Dispatch staff photographer, just after the arrival of huge cakes of ice to lower the water's temperature.



Here's one way to conquer the heat.

Looking pleasant at a perspiring camera man.

Good enough for the Olympics, anyone will agree.

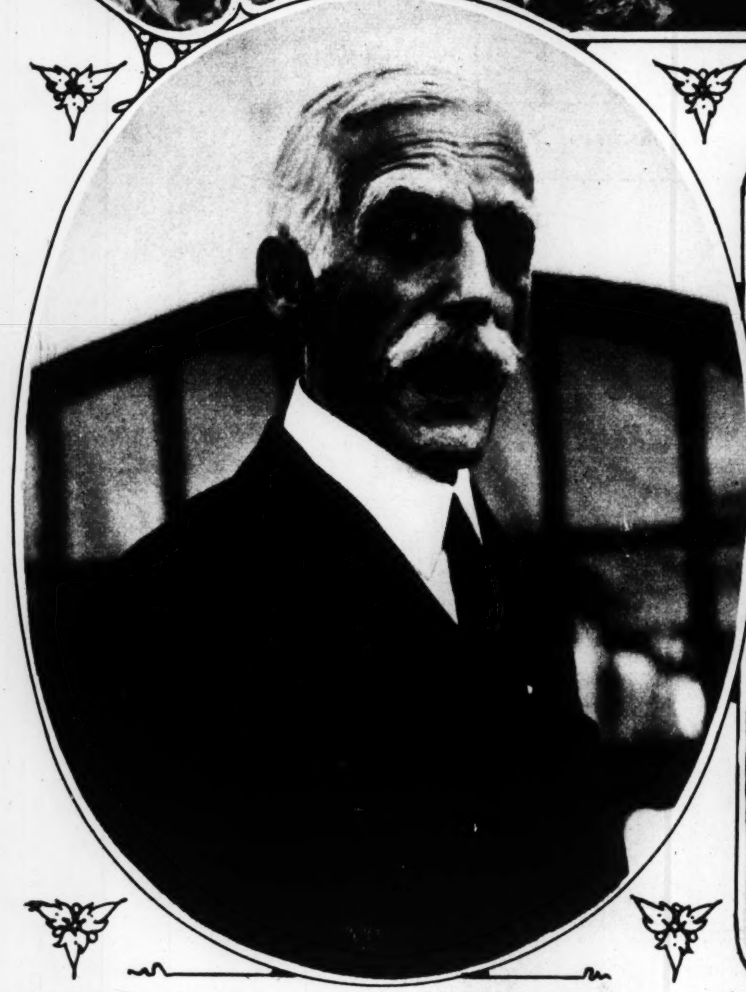
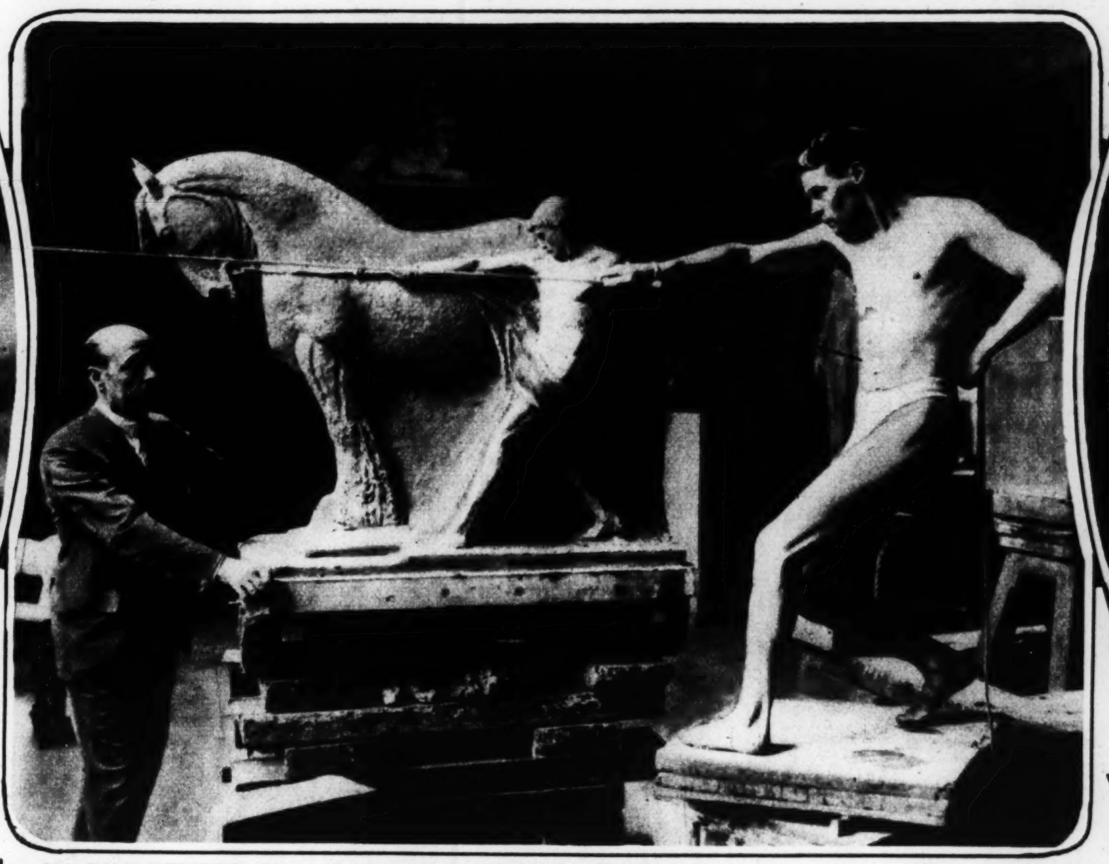
A THRIFT GARDEN IN THE CITY OF ST. LOUIS—225 vegetable plots, at Magnolia and Tower Grove avenues, tilled by family groups in the neighborhood. The use of this ground was made possible by Julius A. Baer, who also established a similar thrift garden in another section of the city.

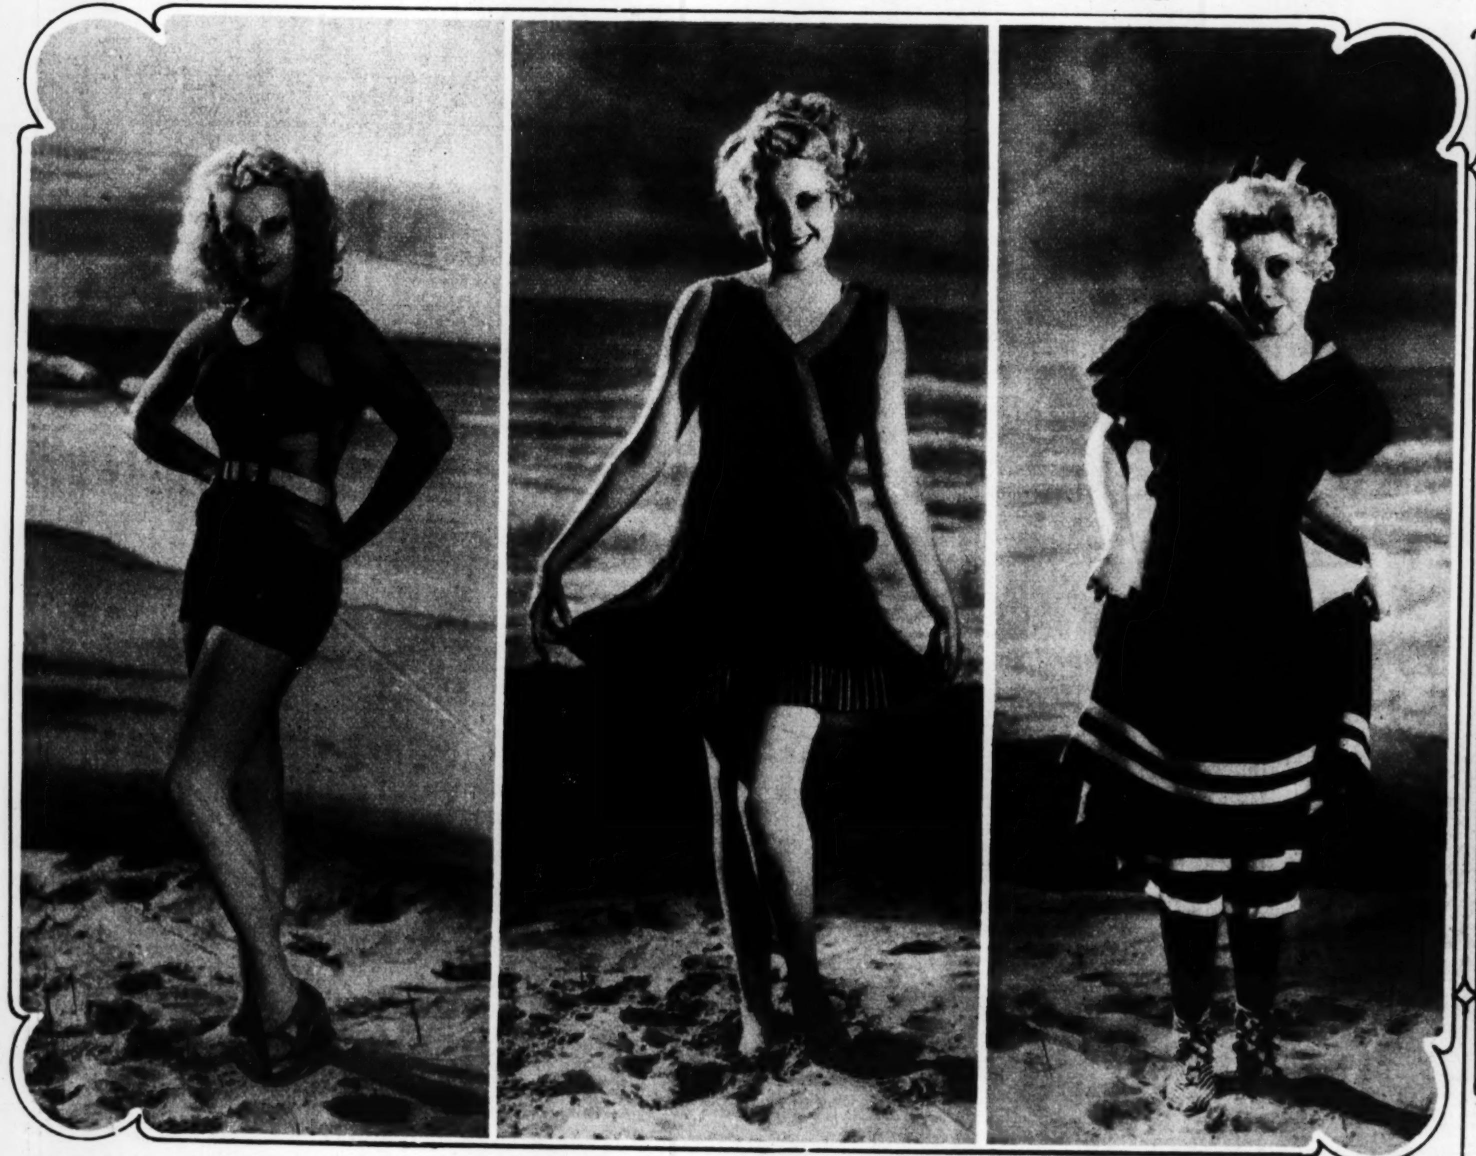


MR. MELLON BACK FROM LONDON—Snapshot of the American Ambassador to England as he arrived home for a brief vacation.

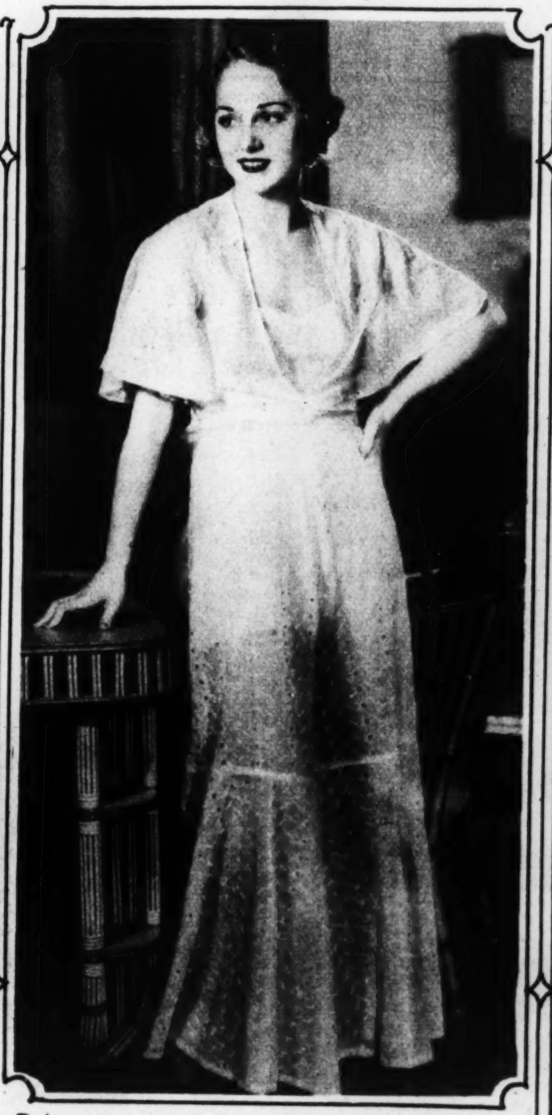


IN THE STUDIO OF A FAMOUS SCULPTOR—M. Reid Dick of London putting the finishing touches upon an unusual group which later will be placed on the Thames Embankment. This symbolizes "Controlled Energy."

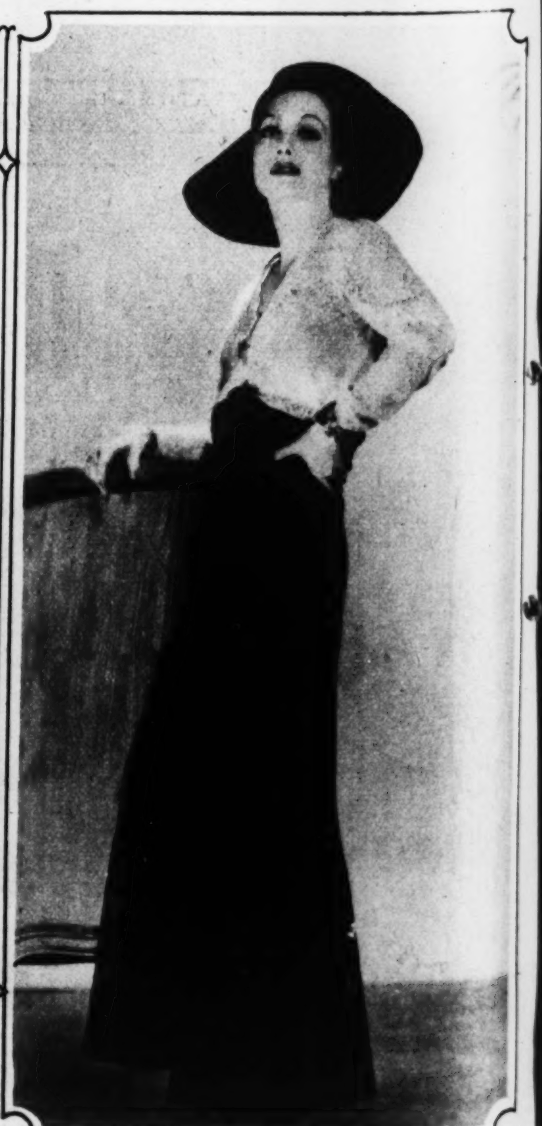
MAXIM GORKY, famous Russian writer, watching a parade of workers in Moscow.



CELLOPHANE NEXT, MAYBE—Three photographs of Joan Marsh, movie star, posing to illustrate the evolution of the bathing suit in 30 years.



Pajama costume of pink eyelet embroidery, fashioned with a bib and shoulder strap arrangement above the trousers. A smart capelet sets off the suit, tying at the waistline with a bow in the back. It is worn by Leila Hyams, screen star.



Joan Crawford of the films attired in a new high waistline costume. With the black silk skirt there is a blouse of lace.

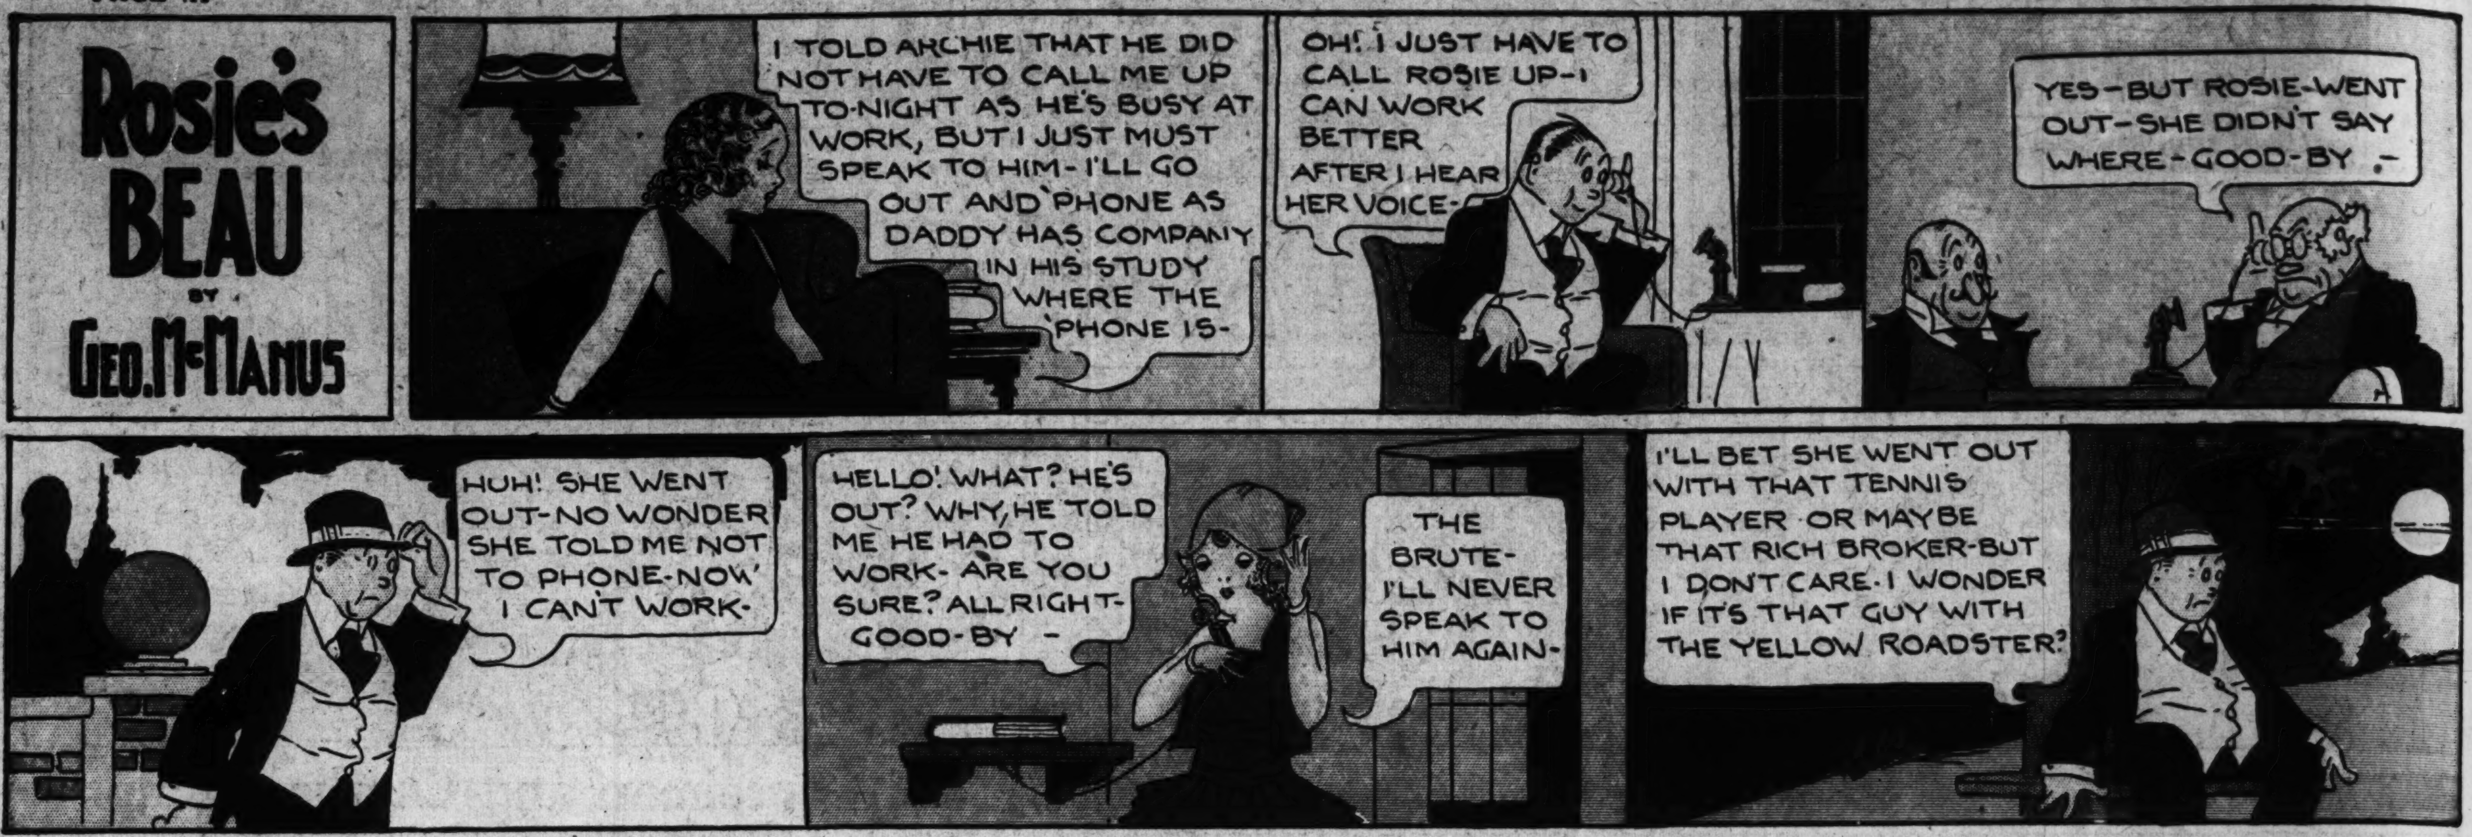
YES, PROFESSOR, AND ON THE WAY HOME WE HAD EVERY REASON IN THE WORLD TO AGREE WITH WHAT YOU SAID: A MAN'S BEST FRIENDS ARE HIS DOGS!



Rosie's BEAU BY GEO. McMANUS
I TOLD ARCHIE THAT HE DID NOT HAVE TO CALL ME UP TO-NIGHT AS HE'S BUSY AT WORK, BUT I JUST MUST SPEAK TO HIM - I'LL GO OUT AND 'PHONE AS DADDY HAS COMPANY IN HIS STUDY WHERE THE 'PHONE IS-
OH! I JUST HAVE TO CALL ROSIE UP - I CAN WORK BETTER AFTER I HEAR HER VOICE-YES - BUT ROSIE - WENT OUT - SHE DIDN'T SAY WHERE - GOOD-BY - HUH! SHE WENT OUT - NO WONDER SHE TOLD ME NOT TO PHONE - NOW I CAN'T WORK-
HELLO! WHAT? HE'S OUT? WHY, HE TOLD ME HE HAD TO WORK - ARE YOU SURE? ALL RIGHT - GOOD-BY - THE BRUTE - I'LL NEVER SPEAK TO HIM AGAIN-I'LL BET SHE WENT OUT WITH THAT TENNIS PLAYER OR MAYBE THAT RICH BROKER - BUT I DON'T CARE - I WONDER IF IT'S THAT GUY WITH THE YELLOW ROADSTER?

YESSIR, IT'S SURE GOT ME WORRIED WHAT?
THE NEIGHBORS. I BEEN TRYIN' TO THINK UP SOMETHIN' THAT'LL PLEASE THEM
WHY DO YA WANT TO DO THAT?
YA SEE, IT'S LIKE THIS. LAST WEEK WE BORROWED THEIR LAWN-MOWER AN BUSTED IT
THEN ME MOTHER BORROWED SOME EGGS FROM THEM. BUT THE ONES WE RETURNED SEEMED TO BE BAD ONES AN' NOT ONLY THAT, BUT THREE DAYS AGO I BUSTED ONE OF THEIR WINDOWS.
AN' JUST YESTERDAY OUR DOG KILLED A LOT OF THEIR CHICKENS. SO, YA SEE, WE JUST GOTTA THINK UP SOMETHIN' NICE TO PLEASE THEM FOR ONCE
LET'S GET THIS STRAIGHT. YA BUSTED THEIR LAWN MOWER; GAVE 'EM PUNK EGGS FOR GOOD ONES; BUSTED THEIR WINDOW, AN' YA DOG KILLED THEIR CHICKENS, RIGHT?
RIGHT.
AN' NOW YA WANT TO DO SOMETHIN' TO PLEASE THEM RIGHT?
RIGHT.
I GOTTA THINK THIS OUT
I GOT IT!! I KNOW WHAT TO DO.

HOW MILLIE KEEPS HER SUMMER FROCKS SMART LOOKING—by Suzanne Gay

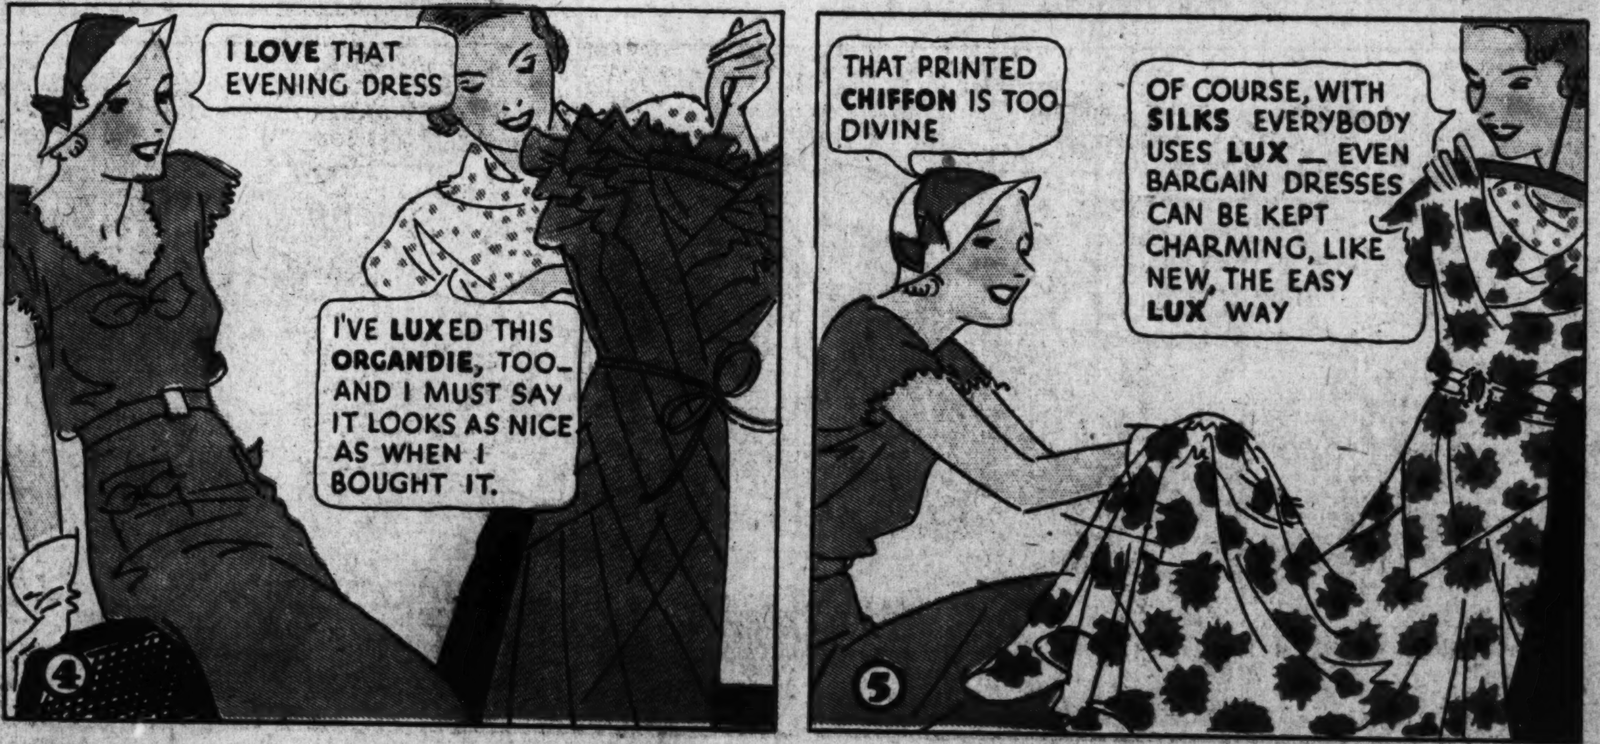
WHAT AN ADORABLE SUIT! THOSE NEW COTTONS ARE TERRIBLY SMART
YES, THEY'RE THE MOST MARVELOUS FABRICS—BUT YOU MUST BE CAREFUL HOW YOU WASH THEM. CAKE SOAP RUBBING OR ORDINARY SOAP MAY INJURE THEM
①
HERE'S MY ORANGE PIQUÉ TENNIS FROCK—I'VE WASHED IT HALF A DOZEN TIMES ALREADY IN LUX, OF COURSE. YOU CAN SEE IT LOOKS LIKE NEW
②
BUT MY COTTON DRESSES LOOK SORT OF MESSY AFTER A FEW WASHINGS. DON'T TELL ME THAT STRIPED LINEN'S BEEN WASHED!
OF COURSE—WITH LUX. YOU SHOULD TREAT THE NEW COTTONS AND LINENS LIKE FINE FABRICS—USE LUX. IT KEEPS THE COLORS AND THE LINES OF YOUR DRESSES JUST LIKE NEW
③



I LOVE THAT EVENING DRESS
I'VE LUXED THIS ORGANDIE, TOO—AND I MUST SAY IT LOOKS AS NICE AS WHEN I BOUGHT IT.
④
THAT PRINTED CHIFFON IS TOO DIVINE
OF COURSE, WITH SILKS EVERYBODY USES LUX—EVEN BARGAIN DRESSES CAN BE KEPT CHARMING, LIKE NEW, THE EASY LUX WAY
⑤

Clothes cost money, so it pays to keep them like new with Lux. Clever girls who dress well on little money almost always use Lux.

Before washing, test the end of a sash or the inside seam of your dress in water. If it's safe in water it's safe in Lux. Use lukewarm Lux suds, rinse well and knead out the water with a towel. Press on the wrong side.

This easy way keeps silks, woolens and the smart new cottons color-fresh—perfect in fit and texture. Avoid ordinary soaps . . . these often contain harmful alkali. And avoid cake-soap rubbing. Use only Lux and protect colors, fabrics—avoid shrinking.

Anything safe in water is safe in LUX
